Bundle Day

Bundle Day for the Near East Relief is May 21st. Last year during the exile of more than a million people from Asia Minor 500,000 people were given protection by means of used American clothing. A Portland man, Barclay Acheson, now in the Near East writes that this clothing in many cases meant the difference between life and death. Used clothing for many women and children is greatly needed, as approximately one half million people are still unable to find permanent homes in Greece and reliable reports indicate that the suffering is intense.
