ESTACADA STUDENTS ENTER INDUSTRIAL ARTS TEST

The Industrial Arts department of the Estacada high school has assisted the school of vocational education of the Oregon Agricultural college in perfecting a standard industrial arts test. The students of the Estacada high school made a good showing in these tests, ranking third in first year shop work, fourth in third year shop work, and eighth in first year mechanical drawing.

The O. A. C. Industrial Arts comprehension tests were sent out to all the first class districts of the state, 600 students in all taking the tests. These tests were returned to the college for scoring. They were all scored by the same answers, thereby giving a fair rating to each school taking part in the making of the test.

O. C. Beck ranked first in the Estacada high school in the first year shop work test. S. W. Burnett ranked first in second year shop work and L. R. Underwood in the third year shop work. J. H. Scott ranked first in the first year mechanical drawing.

These tests will be printed and available to all schools of the state next year. When a school uses these tests, it is possible to determine the value of the instruction given in the subject by comparison with the other schools of the state.—Department of Industrial Journalism, O. A. C.

A new Hot Point Electric range has been installed in the kitchen of the Estacada Hotel which greatly increases the facilities for the kind of service this hotel always gives.

Mrs. W. W. Rhodes accompanied by Estella Hansen visited Oregon City on Monday and brought Mildred Rhodes home with them.

COUPLE WEDDED FIFTY YEARS GIVES PARTY

The celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Currin was a most pleasing affair of Saturday when their seven children and their families, including ten of twelve grandchildren, together with a number of other relatives and friends gathered and enjoyed a sumptuous dinner in the afternoon at their residence on west Powell street. Mr. Currin is a native of this state, but his wife was born in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and the couple were married in 1875 in the neighborhood where the district of Damascus is now located. They formerly came from Currinsville, near Estacada, and have resided in Gresham for about ten years.

The children presented their parents with a handsome tea set and also with a radio receiving set as a remembrance of the happy occasion. The children, who were all present, were Hugh Currin of Pilot Rock, Ore.; Mrs. W. A. Wilcox, Estacada; Mrs. Jessie Benefiel and Mrs. Carl Hoppold of Wasco, Ore.; Mrs. Prewitt Cox of Heppner; Mrs. Josephine Supple, Portland, and the Misses Mabry and Virginia Currin of Gresham.

Vast Fortunes Theirs for Few Brief Hours

"I was a millionaire on paper for a brief few hours," said a clerk in a leading brokerage house and he added, "as a matter of fact I did not know I had been a millionaire until the chief bookkeeper shoved a paper under my nose and commanded me to sign on the dotted line. I then observed that I had held 75,000 shares of leading industrial stock overnight, the certificate being in my name, and that I was about to sign away nearly $3,000,000. The thrill was brief."

In many brokerage houses everybody from the office boy up temporarily has much wealth in his or her name. Some years ago a certain house had put ten thousand shares of a Standard Oil stock in a clerk's name. When the stock clerk came with the customary waiver for the erstwhile shareholder to sign, he was home on Long Island, sick.

A hurry call revealed he was dangerously ill and in no condition to sign anything and would not be for some while; in fact, the doctor said, "I hope we can save him."

He came around and signed the paper some weeks later, but he had actually been the possessor of $350,000 of stock for that time and if he had died, the firm would have had to go through some legal gestures to unravel the red tape around an unindorsed certificate.—Wall Street Journal.

Snappy Comment on Odd Newspaper "Ads"

London Paper—"Wanted, a second-hand terrestrial globe." Not the first man who wanted the earth, or was willing to take it "as is."

Ad in "Golf"—"To increase your scores Wear Blank's Plus-fours." Easy enough increasing one's scores; the job is to lower them.

Birmingham Paper—"Officer's wife would like jolly lady by birth to share modern house." The only lady thus qualified we ever heard of was Beatrice, who was "born in a jolly hour; there was a star danced and under that I was born."

New Zealand Paper—"Why rent your garments elsewhere when our up-to-date laundry can do the work more effectively?" But why rent your garments at all, when the Scriptural injunction is to rend your hearts instead?—Boston Transcript.

Classification of Teas

Teas are classed as green and black, according to color, flavor and mode of preparation. The leaves for green tea are heated or roasted slightly in shallow pans over a wood fire almost as soon as gathered, after which they are rolled with the hands upon a table to decrease the moisture and to twist them. They are again roasted and quickly dried. The leaves for black tea are spread out in the open air for some time and then tossed with the hands until flaccid, roasted a few hours in a soft and moist state. They are finally dried over a charcoal fire. The operation of rolling and roasting is sometimes repeated several times until the leaves have become the proper color.

City May Have Been Myth

The ancient city of Troy is supposed to have occupied a slight elevation near the foot of Mount Ida, in Mysia, and nearly surrounded by the River Scamander, but its location is in dispute and some even doubt that it ever existed. The founding of the kingdom is ascribed to Teucer, whose grandson was Troas, who was the father of Ius, who called the city Ilium after himself and also Troja after Troas, his father. The classic poets say that the walls of the city were built by the magic sound of Apollo's lyre. The date of the taking of the city after a ten-year siege is usually placed at 1184 B. C.
