DOUGLASS MILL
 About 2 o'clock Thursday morning the upper camp was awakened by the cry of fire. Ed Douglass' mill was on fire. Everyone rushed down there, but nothing could be done. The fire had too much head way, and the gasoline engine, used to run the pump, had been blown up, so much time was lost in putting in another engine before a stream of water was available. The fire was evidently set by some unknown persons who waited until the last light in camp was out before doing the dirty work. Mrs. Le Shaw was the first person to see the blaze. The planer was not molested. The steam engine was the only thing saved, and the extent of the damage done has not yet been fully determined. No insurance on the mill or machinery was carried. Ed has set his men to work clearing out a new mill site.

 Mr. and Mrs. Harold Graham and family were the week-end guests of Mr. Graham's uncle, J. O. Botkin. Mr. Graham is a popular baritone from Portland.
 Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Weatherby and son are departing some time this week for Escondido, Cal., where they will spend the winter with Mr. Weatherby's mother.

FARM REMINDERS.
 Losses in germination and stand of wheat caused by dipping the seed in formaldehyde or blucetone solution to kill smut have been done away with on hundreds of thousands of acres of Oregon wheat land by the use of the copper carbonate dust treatment. The copper carbonate is applied by special treating machines, the experiment station reports.

experiment station reports. An unusual outbreak of blossom blight and early brown rot attack on the green fruit occurred in many sections of western Oregon, due to the wet spring. This gave the disease a running start in prune and cherry orchards, and only the hot, dry summer and relatively dry conditions through harvest saved growers from enormous losses. Infected orchards need cleaning up this fall.

FARM POINTERS.
 By C. E. Spence, State Market Agent.
How to Use Concrete.—There are hundreds of ways and places where concrete may be used for economy and advantage on farms, in barns, silos, fence posts, septic tanks, hog wallows, floors, troughs, walks, manure pits, etc. If any farmer is interested, he may secure booklets on any particular use, without charge, by writing to the Portland Cement association, 1009 Gasco building, Portland, or the O.A.C., Corvallis. These booklets give estimates on cost, blue prints, how to mix and much general information.
Oregon, Seed Potato State.—Under the present seed certification law, Oregon is jumping to the front as a seed potato state, and many farmers in different sections are raising inspected stock to be certified to by the O.A.C. The county agent at Hillsboro reports the following farmers of Washington county whose fields of feed stock have passed first and second field inspections: R. W. McClure, Laurel; George Kirkpatrick, Glenn Kirkpatrick, Clarence Kirkpatrick, Sherwood; Otto Brose, John Strickler, Treber Bros., Donald Edy, W. C. Edy, Sherwood; Rowell Groner, Hillsboro; Ferdinand Herb, W. F. Crop, Ernest Marr, Banks; L. T. Finigan, George Allison, Roy Jaquith, F. C. Miller, Laurel; John Fisher, W. E. Peters, Walter Peters, Sherwood; K. S. Krantz, Beaverton; Werre Bros., Sherwood; John Lofis, Banks; H. J. Valentine, Beaverton, and J. S. Logan, Hillsboro.
Growers Holding Wheat.—Wheat shipments from the ranches to the Portland terminals are the lowest to date for many years, only about 20 per cent having been shipped. Farmers appear to be holding their grain for better prices.
 Fall cleanup of the farm, home garden and orchard will materially reduce the insect pests of the following season. Cutworms, grasshoppers and root maggots are destroyed by fall plowing and burning of the fence rows and ditch banks. San Jose scale, tent caterpillars, tree crickets, aphids, leaf hoppers and cicadas are destroyed by burning the prunings from the orchard, brush and bramble fruits. Gathering up and destroying crop remnants, litter, rubbish and weeds in the home garden destroy the hibernating places of such insects as the cucumber beetle and asparagus beetle.
