Choral Society Concert Attracts Good Audience

The concert given by the Estacada Choral society on Friday evening at the Liberty Theater was indeed a treat to the local public due to its fine rendition and type of numbers chosen.

Under the able direction of Mr. David Horner, of Dodge, the following numbers were sung by the chorus: National Hymn, "To Thee, O Country," "Bridal Chorus," "Lullaby," Brahms "Olaf Trygvason," "The Dancers," "Li'l Liza Jane," "Gloria," Mozart, "Angel of Peace," "Wanderer's Night Song," by Rubenstein, as sung by Mrs. Fred Horner and Mrs. Harry Kitching was most pleasingly given and they were called upon for an encore.

Miss Ruth Dillon sang "Hark, the Robin's Song," delightfully, and also responded with a second number.

The "War March of the Priests" was played by Messrs. Ahlberg, Baker and H. Horner on the violins and cello and proved very entertaining to their listeners.

An old time song, "A little Farm Well Tilled" was revived again and as given by Messrs. H. Horner, Baker and F. Horner "brought down the house" with laughter and they were compelled to sing it a second time much to the delight of the audience.

A quartet, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. F. Horner, Miss Ruth Dillon and Harold Horner sang "A Regular Royal Queen" in a most "dramatic" manner. Their encore was a "Weeping Song" which also showed more opportunity for dramatics.

Mrs. Harold Horner was the able accompanist for the entire program and showed splendid work on all numbers.

Mrs. E. K. Scott gave several readings, in a most finished manner and was heartily encored. She responded very generously.

The Choral society is composed of about thirty or forty local musicians and is putting in a great deal of time and effort in making this chorus a truly big asset to the town and should receive the support of the entire community. This program was delightful and we are all looking forward eagerly to the next appearance of the society.

MARKET ROAD PROGRESSES

The County Court is rushing the work on that portion of the Market road between Carver and Estacada. Many of the sharp curves are being cut out and the highway is being straightened in many places. All available machinery and labor is being used that is possible to use economically, and each day shows a great improvement in the undertaking that was started last September.

Nearly all culverts are now in place preparatory to completing the road bed for the surfacing which will commence soon. The scenic beauty in many places along this piece of the highway which follows the Clackamas river, one of the most beautiful fishing streams in the state, is unsurpassed. This thoroughfare will afford the country in the vicinity of Estacada a convenient route to Portland and Oregon City, the county seat of Clackamas county, and make Estacada easy of access to all visitors who will come to Oregon and who may wish to see our thriving city contented in the quietude of the foothills of the Cascade mountains on the banks of the Clackamas river.

This improvement is not a dream but will be a reality before July 4.

John Amacher of Washington has been spending several days visiting at the home of his brother, Mr. Ernest Amacher and family.

County Cows Lead State In Production

duction are being made by cows under test in the Clackamas cow testing association. The association tester's report for the month of February reveals some interesting figures. In fact, it was a Clackamas county herd of Jerseys which led all associations of the state in butter fat production per cow. This was the herd of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fischer of Sandy. One cow in this herd made 90 pounds of butter fat from 1551 pounds of milk. This is a pure bred Jersey four years of age. Mr. Fischer's herd of eight cows averaged 80.4 pounds of butter fat per cow.

The pure bred Guernsey herd of J. A. and T. J. Richey of Boring was the second high pure bred herd of the association for butter fat production. There were 17 cows under test.

J. Luscher and Sons of Multnomah county had the third place herd for butter fat production and the highest average for milk production. This is a herd of 29 pure bred Holsteins.

Compared with the other associations of the state, the report reveals that the Clackamas association had more cows giving 40 or more pounds of butter fat than any other association. The local association had the largest number of cows under test, had the second highest average of milk production per cow and the second highest average of fat production.

The three high grade herds of the Clackamas association belong to A. M. Livingstone, G. H. Watts and Martin Rostvold of the Monitor district. One of Mr. Livingstone's cows a grade Jersey, produces 66.5 pounds of butter fat, according to the February report.

Other reports have to do with the detection of the tester of faulty separators which are either adjusted or replaced, the changing of rations to reduce the costs as well as increase production. Reports also show that several members are arranging to plant or increase their acreage of alfalfa this year. In several herds boarder cows have been located through the test and have been sold. In nearly every case where the unprofitable cows are located by this accurate testing method, it is some cow which the owner had declared to be among the better ones. Frequently the elimination of one such cow from the herd will pay a large share of the expense of membership in the association. There are at present approximately 650 cows in the association which operates in Clackamas, Multnomah and Northern Marion counties. Mr. J. T. Richey of Boring, is president of association, and Clyde Ringo of Multnomah is secretary. Persons interested in further information regarding this association may get into touch with the officers or the county agent at Oregon City. The O. A. C. extension service, through the county agents of Multnomah and Clackamas counties and the dairy specialist, was largely instrumental in the organization of this association.

Mr. Fred Robley of Faraday is driving a fine new automobile which he recently purchased in Portland. It is an Oldsmobile coach "De Luxe" and is indeed a classy type of car. Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Smith are spending a few days in Seattle where they went to visit Mrs. Smith's mother. Mrs. McColly Dale and little son Robert came up from Gresham on Saturday evening to visit over the week-end at the Wm. Dale home. Dr. C. M. Dale is now located at Hermiston, Oregon, but his family has not joined him there as yet.

John Stark Evans, director of the glee clubs, Rex Underwood, orchestra director and James Leske, student business manager will have charge of the party. The first appearance will be at Salem on the night of March 23. In Portland the concert will be given on March 24. The program for Portland and Salem will include "The Highwayman," with which the clubs have made a big hit. After the Portland concert, the Women's glee club will disband, and the men's club and the orchestra start on separate tours. The men will appear at The Dalles, March 26, at Bend March 27. The orchestra will play at Longview, March 25, and at Astoria in the high school under the auspices of the Elks club.

Don't forget the Community Club meeting, Friday evening, March 26.

Miss Ruth Hewitt of Portland visited with her cousin, Mrs. Raymond Lovelace on Saturday night.

Miss Susan Bowman was a guest of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bowman of Garfield last week.

Shall We Awaken?

THIS newspaper is of the firm and decided opinion that combined effort on the part of the citizens is necessary and would result in putting the city of Estacada prominently on the map. And combined effort and the right spirit need be the only expenses attached to bringing about this condition. The location of the city is one of the most picturesque within the easy reach of Portland, the metropolis of Oregon, and whose many residents are seeking out places in which to enjoy their idle time in pleasant drives and places from the hurry-burry of city life on Sundays and holidays. With a good paved highway connecting the two points it is but natural to suppose that many people could be induced to visit this city, whose coming would prove of much benefit to our residents. If we might beset ourselves to put everything in good shape, clean up the streets, beautify our homes, keep the recreation park in proper shape and in general exhibit pride in our civic dress, we doubt not the numbers of visitors each season would reach such proportions as would prove a surprise to the most pessimistic.

People who drive out from the city for their own pleasure or to show their visitors about the country much prefer to take them to points where their pride is not offended, and such points as display enterprise enough to keep their town presentable are more likely to be shown to visiting strangers. Proper hotel facilities being provided, a general disposition on the part of all to please and make visitors welcome and glad to come again, will repay 100 per cent for all effort and little expense we might be put to. The tourist season is approaching, thousands of strangers from all parts of the United States will visit the Pacific Northwest in the next few months, and we believe that there are enough energetic and wide-awake citizens in Estacada realize this fact and the need to co-operate to so put the city in order that we shall welcome many of them, and thus spread our fame abroad. We think it well worth while to take this matter up among ourselves and get action without further delay.

A lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, coffee and cake, which had been prepared by a committee composed of men from the order, was served in the banquet hall, and was heartily enjoyed by all.
