BIBLE QUESTIONS
QUESTIONS and Bible Answers
 If Parents will encourage children to look up and memorize the Bible Answers, it will prove a precious heritage to them in after years.
 How does God expect us to walk? —Gen. 17:1
 What will our Heavenly Father give us? —Luke 11:13
 To whom, and for what sum did Judas sell his Master? —Matt. 26:14-16

CONSTITUTION DAY.
 For several years the American Bar Association and the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution have undertaken a nation-wide observance of the anniversary of the adoption of the constitution of the United States, September 17, the national officers of these associations have urged officers of Oregon organizations to make an extra effort this year for a fitting observance of this important day among all the people in all the towns and communities of the state.
 The Oregon committee believes that no argument for the observance of this day is needed by the residents of Oregon, but the following excerpt from the pamphlet of the American Bar Association is interesting:
 "Our Constitution is the Declaration of Independence writ large as the basic law of our American form of government. Having won their national independence, the colonists set about to establish a government on the foundations of liberty and equal justice which were voiced in the Declaration. They set about to form a national government which should above all else, in the words of the preamble to the Constitution, secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity. The Constitution, adopted in 1788, gave greater liberty and greater power to the citizens of the United States than any government had ever before given to the common people. It guarantees to every citizen, high or low, absolute freedom in thought and conduct, so long as he does nothing which interferes with the rights or liberties of a fellow-citizen.
 "The preamble to the Constitution and the first ten amendments, which constitute our bill of rights, are the expressions of the spirit and ideals that were voiced in the preamble to the Declaration. The bill of rights embodies 'certain inalienable rights' which American citizens enjoyed since the foundation of our government, which is as common as the air we breathe and which are, therefore, not appreciated as they should be. Can anyone estimate the 'blessings of liberty' that have been vouchsafed by the provisions imbedded in the Constitution, which protect the rights of private property, guarantee freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religious belief, insure the right of trial by jury, abolish all forms of nobility or social cast and give every citizen an equal chance in the race for life."

RELIEF FOR JAPAN
 The appalling loss of life and property in Japan from earth quake, fire and tidal wave, arouses a world wide sympathy, and arrangements are being rapidly made to furnish prompt relief. President Coolidge has issued an appeal that $5,000,000 be raised for this purpose. There is a silver lining to every cloud, and a generous response will reap an abundant harvest. The peace and prosperity of the world depend on international comity, and everything which binds nations together is of inestimable value. American aid extended at this juncture, will create a feeling of profound gratitude in the heart of Japan, who occupies a strategic position in the Orient. With Japan as our firm friend, the yellow peril will be greatly minimized for us. $5,000,000 given now, may save us from expending $500,000,000 in a war later on.

A Model Institution
 Owing to wise provisions laid down in the rules adopted by the first Board of Regents, the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth, has become a model educational institution for any one of the forty-eight states.
 The school is confined absolutely to training teachers for the public schools, all other professional training being excluded from its courses of study, as well as intercollegiate athletics.
 Whatever is required to equip a young man or woman to be an efficient instructor in any of the grades of the public schools, including good manners, conduct relation to pupils, and the community, is taught.
 There are four terms annually, the school operating through the year, and all entering must sign an agreement that they propose teaching in the public schools for at least two years, paying tuition of $24 a year.
 First class dormitory service of rooms, board and laundry, (no extras but ten cents an hour for an electric flatiron,) are furnished at six dollars a week, and the school makes a profit on that for upkeep.

STATE MARKET AGENT DEPARTMENT.
 Almost any product grown in sufficient quantity to make a volume of business can be marketed successfully under a selling agency if the organization is on strictly business and economical lines.

as local organizations form and gain strength they naturally federate and out of them come state-wide organizations. However, there can be too many and too small associations to succeed. One hundred cars of potatoes can be handled by an association almost as cheaply as one. There must be sufficient volume in sight to make a local association self sustaining.

Once more the importance of a solid, hard-headed, business organization should be impressed on the leaders of any proposed co-operative selling agency, be it great or small. It must be started right and run right or it will fail. Ability alone must count in working out a plan. Men who have made successes must be on the board of directors and they must use as much time and energy in the work as they did in their private business, which they made a success of. They must expect to work without much or any compensation until the organization is on its feet and the work then taken over in large part by the officials.

And the officials must be chosen by the same rule that other industries apply. They must know their jobs and be capable of working up a business. They must know how and when to sell products, never having too much of a commodity in one locality and too little in another. They must know the marketing, distribution, delivery, grading, financing. They must be trained specialists and they must be well paid.

And of equal importance to the permanent success of any co-operative organization is that of getting the products to the buying public at a price that will assure normal consumption. If the public will not buy, market and price control are of little value. The beaten path between the farm and the home must be shortened; the system of marketing revised, middle profits and expenses eliminated as far as possible and the products transported from the farm to the retailer by the shortest and cheapest course. The selling agency must be its own middle-man as far as possible and practicable. The middle profits must be materially cut down or the efforts to get higher prices for growers and lower prices for the homes will fail.

 Pamphlets regarding the new potato grading and inspection law, which will go into effect September 15, are ready for distribution and will be mailed to any one requesting them. Address State Market Agent, 723 Court House, Portland. These pamphlets give the four grades in full and the rules and regulations of the market agent.

Change in NEWS' Force
 To our great regret, Elliott Stewart who has been foreman in the NEWS' office, for over a year and a half, left Saturday. He has some business matters to attend to in Portland, and besides after so long a run without any let up, a change is desirable. Whether his departure will be permanent or only temporary, is not yet certain. Needless to say that in parting with him, we sincerely hope it is not goodbye but au revoir. Since we have been editor of this paper, we have been singularly fortunate in our help, but to none have we been so indebted as to Mr. Stewart. Thoroughly skilled in all the mechanical work, the appearance of the paper reached a high mark, and the job work showed he was master of his craft.

OREGON BLUE BOOK
 The NEWS has received a copy of the Oregon Blue Book from the secretary of state, Sam A. Koser. This a most valuable publication as it contains in tabulated and condensed form information about the departments, officials and institutions of the state as well as its counties and cities. An interesting new feature is a summary of Oregon's history by Prof. John B. Horner. A copy will be sent free upon application to the secretary of state at Salem, Oregon.

The threatened anthracite coal strike has been averted. Both the operators and the union officials evidently saw the light, that public opinion would not condone a strike if it were called.
 The Episcopal Church maintains some missions in the devastated area of Japan. According to cable advices, all the missionaries are safe, but two million dollars worth of church property was destroyed.

Wanted a Mayor
 Estacada is without a mayor, George E. Laurence having resigned Tuesday night. The vacancy may be difficult to fill, and any one willing to take it, should notify the council. He should be able to please everybody and be utterly impervious to criticisms.

 or mice after you use RAT-SNAP. It's a sure Rodent killer. Try a Pkg. and prove it. Rats killed with RAT-SNAP leave no smell. Cats or dogs won't touch it. Guaranteed.

WRITES OF LIFE IN PERSIA
 Customs and Costumes Were Something of a Shock to Observant American Visitors.

Arthur Sherburne Hardy writes interestingly of Persian costumes in "Things Remembered." He describes that of the ladies of the court as "a caricature of the costume of the corps de ballet, a dress which had captivated the shah's fancy when visiting Europe," and which spread generally through the upper circles of society. As to the costumes in general, the streets of Teheran offer none of those brilliant color effects which dazzle the eye in India, Mr. Hardy says.
 Among other national peculiarities which the author found it difficult to become accustomed to was the apparent complete disregard of the passage of time, and the popular disregard of the importance of punctuality. He tells some interesting things about Persian rugs, some of which, he says, receive treatment as regards dirt which would shock a New England housekeeper. For the Persian spreads his rug wherever he may happen to be, to rest, to eat, to say his evening prayer. The gloss which comes with age he attributes to his bare or stockinged feet.
