Because it carries the lowest prices ever placed on a truly fine automobile, the Most Beautiful Chevrolet brings into existence an entirely new conception of "Quality at Low Cost."

Never before at Chevrolet's amazingly reduced prices has any manufacturer provided so many fine car features, and so many mechanical improvements. These are typified by new bodies by Fisher finished in Duco colors, full-crown one-piece fenders, bullet-type lamps, AC oil filter, AC air cleaner, improved transmission, larger radiator and many, many others.

You need only to see these supremely beautiful cars to realize why all America is proclaiming them as the greatest sensation of America's greatest industry! You need only to compare them with the finest the market affords to see that they represent the biggest dollar-for-dollar value ever offered! Come in today and get a demonstration!

QUALITY AT LOW COST

Happiness Is a Habit

A smile won't hurt you. We will soon have been here in the Estacada hotel four years; and the doors have never been locked during that space of time; fire never out; light always burning bright; the rooms always warm, clean and inviting. Say, doesn't a hotel like this mean more than a little to Estacada. Think it over, and then give us a call. Courtesy to all, both great and small. That's All—

THE ESTACADA

PUREBRED COWS LEAD

In a study of 48,000 yearly in individual records of dairy cows, a comparison was made of purebreds and grades of the same herd. The grades averaged 6,999 pounds of milk a year per cow, whereas purebreds exceeded this amount by 668 pounds, or about 9 1/2 per cent. In production of butterfat, gross income per cow, an income over cost of feed, the purebreds excelled the grades by about 10 per cent. It should be remembered also that the average production of the grades was so high largely because of the influence of their purebred ancestry.

David's Great Lament, "Tell It Not in Gath"

In spite of its tragic origin, this is probably one of the commonest catchphrases in the world. If a golfer, for instance, were to fizzle his drive or miss an easy putt, he might say, "Tell it not in Gath," meaning, "Don't tell the other fellows!" If an actor, temporarily out of a job, were to be discovered by an old friend basking on the beach, he would say, "Tell it not in Gath," meaning, "Don't breathe it in Maiden Lane!" The saying is Biblical in its origin, the first to utter it being David in his lament on the death of Saul and Jonathan at the battle of Gibeon. Saul had been jealous of David for years, although Jonathan, his son and heir, was David's most devoted friend. David, being a fugitive, had settled with a handful of faithful followers at Ziklag, a small town in the country of the Philistines.

It was here that the news was brought to him that Saul had fallen upon his own sword, after being wounded by the Philistines, and that Jonathan was dead also. He broke out into one of the finest requiems ever uttered:

How are the mighty fallen! Tell it not in Gath. Publish it not in the streets of Askelon. Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice.

Askelon was a seaport of the Philistines, and Gath was an inland city of some importance in the same corner of Palestine.—London Tit-Bits.

Ford may have refused a billion dollars for his automobile factory, but we know a fellow who has a new pair of boy twins and wouldn't take a billion apiece for them.

Many a fellow who is busy watching the lines of the girls on the street would be better off watching his own waist line.

Think how much pleasanter a time old Atlas would have had, holding up the world if he had only possessed a radio.

Who remembers the good old days when you felt like apologizing to the butcher when you bought calves' liver?

A prominent dental authority says that we are fast turning into a race of goats. Maybe that accounts for why there is so much butting in on everybody's business more than there used to be.

Jefferson Bible One of Nation's Treasures

The so-called Jefferson Bible is a compilation made by Thomas Jefferson, consisting of passages from the four Gospels cut out and pasted in a volume according to a scheme of his own.

He began the work about 1804, during his Presidency, when he bought two English Testaments and compiled a work of 46 pages. Two evenings were spent at this interesting task, at the conclusion of which the President remarked: "A more precious morsel of ethics was never seen." He intended this first abridgment for the use of the Indians. From a letter which he wrote to a friend it is learned that he was in the habit of reading from the volume every night before going to bed. About 1819 Jefferson completed the work by doing the same thing with Testaments in Greek, Latin and French. He entitled the work, "The Life and Morals of Jesus of Nazareth." The book contains no notes except the section of the Roman law under which Jesus was supposed to have been brought to trial. The list of passages, the title pages and the references to passages are in the handwriting of Jefferson. Two maps, one of Palestine and another of the ancient world, are pasted in front. The original work is in the National museum, Washington.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Thoughts of Worth

Call for Expression
These two forms of silence—the silence of communion and the silence of repression—spring from beautiful and sterling foundations. But in themselves they are incomplete, and individual lives, though enriched, are never fulfilled through them. Mysticism and martyrdom must be related to living issues through expression, or they degenerate the one into introspective solitude, the other into narrowness of judgment, says a writer in the North American. Lives become sterile which might have been rich, had experience been translated into utterance. The ministration of words is indeed a blessed ministry. Because there are so many idle words, so many harmful words, so many insincere and bitter and malicious ones, we must not stumble into the mistake of believing that silence of itself has golden merit. There is the silence of indifference or self-consciousness, of carelessness or weariness; there is the lazy silence, the silence which grows from a sense of futility, or from contempt and pride. Silence, no less than inaction, may be a form of selfishness. As the laws of harmony exist without music, so may all that is fundamentally beautiful in human life exist without words.

A men's dormitory to be known as the Sherry Ross hall, in memory of the late Sherry Ross, will be built at the University of Oregon under the terms of the late Mrs. Mary Jane Ross Woodward's will. Her father, Sherry Ross, was the first settler on Ross Island and the first private owner of the island.

STIRRING CREAM

Stirring fresh cream while cooling will help to remove bad odors. After the cream is cold, or during the ripening period, stirring is of little value.

Portland's population has increased 35 per cent in past six years.

A lot of fellows who celebrated the New Year with bootleg liquor are unable to look forward to anything.

"London Phone Girls Learn Our Numbers," says a headline in the New York Times. They'll have to show us.

The only fellow who can afford to drink bootleg liquor is the one who has seen all there is to see anyhow.

Europeans say that during the year 1926 America lost caste, which is the first time we knew that we had any.
