At a meeting of citizens of Heppner plans were made for a three-day rodeo at Heppner, September 24, 25 and 26. The Benson logging camps in the Clatskanie district have resumed operations after a shutdown of over a month.

The Marshfield Hotel company has decided to start work immediately on a $275,000 nine-story structure and finish it in 1926.

For the second time within a month a firebug attempted to set fire to the big plant of the Ewauna Box company at Klamath Falls.

About 50 tax clubs have been formed in Oregon as a result of tax reduction resolutions adopted recently by Portland business men.

With the opening of the next school year Willamette university at Salem will introduce a department of health service for all students.

Registration of non-resident motor vehicles in Oregon for the month of July totaled 19,953 and exceeded that for July 1, 1924 by 2983.

Fishing on Coos bay to this date has been the lightest in years, and some fishermen have put away their nets until conditions improve.

Fire which broke out in the drying room of the Thomas B. Kay woolen mills at Salem damaged the plant to the extent of approximately $1000.

The Pacific highway between Harrisburg and Junction City, which had been closed to traffic because of paving operations is now open for travel.

By a majority of 120 votes the citizens of Bend voted for the $500,000 Tumalo water project in an effort to better the drinking water of the city. In case an ordinance now being prepared by the Salem city attorney becomes a law all municipal prisoners will be assigned to employment on Salem streets.

An increase of 16.55 per cent in receipts at the Portland postoffice during July over the same month a year ago was reported by Postmaster-General Harry S. New.

Twenty-seven persons have died in Portland since December 1 as a result of traffic accidents, and of this number 10 deaths were directly attributable to intoxication.

The right to give testimony at an early hearing and to interfere in the application of the Oregon Trunk development program has been given to the Klamath irrigation district.

A large silver tuna fish, taken in a gill net in Yaquina bay by B. F. Wilkins created considerable comment among fishermen and sportsmen, it being the first ever caught there.

Increase in population, new building and natural development of home and business property during the last year has added about $15,000,000 to the assessed valuation of Multnomah county property.

The portion of the Willamette Valley Southern line between Yoder and Mount Angel was opened up again after being under an embargo since July 25, due to the dangerous condition of bridges.

The public service commission has issued an order granting permission to the state highway department to eliminate two grade crossings over the tracks of the Southern Pacific company near Moon, Benton county.

The shipping of the 1925 crop of prunes has started in Milton-Freewater district of Umatilla county and will continue until the crop is cleaned up. Growers expect to harvest about 600 carloads of the fruit this year.

Nathan Starkey and his 9-month-old child were killed, and Jess Wildard Starkey, 10 years of age, suffered serious injuries as the result of an automobile accident on the Pacific highway, nine miles south of Salem.

The county court for Morrow county, taking action on a petition presented by more than 25 per cent of the qualified electors of the county, ordered the submission of a proposition to issue road bonds to the amount of $550,000, to the voters of a special election to be held on the 14th of September.
