24 OREGON COUNTIES HAVE COUNTY AGENT

All Oregon counties with agricultural agents last year have continued for this year and three additional counties have joined the group Lane, Coos and Grant. The first two are renewing the plan after 12 years' trial except for the last two years, while Grant is trying it out for the first time.
The counties carrying the agent policy cooperate with the state college extension service and the federal department of agriculture. The extension service includes 30 of the 36 counties in the state in this cooperative work, which is now closely organized in four-fifths of the counties.—O. A. C. Inds. Journalism.

THE ESTACADA HOTEL
SAY, PEOPLE!

IT is a lamentable fact and they do do it.—If you want no business get sore and stop advertising in your local newspaper. We believe it pays to advertise and our house is well patronized and everyone here is happy—of course we deliver the goods and serve the best of everything, for it pays.—AND as usual our rooms and linen are above reproach.

CORDIAL WELCOME TO ALL

THE FORD WEEKLY PURCHASE PLAN

Detroit, Michigan, March 3, 1925.—Families of moderate or limited means, who heretofore hesitated about purchasing cars, are coming into the automobile buying field in greater numbers than ever before, if records of the Ford Motor Company's Weekly Purchase Plan may be taken as an indication.
The plan, launched not quite two years ago, was started chiefly to give such people an opportunity to enjoy the benefits and pleasures of motor car transportation and those taking advantage of it are growing in numbers every day. It is simple, the prospective purchaser making weekly payments of an amount best suited to his individual means. These payments become part of a bank account until such time as the purchaser has a sufficient sum to take delivery of his car.
Details of the operation of the plan, as just given out by the company, show that from a comparatively few daily enrollments during the first month, the number has steadily risen until now more than seven hundred people are enrolling every day throughout the country, a rather remarkable public endorsement of the plan.
The records also show that there are at present more than 110,000 persons on the Weekly Purchase Plan roll and that more than 165,000 already have received their car under the plan.
These figures seem to bear out predictions made when the plan was inaugurated, that it would exert a wide influence toward lessening extravagant buying with its consequent embarrassments, and instead afford a practical means for car ownership in which all members of the family can participate.

A Rival of Tillamook

Wisconsin is credited with having the largest cooperative cheese selling agency in the United States. It has been in successful operation for eleven years and has handled 154,000,000 pounds of cheese, valued at $34,000,000. A remarkable fact in connection is that it cost but 2.89 cents on each dollar's worth of product to handle the big business.
Over Three Billion Dollars
Those in Oregon who have become discouraged over failures of co-operative organizations, and who say "it won't work", should get new hope from government facts and figures which state that the total sales of farmer organizations this year will total more than three billions of dollars. While some states lag behind, the cooperative movement generally is going ahead with amazing progress. Farmers are realizing that they have the power in organization to protect their industry; they are avoiding early mistakes, getting their organizations onto sound business foundations and going ahead.

The following have recently purchased Chevrolet cars of the Cascade Motor Company: Bert Rosebery, of Porter-Carstens, a roadster; Geo. Cooke of Garfield, a roadster, and Leslie Beckgrin, a sedan.

FARM REMINDERS

European canker is wide spread in western Oregon, occasionally causing severe damage to certain pear varieties. Specimens of pear cankers may be referred to the experiment station at Corvallis for free diagnosis. These cankers increase from year to year. Control consists in the thorough cutting out and disinfection of the existing cankers, followed by a summer Bordeaux spray as employed for anthracnose.

The object of spraying for fungus diseases is to cover all exposed surfaces with a fungus poison, which will kill the disease spores that are carried to the plant an thus prevent infections. Thoroughness in spraying is essential to success says O. A. C. experiment station. Any bit of unprotected surface will be an open port of entry for diseases.

Orchards of Oregon stone fruits that are subject to brown rot should be protected against early infections originating from the spore cups developed by the old mummies in the ground, says the experiment station. Continuously harrowing the orchard soil throughout the blossom period when these cups are developing will destroy them and thus prevent spore discharges. This stirring of the soil should be repeated every two or three days.

All shrivelled fruit and dead twigs and spurs left in the top of Oregon prune, apricot and cherry trees should be removed at pruning time, says the experiment station, as they may be a serious source of blossom blight infection if left on the trees.

The novice gardner will find a great many hopeful points for the control of insect pests in O. A. C. Extension Bulletin 325, "Insect Pests of Truck and Garden Crops." This bulletin will be mailed free on application to the college.—O. A. C.

STRAY SHOT BREAKS WINDOW

Sunday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Allen were sitting in their living room a crash was heard and the large front window pane was found to have been broken. It was at first thought that it was the result of a missile from a sling shooter or a stray ball but later while Mrs. Allen was cleaning the room a flattened bullet was found. This had evidently been fired from a high powered gun and had no-doubt traveled a considerable distance. Fortunately the shot fired at a supposedly safe range had met with nothing to stop its terrific speed and finally ended its course with no more serious result than a broken window pane.
It is understood that a number
