Ralph Schneeloch & Co. of Portland purchased world war veterans state aid bonds in the amount of $2,000,000. The bonds were sold on a basis of 4.2734 per cent. There were 10 bidders.

A record was established for the Crater national forest during the season past when 94,770 persons entered its boundaries en route to various parts of the forest and Crater lake national park.

Linn county's assessment roll for 1926, exclusive of public utilities, is $26,114,670, according to figures made public by Grant Froman, assessor. This is a slight decrease from the 1925 assessment.

Sam A. Kozser, secretary of state, sent a writ to the sheriff of Klamath county fixing November 2 as the date for holding the recall election involving A. L. Leavitt, circuit judge of the 13th judicial district.

Mrs. Emma Cole, 70, of Jefferson, was killed when an automobile in which she was riding collided with a car driven by Mrs. G. W. Brown of Reedley, Cal. on the Pacific highway, eight miles south of Salem.

The walnut growers of Sheridan are hoping for clear weather. They have now harvested about half of their bumper crop, but if rainy weather continues they are afraid they will lose the rest of their walnuts.

Lena Maud Johnson, 11-year-old school girl of the Summerville district of Union county, was so seriously injured when she fell beneath the feet of a galloping horse she was riding that she died half an hour later.

The huge Owyhee reclamation project, which will render productive 124,000 acres of arid land in Oregon and Idaho, became a reality with announcement from the White House that President Coolidge had approved a report from Secretary of Interior Work recommending its construction.

DON'T STOP MY PAPER

Don't stop my paper, printer,
Don't strike my name off yet;
You know the cash comes slow,
And dollars are hard to get;
But tug a little harder—
Is what I mean to do;
And scrape the dimes together—
Enough for me and you.

I can't afford to drop it,
And I find it doesn't pay
To do without your paper,
However, others may;
I hate to ask my neighbors
To give me theirs to loan;
They don't just say, but mean it—
Why don't you get your own.
—Enterprise.

Flashy Clothes Worn in Shakespeare's Time

The gallants of Shakespeare's time vied with the belles in their love of dress. The men favored red, blue or green velvet crested with gold. Their hair they clipped closely, but cultivated their beards, which invariably were trimmed to a point, and mustaches were in favor.

In the early Tudor period broad-toed shoes, which in slashes and puffs vied with the doublets worn, were much in favor and in the matter of head-dresses the women shared with the men the use of the alighted milian bonnets of varied and vivid colors, says Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the Standard dictionary. Wigs were in favor with the women and, perched high upon maidenly or matronly head, might be seen fair-haired wigs of huge proportions—red being the favorite hue, presumably in honor of her majesty the virgin queen.

Small wonder, then, that occasional sly peeps at the tiny looking-glass that dangled from the belt were necessary to see that this ornate structure was properly set in place. Tradition has it that to this practice the language owes the common expression, "Is my hat on straight?"

Franklin as America's First "Song Plugger"

America's original "song plugger" and music publisher was none other than Benjamin Franklin. Furthermore, the songs were his own compositions, for the statesman, inventor, printer, diplomat, philosopher and educator also was a composer and all-around musician. History has it that the allegro-tempo drinking song, "Paper," words and music of which were written by Franklin, often was sung by him in the hall-fellow-well-met atmosphere of the Junto clubrooms, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. On many an evening the sonorous voice of Franklin was heard in chorus with his friends. He was an orthodox believer in correct tempo in music and it is not hard to imagine him tapping time on the table of the clubroom. He not only wrote songs, but set them into type and proceeded to hawk them through the streets, thus proving himself a pioneer sales promoter. Franklin developed the harmonica or glassy chord. He also was a talented performer on the harp, guitar and violin.

Wills Reveal Character

The "ruling spirit" very often shows up strongly in that intensely human document—a man's will. As often as not one can sum up the strength or weakness of his character clearer, by means of his "last testament," than by any other document.

To attempt to trace the origin of will-making would be a thankless task, but it is known that the prophet Jacob left a document more or less equivalent to the modern will. Specimens have been found in Egyptian tombs which were drawn up 2,000 years before Christ. Among the oldest English wills are those of Alfred the Great and William the Conqueror, who bequeathed his newly acquired realm of England to his son William Rufus.

M. E. CHURCH "CHOIR NIGHT"

Everyone is invited to the "Choir Night" at the Methodist church Friday evening. There will be a good program of music and stunts and a good time for every one attending.

The annual Bazaar given by the Ladies Aid of the Christian church will be held Saturday, November 13 1926. Articles to suit anyone's taste both useful and fancy. A good place to select your Christmas gift. Business men's lunch will be served at noon. Annie Krieger, Sec.

Private residents near the University of Washington successfully fought the erection of girl's homes or society houses in the neighborhood, claiming they are nuisances. These girl students must have some boarding place, and if their conduct is such that citizens bar their presence, they will evidently have to reform or quit school.

O. D. EBY SUBMITS OPINION ON LEGISLATIVE MEASURES

The fifth provides for a normal school at Seaside and the sixth for one in Eastern Oregon, at present the state is maintaining one normal at Monmouth and another at Ashland; these schools are doing good work and should be enlarged and strengthened. The state university is at Eugene and the agricultural college is at Corvallis, and already we have two normals. A few years ago we had several normals and their representative logs rolled the legislature in making appropriations. Shall we give the opportunity again? We have no complaint that the present schools are not able to take care of all applicants, and when this time comes, why not enlarge at Monmouth and Ashland and save the expense of two more overheads. We cannot keep down expenses if we continually undertake new projects.

The seventh is a proposed amendment to the recall. Now, at a recall election we vote yes or no on the question of recalling the officer and then we vote or choose between the same person and the candidate running against him. Under the proposed amendment we would only vote on recalling the officer and if he is recalled the office is then vacant, and shall thereafter be filled in the same manner as if he had died, resigned or otherwise vacated it. The recall of an officer is a serious matter and no question of personalities or feeling between rival candidates and their supporters should be involved. The only question should be, Shall the candidate be recalled? If he is, let the vacancy be filled according to law.

The ninth is another proposed constitutional amendment relating to the filling of vacancies in office and provides in effect that if a vacancy occurs within 20 days of an election, the appointing power shall fill the same until the next general election, if the vacancy occurs more than 20 days before an election, then the voters fill it at such election. As the constitution now stands there is no way of filling a vacancy occurring within a few days of election. This amendment provides for such an emergency and I shall vote for it.

Eleven is an appropriation of $100,000 and authorizes the State Board of Control to select a site in Eastern Oregon for a tubercular hospital. From the argument in the pamphlet one would understand that the hospital at Salem is overflowing and that there is immediate need for additional room. This being true it would seem advisable to provide this additional room at a place best adapted for the cure of this dread disease. There can be no argument but that the climate of Eastern Oregon is better for this work than the lower, damper climate of the Willamette valley, and if we must spend additional money for this purpose, it will be good business to spend it where it will do the most good. I am disposed to vote for the bill.

Twelve is a measure levying a stamp tax on cigarette papers, wrappers, tubes, smoking tobacco and snuff. This bill was passed by the last legislature but those affected by it have invoked the referendum. The rates of taxation are given on page 35 of the pamphlet. What amount of money it will raise is not shown, but no doubt it will produce quite a sum, most of which will be from people who are not on the tax rolls. They can avoid the tax if they like by not buying theatre. I am disposed to vote yes.

Thirteen is an act passed by the last legislature which in effect places motor trucks and busses under the public service commission, requiring them to run on schedule time and to adopt and charge regular rates. The motor vehicle companies directly affected have invoked the referendum (see page 52). Whatever may have been the sins of the railroads in the past they are now fighting for an existence in competition with motor vehicles. If we can do without the railroads entirely, we might let the motor vehicles run promiscuously, but we cannot. We need them and to let the motor vehicles collect the cream and in an unfair competition only injures ourselves in the end. Let them comply with the same regulations as the railroads and run. I shall vote for the measure.
