Substitute for Sun

Dwellers in smoke-shrouded cities and such as sleep by day and work by night can make up what they suffer from lack of sufficient sunshine by the use of electric sun baths, according to an eminent British health authority. Prolonged periods of wet weather tend noticeably to increase the spread of sickness in large cities, and pulmonary diseases are prevalent where sunlight is lacking, as are many ailments peculiar to children. Electric sun baths, the British physician referred to declares, offer a satisfactory substitute for nature's own.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

"If every one were wise and sweet,
And every one were jolly;
If every heart with gladness beat,
And none were melancholy;
If none should grumble or complain,
And nobody should labor
In evil work, but each were fair
To love and help his neighbor—
Oh, what a happy world 'twould be
For you and me, for you and me."

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

WE ALL have some recipes which we enjoy preparing again and again. One of these is a good cooky recipe, for in most homes the cooky jar is a very important part of the household equipment, and it is wise to keep it well stocked.

Martha's Cookies.

Take one cupful of shortening, add two cupfuls of sugar, three well-beaten eggs, salt and one-half cupful of milk. Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and add lemon flavoring, or the grated rind of a lemon. Let stand an hour to chill, then roll with as little flour as possible.

Raisin Pie.

Take one cupful of raisins, chop fine and cook in one cupful of water five minutes; add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar well-mixed with a tablespoonful of cornstarch; add the yolks of two eggs and the juice and grated rind of a lemon.

Jelly Roll.

Beat three eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water and a pinch of salt, stir in one cupful of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, adding the flour gradually. Bake in a dripping pan well greased. Turn out on a towel wrung out of cold water. Trim the edges, spread with jelly and roll up while warm.

Apple Roll.

Make a rich biscuit dough, roll out and cover with one cupful of chopped apples well sugared and flavored with either cinnamon or nutmeg. Bake one-half hour, then pour over some cranberry sauce and bake ten minutes more.

Chocolate Pudding.

Beat one egg, add one-half cupful of sugar and one cupful of milk, pour over one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; when well blended add two squares of chocolate, melted, a pinch of salt. Steam one and one-half hours.

"Making a bed used to be one of the simpler household arts," says Home-loving Honora, "but nowadays with davenport beds, wardrobe beds, and vanishing cots, it's getting to be a job for prestidigitators."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

YOUR WEAK SPOT

A GIGANTIC ship of the air, carrying a burden of human freight, crumpled and fell, carrying with it to destruction a score and more of lives. Examination of the wreckage showed that in the center of the great framework there was a weak spot which, when the strain of actual operation was placed upon it, could not stand the test and, failing, caused disaster.

Few of us realize on how precarious a base our success reposes until we dare summon courage to look upon our weakness.

Self-examination to most of us is not a pleasant bit of duty to perform, and for this reason we are apt to put it off with an "oh, don't bother me" attitude, and turn to something more agreeable.

In humans the perilous weak spot may be in temper, perverseness, indifference, untidiness, selfishness or inefficiency, all productive of a fatty degeneration of the moral fiber.

The thing to do is to discover just what our shortcomings are, and, having determined their nature, we must then proceed to overcome them—to patch them up, as it were, and resolve that they shall not again be permitted to imperil our progress.

It will cost tremendous will-power to do this, but the reward in the end will compensate liberally for all the effort.

When in command of the American army, Washington was conscious of his weakness and sought strength through prayer in the silence of the forest. When he comprehended his lack of education, Lincoln became an earnest student.

These two beloved men learned where to press forward in the fullness of their strength.

And in such acts as these lies mastery.

If you imitate them, you, too, can overcome whatever weakness you may have before it becomes a settled habit and drags you down.

It is never too late to retrace steps, even though you may be "down and out."

If you are genuinely serious in your desire to rise in the world, to win respect, to put money in your purse, to write your name beside the successful, resolve today that you will no longer be impotent through frailties of your own.

Summon all your energy and with a heart of oak march on to victory.

By imploring Faith and Patience to help you, you will find the battle comparatively easy, the good results being in most instances out of all proportion to your anticipation.

Do You Know That:???

"HAND and Seal" originated when writing was not as generally understood as today, but was limited to a few clerks. Documents were then confirmed by the impression of the hand dipped in ink, and then the seal was duly added. As dipping the hand in ink was dirty and bothersome the thumb was later substituted. We are told that "scores of old English and French deeds are still in existence in which such signatures appear." Later the name was written and this writing came to be known as "the hand."

Hence the expression "Hand and Seal" has come to mean to confirm; to keep secure or secret.—Anna S. Turnquist.

THE EASY ROAD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE never was a road I came I couldn't turn around; You cannot get so deep in shame But that the solid ground Lies right behind. The way is straight. The latest hour is not too late.

And say not sin's the easy way, And righteousness the hard. I've had my fun, I've had my play, And I've discovered, pard, That slipping down the thing grows fat. But climbing up is not like that.

Each hour you get a finer view, The higher that you climb, Each day you find some gladness new— You have a better time Than they who walk the road below They say it's easier to go.

Up here you find the fresher air, You find the fairer flowers; They walk among life's oozes there, Up here the hills are ours; The sun is bright, the skies are blue— Up here's the easy road for you! (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

SARCASM

SARCASM may be ironical, it may be clever and witty, but to be really sarcasm it must also have a bar that will hurt, a lever that prides upon some shame or pretense and lays it open to amusement and contempt.

The modern usage of the word might almost be said to be a figurative adaptation of its original meaning. For we have "sarcasm" from the ancient Greek, where it meant to tear flesh like dogs.

Modern weapons are likely to be intellectual rather than physical. Civilization forbids us to use our teeth but the edge of sarcasm can be as sharp, and sometimes inflicts hurt far deeper than torn flesh!

Popular San Diego Woman Recovers From Long Illness

Amazing Improvement in Mrs. Jester's Health Surprises Friends. Serious Ailments Caused by Nervous Breakdown Relieved and Strength Restored by Tanlac. Looks and Feels Better Than Ever

"Tanlac has certainly done wonders for me; I cannot praise it enough," declares Mrs. T. D. Jester, 1268 Pennsylvania Avenue, San Diego, Calif. "I had suffered a nervous breakdown, and for many months afterward I continued to get worse and worse, despite all the different nerve medicines I tried. Nothing seemed to help until I tried Tanlac."

"I was as near to being a complete nervous and physical wreck as I could be, without entirely collapsing. The slightest noise would make me want to scream, and after retiring it would be hours before I could sleep. I would awaken with terrible nervous headaches and the slightest exertion would tire me out so that I would be trembling. I lost weight and appetite. I tried Tanlac with little expectation of improvement."

"Before I had taken all of the first bottle, I developed a ravenous appetite, and was sleeping better. I continued to improve rapidly and felt like a different person entirely. In less than three weeks I had gained seven pounds! Later, my weight went up from 105 to 125 pounds."

Phlox as National Flower

The phlox was suggested as a national flower by Dr. Edward Wherry, of the Agricultural department, in addressing the Wildflower Preservation society at Washington, says the Pathfinder Magazine. At various times the columbine, goldenrod, dogwood, mountain laurel and trailing arbutus have been proposed, but congress has not given any flower such distinction. Some states, however, have adopted state flowers.
