The commission composed of three members, would have power to license all broadcasting stations assign wave lengths, call letters, and periods of operation. In time of war or public peril, the president would be authorized to take over operation of all radio stations.

JURY GETS PLAY CASE

Los Angeles, April 13—The trial of 26 members of the cast of "Desire Under the Elms" accused of presenting an obscene play, went to the jury late today after lengthy arguments by the prosecuting attorney, who branded the play as injurious to the morals of the young.

Introduction of the Bible and Shakespeare into the case was made by the defense counsel to show that language of the same type as used in "Desire" was to be found in both.

DANGERS TO THE REPUBLIC

In a recent speech Charles Evans Hughes, formerly secretary of state and republican candidate for the presidency in 1916, in discussing some of the dangers that menace the republic, said:

Liberty should ever be found in the purpose to secure the freedom of the individual—an ordered freedom, but still freedom—subject only to restraints as a sound and tolerant judgement determines to be essential to the mutuality of our liberty. The most ominous sign of our times is the indication of an intolerant spirit. It is more dangerous when armed, as it usually is, with sincere conviction. It can be exorcised only by convoking the genius which watched over our infancy and has guided our development—the American spirit of civil and religious liberty.

Democracy has its own capacity for tyranny. The interests of liberty are peculiarly those of individuals and, hence, of minorities; and freedom is in danger of being slain at her own altar if the passion for uniformity and control of opinion gathers head.—Ex.

Gussie writes in to ask if there is any remedy for bow legs. Sure, Gussie. Skirts reaching down to the ankle.

Belgian socialists parade and bury Mussolini in effigy. But the Dictator is in fact still on top of ground and just as much a worry as before his burial.

Our colleges turn out men altogether too smart, or else we choose men altogether too dull to enforce our laws and cope with criminals. If crime is to hold the upper hand better we padlock our colleges for a time.

There is a saying that all signs fall in dry weather. Yet we'll take any and all bets that were you to put a beer sign on the front of some building, you could not get police enough to keep the crowd back.

President Coolidge asserts that the country is in greater danger from the citizen who fails to vote than from crime and violence. Crime can be controlled, but with negligent voters there is nothing can be done.

Man's inalienable right to claim his home as his castle has been upheld in England. One arrested for drunkenness maintained he was lying on his own doorstep. And the magistrate decided that if he wished to befool his own nest, well and good.

The department of labor has decided to allow Japanese born in Hawaii and therefore American born, to enter the United States. In this manner the whole Pacific Coast may be filled with what are really Japanese made native citizens by circumstance of birth.

And now Mr. Hoover and others of the administration say we are carrying the habit of hoarding too far and should begin spending. We have been wise, say they, in the past few years, but now we should open the sock and let it flow out again in order to keep our prosperity at high pitch. Long past due subscriptions to this family journal thankfully received, is our way of seconding the motion.

Boasting that on her 100th birthday a lady of Providence, Rhode Island, took her usual drink of whiskey, and that she had done the same for many years, seemingly afforded her great satisfaction. As during all her many years in this life no boast had come from her that she ever did anything for the uplift of woman-kind, at this late date an admission that she has violated the laws of her country and added nothing to the respect for herself, should be cause for asking the question if she has not paid a dear price for a little cheap newspaper notoriety.

The difference between a pull and a drag is that one is the way a politician goes into office and the other a manner in which he is sometimes removed.

The laws of nature are always enforced. Men of much prominence and forced.
