LOGAN NEWS

CARVER STATE BANK
Mrs. Vernie Duus was not at all well yesterday.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gartner motored out from Portland last Sunday to call on Mr. Lindsay.
Mrs. O. E. Smith visited Tuesday, her sister Mrs. Stubbs at Gresham, and attended the O. E.
S. chapter that evening.
Mrs. Bina Douglass Bell arrived on the 8:30 car Tuesday morning and spent the day with her mother, Mrs. Viola Douglass.
Mr. and Mrs. Russel Betts and children of Willamette, were here a few days last week, visitors at the home of Mrs. Betts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Reagan.
Rev. B. F. Clay and wife had a delightful visit from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Frost of Gladstone.
They were members of the church where Mr. Clay formerly preached.

Dave Cutting and daughter Anna, who reside in California, are here visiting at the home of his nephew, Charlie Hicinbothen.
They came to visit Mr. Cutting's brother at Molalla, who has been very ill.
W. F. Cary went to Portland Monday evening to be the guest of the officials of the P. R. L. & P. company, and witness their picture, "Modern Pioneers," which is being given at the Liberty this week.

Curt Sagner, the efficient carrier for the Oregonian and Telegram, has been off duty this week, owing to an attack of the flu. He is better and expects to be on the job again today.

The NEWS acknowledges with thanks to George H. Himes, a copy of the December Quarterly of the Oregon Historical Society.
As usual it is replete with interesting matter concerning the early history of the state.

Walter Millner has sold his residence property in Estacada, to Plus Cahill, and contemplates going on to a farm. Mr. Millner has been working for a number of years in the power houses for the P. R. L. & P. company, and is making the change on account of his health, it is said.

CURRINSVILLE ITEMS

The sick in this neighborhood are all improving slowly and we hope to soon see them all out again.

Currinsville was visited by a shower of rain this week.
W. M. Wade is now in full charge of the Currinsville store during the absence of the owner who left Wednesday morning for his old home at French, Idaho.

E. E. Erickson butchered some nice hogs Tuesday.
Miss Ethel Hale is home for a while recuperating from an operation.

The Currinsville store is getting lumber on the ground at Currinsville station, to build a warehouse. This is needed very badly at this place to accomodate outgoing shipments.

Arthur Smith is working for Douglass Brothers at present.
H. H. Carlin is delivering grain to Estacada last week.

Lester Hale, W. O. Echols and Lawrence Webber are shipping a car load of telephone poles this week.

Sidney Smith was in Currinsville Monday, transacting business.

DOVER DOINGS

Twelve or more men have been donating their time the last few days, to the planking of Bear Creek hill. With the fixing of this piece of road, the last obstacle in the way of cars getting in and out throughout the year, is removed.

"Buddie" Campbell, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Campbell of the Pugh Lumber company, has been seriously ill with pneumonia, but is improving now as rapidly as possible under the care of Dr. Hughes of Gresham.

Edwin Seward, who has been ill for several weeks, is now able to be around.

The De Shazer families, who have been under quarantine for small pox, are now out and around. Ralph and Raymond returned to work at the Douglass mill on Monday.

The measles epidemic has worn itself out and the children are all back in school. Miss Smart had but one pupil for awhile.

L. W. Elliott is in Salem working for the state on the new income tax. Victor Bodley is acting as chairman of the school board during Mr. Elliott's absence.

H. L. Shaw and grandson Roy Rich, paid a hurried visit to Dover on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Anderson are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter.

Ralph and Raymond De Shazer each took a load of dressed pork to Portland for their father one day last week.

Bazaar and Food Sale

The W. C. T. U. will have their cooked food sale and bazaar Saturday, February 9 at the People's store, instead of the 22nd, as previously announced. The proceeds will go to the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis. A generous patronage will be appreciated. Come early and get first choice.

A Case of Private Schools

Private schools have recently been under fire in several states.
In Oregon a law is actually on the statute books which after 1926 will require all children between the ages of 8 and 16 to attend the public schools, and similar laws have been proposed elsewhere. The principal argument against the private school is that it teaches something else than "one hundred per cent Americanism" or—which may amount to the same thing—that it is undemocratic. An editorial article in the bulletin of the Philips Exeter Academy gives an interesting answer to this last charge.

It is true, says this article, that "there are fewer boys from the laboring classes proportionately in Exeter than in city high schools. But to characterize such schools as "class institutions" because the fathers of most of the students are engaged in business or the professions "is to use a term in a highly specialized sense." It is also true that the private schools are primarily preparatory for the colleges and universities, whereas the public schools necessarily adapt their curriculum to the large majority of their students who will not go beyond the high school.

But though this makes the private school student less representative than the public school student it need not make him less democratic. In a private school of high standards he is commonly judged not for what his parents are but for what he himself is. He is almost completely cut off from his old social connections and must stand or fall according to the impression he makes upon his teachers and fellow students. On the other hand, "cliques in the high school generally follow the social lines of the community," so that the theoretical democracy of the classroom does not always exist in the students' outside activi-

The private school, it is further pointed out, can be more experimental than the public school, and its "treasures of tradition," its "spiritual endowment," have an influence that goes beyond its walls. These make for variety and for progress. Many of the ideas which have been most useful in breaking the hard shell of educational dogmatism in the public schools have originated in the private schools.

One need not be a special pleader for the private school in order to see that it is useful as a safeguard against the shortcomings of compulsory education.—N. Y. Herald.

OREGON NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Important Occurrences of Past Week Briefly Compiled for Our Readers.

Hearing of the application of the Home Telephone & Telegraph company of southern Oregon for increased rates has been set for February 18 at Medford.

Circulation of petitions was started at Astoria seeking the recall of Wayne Maunala, city commissioner from the third ward, and John Arnold, city commissioner from the fourth ward.

Prune-growers of the Willamette valley and Umpqua districts who are affiliated with the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association will meet in Salem within the next ten days for the purpose of reincorporating the organization under the new contracts to be signed up, effective January 1, 1925.

Officers throughout the state have been notified by Sam A. Koser, secretary of state, that his department has cleared away the congestion resulting from applications for 1924 motor vehicle license plates, and that from now on they are free to use their own judgment in the enforcement of traffic regulations.

Lumber exports from Portland for January climbed to 56,037,661 feet, valued at $1,673,347, establishing a record for a single month's business surpassing that of December, with 42,562,502 feet. January's lumber exports far surpassed those for January 1923, which were 18,049,859 feet, valued at $465,709.
