GET BEHIND TAX REDUCTION

Representatives of 12 Western states are meeting in Portland, Oregon, this month to discuss ways and means of reducing taxation. Each state representative will bring a report covering activities in his state. Legislative accomplishments are to be reviewed as part of the program of uniform state legislation governing taxation. Among the principal subjects to be discussed are: The Indiana plan to appeal from local tax levies and bond issues, the overlap of state and federal inheritance and estate taxes, public debt as it is affected by the serial bond law, proposed uniform state legislation for 1927, methods of presenting tax facts to the public, and means of making the state tax payers' associations more effective. This is a long step in the right direction. It is only by concerted effort that state and local taxes will be finally reduced.

Oregon woolgrowers still have 10,000,000 pounds of unsold wool on hand.

CLUB WORK IN PICTURES

When the two reels of boys' and girls' club work at the county fairs of Lane, Tillamook and Clackamas, and at the state fair, are filmed and added to the four already finished and turned over to the Agricultural college the set will be the most complete ever taken of club work anywhere. This enterprise is carried on by the Southern Pacific as its contribution to the welfare of the state in general and to promote club work in particular.

R. E. Kelly, manager of the development work of the company, after a study of club work in the West and Southwest, decided that this rather expensive bit of promotion work would be the best thing the company could do to boost the club work. To "take the guess out of farming" and help make farm life in Oregon prosperous and attractive was the aim of the director, and the college club men say the set does that very thing to a nicety.

"Oregon Junior Goes to College" is the main title. This young chap meets with an accident on a badly run down farm and in the ensuing vision sees his ideal farm achieved by good management. He is awakened and shown how to start by informing himself of approved methods, and soon finds himself on the campus with 500 other youngsters from all parts of the state.

Stock, seed, poultry and bread judging, managing animals and birds, planting potatoes and learning of their diseases, are some of the boys' activities. The girls learn sewing and cooking, laundering and home-making. All play and drill, eat and laugh, and have good times as well as profitable work.

The pictures will be shown in all parts of Oregon during the year, and it is the expectation and hope of the railway men that the number of club members will double next year. John M. Scott, C. M. Andrews, N. M. Moffitt, J. Caille, Lindsay Campbell and E. S. King attended the first showing of the four reels last week. U. E. F. Carlton of that state department of education was also present.

RECORD OUTPUT OF LIGHTING EQUIPMENT

Lighting equipment worth $205,866,000, or more than half a million dollars a day, was manufactured and distributed for use in American homes and factories last year, according to a report just issued by the Department of Commerce. This total marks a new high record for the industry, and is 13.8 per cent greater than that of 1923, itself a record year, with a total of $180,926,000.

Electric lamps were produced at the rate of more than a million a day during 1924, a new record which, with the increased output of lighting equipment, is evidence of the growing appreciation of adequate lighting in the homes and work places of the country.

The national expenditure for lighting appliances, both lamps and fixtures, is more than seven times what it was 20 years ago, and more than four times what it was 10 years ago, according to government estimates.

The value of lighting equipment alone, taken at 10-year intervals, is given as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Year and Value. 1904: $26,560,000. 1914: 45,378,000. 1924: 205,866,000.

Oregon potato crop is estimated at 4,950,000 bushels, 1,000,000 more than last year.

Great Majority of Men Only Think They Think

We pay a great deal of respect to "thinking" and seldom or never regard it as we do action as being foolish and wasteful. If you see a person in a thoughtful mood you tip-toe lest you disturb him. Yet those processes of thought can be as useless and idle as the aimless actions to which people so often take exception. Indeed, 90 per cent of the average man's thinking is idle and consists of musing, day-dreaming—or imagining himself in fine situations, or justifying himself to his own satisfaction. A large part of the balance of his thinking is given to finding reasons for his beliefs and his prejudices. Of actual creative thought there is in the life of the average man only a very small percentage. These are not the men, however, who make any original contribution. They accept things as they are. The marvels that make possible their comfort, their travel, their entertainment, their livelihood, all around them they never think about. All around them are wonders of nature and miracles of science into which they never inquire. Their religious beliefs, their political loyalties, their patriotism they have accepted from others; when they think it is only to find arguments and reasons for what they already believe.—Boys' Life.

Swiss Cheese Handled by Community Factory

Each year in the valley of Justitia in Switzerland the Kastellet is an event of prime importance, as that is the occasion when the production of cheese is distributed from the community factory to the owners.

The plan there is to have each owner bring to the supply of milk each day to the factory, where it is manufactured into cheese, the product being kept and ripened in the great storage houses.

A record is kept of the supply of milk each patron brings, then at the end of the summer season the settlement is made, the event being known as the Kastellet, or the division of cheeses, some patrons taking away wagon loads, others having but a small number, possibly enough to supply the family needs, but buyers are on hand to bargain for all surplus stocks left. The custom is for the people of the valley to turn out to the distribution.—Ohio State Journal.

Pity the Poor Groom

June is the ladies' month—the month of weddings. For the wedding is one of the occasions in life when the women have all the best of it, says the Youth's Companion. The whole ceremony revolves about the bride; even the bridesmaids outshine the groom and attract a share of public attention greater than his. No man is wholly at ease at a wedding—whether he appears as participant or as spectator; whereas no woman is without a certain passionate interest in any wedding, however humble. "The negligible groom" an American humorist has dubbed the man without whom there could be no ceremony. If he is negligible, the other men in the assembly must be virtually nonexistent!

Honest Confession

Edward is five years old. When his father came home from work one night he happened to walk around the house and noticed that a window was broken. "Who broke that window, Edward?" asked dad. "Mother said not to tell you anything about it until after you had your dinner," countered the young man. "Is that so?" queried dad. "And when were you going to tell me about it?" "I was not going to tell you about it at all," was the frank reply.

Limit to Microscopes

It is believed that the modern microscope has been perfected to about its limit of perfection, judged by physical laws. Scientists do not expect it can be improved for the reason that if an object is so small that only a few of the light waves of different lengths which combine to form white light are deflected or interrupted, the image that reaches the observer is indefinite or if the image is sufficiently minute no image whatever is formed. Because of these physical facts it is said mechanism cannot be devised to do more than it has to date.

Tradition Centuries Old

In an ancient tradition the stick, like fire, is a gift of the gods to man, or a property of divinity which somehow has fallen into his hands. The Egyptians used to celebrate the "festival of the staff or the sun" shortly after the autumnal equinox. It was supposed that the sun, being dimmer and shining a shorter time on winter days than in summer, was undergoing a period of weakness, so that a staff must have been provided to assist him on his journeys across the sky.

Early Upholstery

It was not until the time of the style which we call Queen Anne that the art of upholstering chairs and settees became widely known in England. The style was not, of course, contemporaneous with the queen of that name. During the time William, stadtholder of Holland, was king of England, and many Dutch upholsterers found their way to England and under their direction the English upholsterers became quite proficient.
