SUSPECT FIREBUG AT BLAZE
 Firebugs are suspected of setting the fire last Thursday morning at 2 o'clock which destroyed the Ed Douglass sawmill and planer, half way between Estacada and Sandy. Investigation showed the water connections of the plant cut off from the water supply source. The fact that the flames burst out in several parts of the mill also was deemed significant.

The mill was well equipped with water supply and hose, but with these useless, efforts of employees to check the fire were of no avail. Telephone connections are bad and no estimate of the loss can be obtained, although it is considered heavy. The mill had about a three months' run of timber available.

Mil men of the district have had considerable trouble with thieves in this direction recently, and it is considered possible that some of these thieves may have set the fire.

Mr. Douglass will rebuild, and is all ready actively engaged.

Interesting Egg Figures.

A Clackamas county man who runs 500 hens as a side line, sends in some interesting figures and comparisons. He states that the figures are based on his own flock, and while they may not apply to the other fellow's, yet he thinks they will largely, with the exception of those who specialize. He says that when his flock is in full laying in the spring, around 60 per cent production, it costs him 15 cents per dozen to produce eggs, and taking this as a basis he finds:

"I find that with 1000 hens laying 60 per cent, 50 dozen per day, that an advance of two cents per dozen would be $1, while with the same number of hens, pullets, in the low production period of the fall when prices are high, laying 18 per cent (as mine are now) that an advance of five cents per dozen would be only 75 cents. Two cents per dozen advance in heavy production when eggs are low means more money to me than five cents per dozen in October when I have fewer eggs to sell. If 1000 hens lay 50 dozen per day in the high laying season and the cost is 15 cents per dozen to feed them, it costs me $7.50 per day. Now if I have 1000 pullets laying 18 per cent in October (and few flocks will exceed this) I get 15 dozen per day and they cost me $7.50 per day, or 60 cents per dozen to produce the eggs—on which I lose about 20 cents on each dozen."

This man thinks the "killing" poultrymen are said to make during the high-priced period of October, November and December is only realized by the few who have early hatched pullets and who get around 50 cents during this time, and that the average producer makes more profit during the low-priced season when his flock is in heavy laying.

CIRCULARIZING THROUGH CHILDREN CONDEMNED.

SUIT BROUGHT IN COURT
 Edwin G. Amme Contends Practice Is Not Proper Part of School Work.

The right of the board of education and of public school teachers in Portland to circularize parents through their children is an issue raised in a suit filed yesterday in circuit court by Edwin G. Amme, attorney, against the directors of School District No. 1; Elmer Brown, principal of the Rose City Park school, and Gladys Woldt, teacher in room No. 5, at that school.

Amme sued to restrain the school board, principal and teacher from continuing the practice.

The complaint is based on two specific instances of alleged solicitation, which, Amme said, caused embarrassment and humiliation to his minor daughter, Edna Marie, pupil in Miss Woldt's room.

Solicitation Is Resented.

The first instance was on September 10, when, according to the complaint, the teacher distributed cards among her pupils, the purpose of which was to interest mothers in membership in the parent-teachers association.

The child was asked, the complaint said, to return the card and $1 as the parent's membership fee in the association.

Amme said he tore the card up and paid no more attention to it, but that when Edna Marie returned to school, she was humiliated among her fellow pupils because she had failed to turn in her dollar.

The second instance, the complaint said, came a few days later when the child was asked to bring 50 cents to school as her share toward the purchase of certain pieces of furniture and equipment for the school.

Second Request Ignored.

Amme also ignored this request, he said, with the result, according to the complaint, that Edna Marie's name was not posted on the blackboard along with the names of pupils who had contributed their 50-cent pieces.

The children commented unkindly on the fact that Edna Marie's name was not listed with the others, and the complaint added, she was also subjected to humiliation and chagrin by her teacher.

Amme contended that such solicitation was not a proper part of public school work, but that the practice would be continued unless the school board is restrained from permitting it, to the humiliation of other pupils.

VIOLIN CONCERT

On Friday evening, November 20, at 8 o'clock, Mr. Delepine will give a violin concert in the auditorium of the high school. Mr. Delepine, a violin instructor in Portland for a number of years, is not a stranger to the people of Estacada. Last year he entertained the students of the high school with several selections on his instrument, and later appeared on a local community club program. On both of these occasions the audiences enjoyed the music immensely.

One of the Portland daily papers had eht following to say about Mr. Delepine "Sheridan Delepine proved to be a violinist of great ability. He plays the violin with brilliant technique, and has many evidences of true musicianship. The program numbers were performed with real depth of feeling, understanding of expression and interpretation." Another Portland paper says: "Mr. Delepine draws a tone of silver beauty from his violin, and his numbers were all heartily appreciated." A Hood River paper reports "the large audience of music lovers which attended the Delepine violin recital at the auditorium were splendidly rewarded for their attendance. The numbers played by Delepine were musical gems and those who are competent to judge prophecy a splendid future for this talented violinist."

Mr. Delepine will give a well-balanced program of violin music. He brings his own accompanist from Portland. The prices of admission are 35 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, including eighth graders. Tickets will go on sale next Monday and may be obtained from high school students, or at Marchbank's Confectionary. The high school is especially interested in having a large turnout because the student body will receive 40 per cent of the proceeds. Your presence, therefore, will not only mean a boost for good music, but also a financial help to the student body.

NOT HERS

Capt. Randall of the renovated Republic told a story the other day: "A steward," he said, "stood at the gangway of a ship of mine, and as he stood there he kept shouting for the benefit of the arriving passengers:

"First class to the right. Second class to the left."

"A young woman stepped daintly aboard with a baby in her arms. As she hesitated before the steward he bent over her and said in his chivalrous way:

"First or second?"
 "Oh!" said the girl, her face as red as a rose. "Oh, dear, it's—it's not mine."—Pittsburgh Sun.

NOT GUILTY

It does not pay to be facetious or dangerously ironic with juries. A lawyer prosecuting an obviously guilty man, a burglar, who had been caught red-handed on the roof of a house, wound up his speech to the jury as follows: "If you consider, gentlemen, that the accused was on the roof for the purpose of enjoying the midnight breeze and by pure accident happened to have about him the necessary tools of a house-breaker, with no dishonest intention of employing them, you will, of course, acquit him." And the jury did.
