THE TRIUMPH OF RIGHTEOUSNESS.

Millions Now Living Will Never Die.

Mr. C. J. LeRoy of Portland, Oregon, one of the speakers for The International Bible Students Association, will lecture at the Liberty Theater at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, October 11, on the above topic. One of the texts discussed will be that of St. Paul to the Corinthians, "For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." 1 Cor. 15:25, 26.

It is very apparent that the Lord meant His disciples to understand that sometime God's will shall be done on earth as it is done in heaven, else He would never have taught them so to pray. We cannot suppose that persons die in heaven. It follows that the time will come when they will not die here.

A strange impression has gotten abroad that in some unexplained way death is really a friend and not an enemy; but the Scriptures do not so present the matter. Viewing prophetically the death of the children that would be slain by Herod's soldiery at the time of the slaughter of the babes in Bethlehem, the prophet Jeremiah says:

"A voice was heard in Ramah (a suburb of Bethlehem), lamentation, and bitter weeping; Rachel weeping for her children refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not. Thus saith the Lord, Refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears; for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the Lord; and they shall come again from the land of the enemy."—Jeremiah 31:15, 16.

We know how it is that those who are in the land of the enemy, in the sleep of death, are to come forth from that land. It will be through the resurrection power of our Lord, even as He said: "I am he that I live, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell (the grave) and of death."—Revelation 1:18.

The possession of the keys of death and the grave implies their use, and we know the use that will be made of them, for the Master said, "The hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves, shall hear his voice, and shall come forth."—John 5:28, 29.

In symbolical language the same thought is expressed in the Revelation when St. John says: "Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire." (Revelation 20:14). The lake of fire simply signifies destruction. Hades (the grave) will be destroyed when all the dead in it have heard the Lord's voice and have come forth. But "death" will still have hold upon these, since every ache and pain and every mental and moral imperfection is a part of the inherited Adamic penalty.

The millions awakened will be still under condemnation, still in death; but in proportion as they render obedience to the terms of the New Covenant, progress will be made toward health, perfection and life, and at length all their imperfections will have been removed, either by lifting the one-time sinner up to perfection or in mercy blotting him out for ever, thus bringing in everlasting righteousness, on a permanent basis.

At the I. B. S. A. lectures the seats are free and there are no collections.

WHY THE BOYS LEAVE.

When a farmer's son finds out that the last middleman who sold a product raised on the farm received six and a half times as much as the grower received, after all the labor and risk, that boy naturally concludes that he would better be a middleman, says State Market Agent Spence.

When a father finds out that his share of the returns from a product he raised was only 15.4 of the final price, he naturally advises the boy to find some other business than farming.

R. F. Yoakum, former head of the Rock Island system, has been digging up some very interesting facts regarding the kiting of prices between the farm and the kitchen. He traced a ton of cabbage from the farm patch to the city home, with this result: The farmer received $16.14 for the ton and the consumer paid at the rate of from $60 to $75 for it. He traced a ton of tomatoes from the grower to the eater and he says the farmer got $11.75 for it while the home paid $100. He followed the trail of a shipment of watermelons from the raising ground to the last buyer. The grower received an average of 8 1/2 cents for each melon and the consumer paid 50 cents to $1.25 for them.

On the heels of Mr. Yoakum comes Franklin D. Roosevelt, who trailed a crate of celery from Norfolk, Va., to the home of the consumer in New York city. Here's the story: The celery grower received 40 cents for the crate—not the price he asked for it but the price fixed on it by the buyer—and this middleman passed it on to the second commission man for 60 cents. No. 2 re-sold it to another middleman chain link for 75 cents, who took his profit and pushed it along to No. 3 for 90 cents. As the crate neared New York three more middle interests held it up and took their profit toll. No. 4 sold it for $1.05 when it entered the Bronx, then No. 5 let the buyer of chain groceries have it for $1.25, who took his ten cents' rake-off and let the grocer have it for $1.35. Then it went to the ultimate consumer at $2.60.

"How much longer will the producer, who is robbed at his end, and the consumer, who is the goat at the other, stand for this middle-profit levy, when by simply organizing and cooperating they can eliminate at least half of the toll between them?" asks the market agent.

"If consumers were organized half as solidly for this purpose as they are to the trade organizations to which many of them belong, and the farmers were half as strongly organized as those who set prices for them, there wouldn't be eight profits taken from a product on its ride from the farm to the home," says Mr. Spence. "These organizations would reach out from both sides, cut out many of the unnecessary middle-handlings and profits, and the result would be higher prices to farmers and lower prices to consumers. When these middle profits can be greatly reduced or eliminated the result will be far greater consumption, better prices to growers, lower prices to eaters, better times for agriculture and trade in general. An official bulletin from the Department of Agriculture states that for the year ending June 30, 1925, the average net income from all farmers was $649, or $54 per month."

MARRIED

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Paddison was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday, October 4, when their daughter, Miss Naomi, was united in marriage to George V. Smith, of Eagle Creek, the marriage occurring on the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Paddison.

The impressive ring ceremony was read by Rev. John Dawson, Rector of The Good Shepherd church of Portland, who is an old friend of the family, having known the bride from infancy, in the presence of about 100 relatives and friends, the marriage taking place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Peters of Oswego on the violin, assisted at the piano by her sister, Miss Edythe Peters.

The bride, who came in on the arm of her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin crepe trimmed in lace, her tulle veil was wreathed with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia rosebuds, lilies of the valley and carnations.

The bride was attended by Miss Emily Bergen, as maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Lacey as bridesmaid.

Arthur Smith acted as best man for his brother, assisted by the bride's brother, Fred Paddison.

The bridal attendants wore Georgian gowns of pastel shades and the maid of honor carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and white asters, the bridesmaid carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The fireplace at one end of the living room was banked in green, in front of which a large white arch was formed, decorated in lavender and white, suspended from which hung a big white bell under which the bride couple stood.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were received.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in Toledo, Oregon.

The bride, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paddison is of a sunny disposition and is a popular girl at this place. She attended the Estacada high school and is a member of Eagle Creek grange.

The bridegroom is the well-known and respected son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, who have resided in Eagle Creek for many years. He is also popular among his group of friends.

Following the marriage ceremony a buffet luncheon, consisting of ice cream, cake and punch, was served.

Mr. Moreland has made a decided success of the trout hatchery at his present location, and in our estimation as well as that of others, who have some knowledge of the fish hatchery business, believe Mr. Moreland to be as well informed and as proficient in his profession as any man in this state.

COUNTY WILL RECEIVE $12,236 OF AUTO FUND

Clackamas Places Fourth in State in Appropriation of Money During 1925 Period.

SALEM, Sept. 25.—Clackamas county will receive a total of $12,236.97 as an appropriation from money received from motor vehicle licenses for the period from March 16 to September 12, according to a statement prepared by Sam Koser, secretary of state. The amount received by Clackamas is the fourth largest in the state, being preceded by Multnomah with $86,566.21; Lane, $11,800.91, and Marion, $13,198.23.

A total of $302,500 was apportioned to the state highway fund and $267,500 to the counties, for the period from March 16 to September 15 from monies received from motor vehicle and motor vehicle operator registrations. This is under the law whereby the monies are apportioned three-fourths to the highway fund and one-fourth to the counties in proportion as the counties contribute to the registration receipts and after certain deductions have been made.

The full total in cash that went into the hands of the state treasurer was $1,261,182.88 from which $1370 was deducted for refunds, duplications, etc., leaving gross receipts of $1,199,313.88. Administrative expenses were $129,813.83, leaving net receipts of $1,070,000, of which the apportionment to the counties and the highway fund was made.

The amounts received by each of the four leading counties and the highway fund from the business for such county were:

	County	Fund
Clackamas	$12,236.97	$36,710.91
Lane	14,800.91	44,402.81
Marion	13,498.23	40,494.68
Multnomah	86,566.21	259,698.64

PROMINENT YOUNG MAN DIES AS A RESULT OF WOUND.

Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow at 2 P. M. From Local Masonic Temple.

Joseph C. Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hedges, died in the hospital at Camp Lewis Saturday evening from the effects of a gunshot wound inflicted September 19 by J. Ingraham, an itinerant traveling in a wagon.

It seems that Mr. Hedges, who was motoring, slightly struck the wagon of Ingraham on the highway. Trying to make amends the young man got from his car to the road way and offered to pay for the damages that had been done.

Instead of meeting this approach in kind Ingraham fired upon Hedges, inflicting a serious wound in the face, and breaking a jawbone. Hedges was taken to the Camp Lewis hospital, and when the father returned from a trip there a few days later, the patient was considered out of danger. An operation had been performed and it was thought that the patient would surely recover. Saturday last J. E. Hedges, the father, received a wire that the son was in a dangerous condition from blood poisoning and again rushed to Camp Lewis. The end came later the same day.

When arrested and accused of doing the shooting Ingraham said that he had been bumped by several automobile drivers, and that he had determined to put an end to such things. It is considered that he was a man of violent temper and completely lost his self-control, with the result that he fired the shot that took a promising life.

Deceased was born in Oregon City, attended the high school here, spent four years in the University of Oregon at Eugene, graduating. From there he went to Yale and took the law course, graduating with honors at the end of the period. Out of school he made a business connection in Seattle, where he has since lived. He served as a lieutenant in the world war, going through without injury, only to be killed by an irresponsible character on the highway.

The remains arrived in Oregon City shortly before noon today (Monday) and were taken to the undertaking parlors of R. L. Holman & Son. The funeral will take place tomorrow (Tuesday) at 2 p. m. from the Masonic temple, with interment in the Masonic cemetery.

Deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hedges, by two sisters, Miss Dorothy and Janice Hedges, and by a brother, Dwight Hedges.—Banner Courier.
