The hardware store owned by C. V. Carmichael at Monitor, 12 miles south of Canby, was destroyed by fire with a loss of $10,000.

An increase of at least 20 per cent in the entering class is indicated by records at the registrar's office of Oregon Agricultural college.

The Portland community chest campaign this year will open Monday, November 16, and is scheduled to close Tuesday, November 24.

Threshing was delayed in Oregon by rain, but in many localities is practically complete, says the weekly crop summary of the weather bureau.

One thousand ninety-six new students have applied for admission to the University of Oregon for the fall term, 144 more than applied a year ago.

Roger D. Pinneo, traffic manager for the port of Astoria for the last five years, has written to the port commission expressing his desire to resign.

The largest salmon hatchery in the southwestern part of the state is to be established on a tributary of South Coquille river, about 3 1/2 miles from Forest.

F. S. Hinkle of Corvallis was shot and killed on the Yachats river. It was stated that Hinkle was moving in the brush and was shot when mis taken for a deer.

Forest fire danger is not yet over in western Oregon notwithstanding the recent heavy rainfall, according to Nelson F. Macduff, supervisor of the Cascade forest.

The Eugene Farmers' creamery of Eugene has been awarded first prize in the creamery butter competition at the California state fair at Sacramento, according to word received.

Offers of 23 cents have been made for new crop Oregon hops, and a limited amount of business has been done in clusters at that price, but growers as a rule are holding out for 25 cents.

Railroads operating between Salem and Portland filed with the public service commission new tariffs reducing materially the rates on canned goods in carload lots between the two points.

Wilbur Burgeis, 41, one of the owners of the Burgeis-Evans sawmill near Ngl, 20 miles west of Eugene, was killed when he fell upon the main drive belt and was thrown against a pile of timber.

An indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned by the Polk county grand jury against W. R. Lloyd, who is alleged to have shot and killed Clinton I. Bann of Independence September 1.

Under supervision of Tom Craig, assistant to Matt Ryckman, acting superintendent of hatcheries, 1,817,000 trout were planted last week in the McKenzie river, creeks flowing into it and nearby lakes.

Frank Way, wealthy central Oregon sheep owner, was found guilty of man slaughter by a jury at Klamath Falls following his trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of Timothy Murphy, Klamath sheepman.

Whether the so-called loopvent plumbing system permitted by the Portland plumbing code is of sufficiently high standard to comply with the state plumbing code is to be determined by a committee of three competent plumbers.

Evidence of what is thought to have been a murder, perhaps committed within the past year, was unearthed by road laborers on the McKenzie pass highway near Lost lake, when the skull of a man and a pair of overalls were dug up by the workers.

Business of mills of the West Coast Lumbermen's association was not so active in the week ending September 5 as for the preceding week, 107 mills reporting sales amounting to 106,491, 914 feet, manufacture of 108,134,744 feet and shipment of 97,859,036 feet.

Days of Life Should Not Be All Routine

Life consists of days, not years. Days are all that we're sure of. Too many of us drift along and forget the approach of that final event called Death. Time is everlasting, but you and I have only a tiny bit of it. Herbert N. Casson writes in Forbes Magazine. What we would do, we must do quickly. Time is the stuff that Life is made of. There is nothing in the world so precious and so scarce as time. We have no days to waste. We need every one of them to build our lives with. No one, ever, has too many days when he comes to the end of his life. That is why we should not allow a day to be all routine. That is why we should always put to a good use the two or three hours before bedtime. That is why we should end every day with a little friendship, or music, or study, or fun, or family sentiment. Never a day without a laugh, except when sorrow comes. Never a day without a book. Never a day without a friend. That is the way to be sure, every evening, that you have come to the end of a perfect day.

British Bird Sanctuaries

Farne islands, off the Northumbrian (England) coast, have been handed over to the national trust for preservation as a bird sanctuary. The islands number 15, and have an area of 90 acres. The regular breeding population includes gulls of three species, terns of four, auks of three, cormorants of two, waders of two, and one species of duck. The islands form one of the most southerly stations in the breeding range of the older duck. The most interesting species, perhaps, is that of the roseate tern, now found only in a few British localities. As a breeding place for sea fowl the Farne islands have no equal around the British coast, and even the great bird stations among the Scottish isles lack one or two of the species represented here.

The uniformed brass band of Estacada will furnish music at the Springwater fair. This band is less than two years old and has twenty-six performers. Few cities the size of Estacada can boast of such an organization of musical talent.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Savier's little boy who has been sick with intestinal flu for a short time died on Monday.

Testing Gold

To test gold, dig the point of a knife into it, and if it powders it is not gold. Gold is richly yellow, but to tell it from pyrites when in very minute flecks, turn it so that the light catches it from various directions. Gold will not alter in shade, but pyrites does. A drop of nitric acid will cause a fuming on pyrites, but does not affect gold.

You must pan creek sands and gravel to find gold. It may be near the surface, but generally the heaviest deposits of placer gold are on and close to bed rock, which may be a few feet, or many feet deep. Gold placers are best found in a big bend in a creek, which allows it to be deposited, or on the upper side of a reef or ledge crossing the stream. Sometimes it is a dry deposit, up where the stream formerly flowed, and is called a "bench" placer.—Victor Shaw, in Adventure Magazine.

Mercury

Mercury is a metallic element existing in a liquid form except when exposed to a very low temperature. It is commonly called quicksilver. It is a metallic element, just as iron or gold is an element, that is, it cannot be subdivided into anything else; but there are many compounds of mercury, that is, mercury in chemical combination with other things such as compounds of mercury and oxygen, mercury and nitrogen, etc. A large part of the world's supply of mercury is obtained in California where ores are found containing mercury in combination with other matter, separated by various chemical processes. Gold dust readily unites with mercury forming an amalgam. The mercury is afterwards removed by distillation.

CHEVROLET CO-OPERATES

The Chevrolet Motor company has announced a co-operative advertising campaign in connection with its large dealer organization.

This campaign is a further move by the Chevrolet Motor company in its effort to obtain the most economical distribution of its product. It is probably the most comprehensive and efficient of the great advertising campaigns in the automotive industry. Approximately 4,000 newspapers are being used.

Under this plan the Chevrolet Motor company in reality has become the advertising department of each of its dealers, whom it provides with a highly efficient and consistent advertising campaign.

In addition, it becomes possible to key local advertising with national advertising and thus broadcast a single advertising message at one time in both national and local publications.

The co-operative feature of the plan does not apply in a fundamental way to the national advertising used by the Chevrolet Motor company in the principal magazines of the country. This advertising is paid for from the general advertising appropriation of the company without expense to the dealers. The dealers continue to receive gratis the sales literature and the effective window display service of the company. These displays supplement the unified advertising plan.

In brief, the plan is this: The Chevrolet Motor company charges a small amount for each car shipped to dealers and credits it to the Chevrolet Dealers' Advertising fund. To this fund the company then adds a substantial contribution from its own advertising budget.

The company plans the dealer advertising campaigns, buys newspaper space, purchases and prepares art work, sends the advertisements to the newspapers, directs the printing and display of outdoor advertising, handles invoices and pays bills. The dealers thus are relieved of a vast amount of detail.

A desirable angle of the plan is a guarantee to each dealer that every dollar which he pays into the fund will be spent in his district for newspaper or outdoor display space, all of the costs of preparing and placing the advertising matter being more than covered by the Chevrolet Motor company's contribution to the fund.

In furtherance of the plan the Campbell-Ewald company, which serves the Chevrolet Motor company as advertising agents, and is one of the five largest advertising companies in the United States, has sent out from its own organization 14 field men who are located at strategic points throughout the country. These men bring the dealers into close personal contact with the main organization in working out advertising problems and assist in individualizing the dealers' advertising consistent with the program of a united appeal.

The individual requirements of each dealer are analyzed and he is consulted in the choice of media in his territory. The dealers are kept in constant touch with the advertising plans and are given advance proofs of all newspaper advertisements.

"The guarantee to the dealers that their entire contribution will be spent for advertising space in their districts I regard as second in importance only to the feature of unified appeal," said J. E. Grimm Jr., advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor company. "It should be understood that this is not national advertising used locally; it is local advertising nationally directed."

COUNTY FAIR TO OPEN AT CANBY WEDNESDAY

The Clackamas county fair which opens Wednesday, September 23d, will be one of the great events in the history of this county. There will be a feature of some kind for every class of citizenship, possibly we might except the bootlegger or moonshiner, not being interested in the success of that class we will not make any comment. Everybody is interested in progress of our boys and girls, and the club work of these young folks will be a feature worthwhile your attention. You will find some one of these young people represented in some line of human endeavor.

The horse racing will be a feature for the stock man, sportsman, in fact, everyone who loves a fine animal. Whether you believe in horse racing or not, it is most interesting to watch the animal work. If you will watch the horse when he comes up to the starting line, and you say the animal does not think, your own head needs fixing. You will see that horse at the Clackamas County fair.

You should not miss September 25 at the fair as on that day there will be more to be seen than at any other time. The many moving picture machines that will film some of the most important features of this great show surely should interest you.

Eastern Clackamas should turn out and help to make the gathering a matter of history for this county and of interest for those that come after we have quit the stage of action.

CAN MONTANA RANGE HORSES

The work of rounding up the cayuses running wild over the plains has continued into the summer and, according to local railway men, the number already shipped to the meat cannery at Rockford, Ill., cannot be estimated. Thousands, however, are known to have gone out of single counties.

A recent survey in Park and Sweet grass counties by F. M. Nelson, deputy state veterinarian, disclosed that there are about 4,000 unowned horses in these two counties alone and that they are consuming about $200,000 worth of grazing land. A movement is soon to be launched there, railway officials say, to rid that region of the pests.

The law which legalizes the rounding up and shipping of the cayuses was passed at the last state legislature. It is outlined as an act declaring abandoned horses running at large upon the open range of the state of Montana a public nuisance; and it provides for the roundup and sale of such horses. The law requires that before a roundup can be held by the county commissioners a petition must be signed by at least 10 responsible property owners and filed and before a sale may be held a 10-day period must elapse in which the owners can claim their horses.—Anaconda (Mont.) Standard.

Boys and girls, attention! Be sure to see the club work displays at the county fair this year. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week.—Adv.
