Word was received Saturday from W. L. Baughman that his wife passed away at Spokane, Washington, on January 30th, at 10:45 p. m. The funeral and interment was in that city, on Friday, February 1st. Mrs. Baughman had been in very poor health for a number of years. With her husband she came here about a couple of years ago from Escondido, California, having exchanged their property there for the George B. Weatherby place here. Her health at times improved and then there were relapses, and she gradually became weaker until the end came. About six weeks ago she went to stay with a sister at Kennewick, Wash. The sympathy of the community will go out to Mr. Baughman, who, with his daughter at Spokane survives her.

STATE MARKET AGENT DEPARTMENT.

BY C. E. SPENCE MARKET AGT.

The collapse of the farming industry has been bringing to light a world of facts and figures between the growing and consuming ends that are causing our greatest men to think and plan remedies. The papers and magazines of the whole country are now showing up the profits added between the farm and the consumers' tables are greater than the price paid the grower for the products. They are beginning to realize that such a top-heavy system will bankrupt the farming industry and indirectly paralyze other business branches.

The apple growers of the Pacific Northwest have at last found out that they must have one huge selling agency to market all their fruit, or they must quit the industry. It has taken them more than twenty years to face this fact and act. The formation of the gigantic organization is now under way.

For many years we have heard of the different cooperative associations that market apples, and much publicity has been given to their marketing systems. Of late, when the Hood River and other organizations have given it out that the apple growers will soon go broke unless the marketing situation changes, the people have been asking, "what's the matter with cooperation?"

At a recent meeting to form an all-northwest marketing association, this question was answered. It was brought out that the apple crop of the Northwest is 40,000,000 boxes and that but 6,000,000 boxes were handled by the various growers' organizations. The situation was, that 34,000,000 million boxes in the hands of the middle-men and speculators were fighting the 6,000,000 boxes controlled by various organizations. It should not have taken twenty years to discover how that fight would come out.

Fifteen per cent of the apple production, split up into various local selling agencies, was endeavoring to force a profit price on 100 per cent. It can't be done. Cooperators must realize what the word means. They must know that if they would fix a fair price on their own goods, they must control the sale of far more than 15 per cent of the crop.

How to Make Your Advertisements Pay.

(John James)

Few merchants really have the proper appreciation of what advertising means to them. A writer in an exchange puts it in this way:

If a man spoke to his wife only once a month, or every two months, she wouldn't recognize his voice, says an exchange. Yet some business men advertise once a month, or every two months, and then wonder why they don't get more business. Advertise once a week. Remember "the used key is always bright." The store that tells the public what it is doing every day is the store that gets there in the end—New Bethlehem (Pa.) Leader.
