PRUNE PRODUCERS TO MEET SOON

Growers to Meet to Effect an Organization in June at Corvallis

Oregon Agricultural College, April 20—One hundred dried prune producers will meet June 28 at the Oregon Agricultural college to formulate a program based on the recent prune studies of the federal bureau of economics, announces Paul V. Maris, director of the extension service. Delegates to the convention will be chosen at community meetings to be held in the following districts: Forest Grove April 22, Albany April 23, Dallas April 25, Brush College April 26, Corvallis April 27, Monmouth April 28, Eugene April 29, Oakland May 3, Roseburg May 4, Riddle May 6, Oregon City May 10, Estacada May 11, Scotts Mills May 12, Rosedale May 13, Vancouver May 17, Spring Brook May 18, Dundee May 19, Sheridan May 20, and Yamhill May 21. Arrangements for these meetings will be in charge of the county agents.

Recommendations of the bureau will be summarized by C. J. Hurd and C. L. Long of the college extension service, who use special charts and lantern slides showing conditions brought out in the prune survey. B. H. Critchfield, who conducted the survey, is expected to attend the main convention of the one hundred growers in June.

"This plan is in harmony with the sentiment of the growers at the Salem meeting April 12," said Paul V. Maris, director of the extension service. "These growers want something done on organization and sales service before the year's crop is harvested."

PRUNE COMMITTEE WORKS ON PLAN

April 18, 1927

Editor, Eastern Clackamas News: Having been asked several times for a statement of the situation as to organization among the dried prune growers, particularly in view of the fact that the report was made by the Government Economist at Salem on the 12th, we want to say that, while some people were desirous of holding up action awaiting this government report, in view of the statements made to us by the different prune growers, to the best of our knowledge, the growers are not willing to enter into any other kind of an organization at this time except one which includes the commercial packers along very similar lines to the plan used in California. Therefore, it seems to us there is nothing to do but wait until there is a definite organization formed in California, or at least a tentative contract definitely signed by the shippers. After this is done then the committee of five can immediately meet and see if some plan can be agreed upon to conform to the ideas expressed by the prune growers of Oregon in previous meetings.

It has seemed to us that May 5th should be the latest date for Oregon to wait, and if the committee of five by that time has not been able to fully outline a plan for the Oregon growers and packers both to work together, then we think it is time to take up a different plan which may be possible with the growers. We believe before May 5th California is going to have her plan completed and we are going to have a plan to offer from the committee of five. When that time arrives we will be ready to do our part in going out and discussing the plan and assisting to organize the dried prune industry in time to handle the 1927 crop. Until such time as we can go before the growers with a definite plan as a substitute in case we cannot work out the plan they desire, we have nothing new to give to the growers. The committee of five is now working on an Oregon plan.

R. H. Kipp, Mgr., Marketing Department, Portland Chamber of Com., Member of Prune Committee of Five.

Guernsey Sale in June Will Offer Forty Head

Forty head of Guernsey dairy cattle will be sold at a public sale at the Clackamas county fair grounds at Canby in June. A committee of the club, which is composed of some of the prominent breeders of Guernseys, completed the tour of three days in signing up 17 Guernsey breeders for cattle to be sold.

As the Guernsey gaities are to be held at Astoria during the early part of June, the sale is to be held in Clackamas county shortly after.

All Guernseys that have been signed up for have been carefully selected by the committee, of which Mrs. A. I. Hughes of Red Wing farm, Redland, is chairman. Members of the committee say the cattle will make good foundation stock.

Among local consigners are J. R. Shackelford, and L. S. Tenney, Estacada, route 3; and James Shibley and son, Springwater.

MATCH IS CALLED DRAW

After a fierce exchange of slaps, tweaking of noses, and grinding of ears, Bill Thornton of Portland and Bill Donovan of Pocatello each had a hand held up by referee Blaisdell. The match took place in the Liberty Theater Tuesday night. The time limit was set at one hour and thirty minutes but had it gone double that length, it is not likely that the result would have been different except that fouling, which increased with each timer's announcement, might have resulted in the loss of fingers, eyes, ears, etc. It would have been a shame for Thornton to have his ears, being so beautifully cauliflowered. The referee let them go to it. He said he saw no difference in their methods. Occasionally one of the grapplers made a pass which connected with some part of the referee, but that was unintentional, of course. There was plenty of action.

In the preliminaries, Glisan won from LaFevre in thirty five minutes.

TREATING POTATOES

For most of the small growers in Oregon whose area of potatoes is not over ten acres the corrosive sublimate treatment is recommended by the experiment station. There are numerous examples in the field, of better yield and better quality from potatoes that are treated.

POULTRY BREEDING FLOCKS TESTED

Testing breeding flocks of poultry bacillary white diarrhea by the college experiment station is steadily advancing, reports Dr. W. T. Johnson, poultry pathologist. Blood samples are taken of every individual fowl in the flock and sent to the department of veterinary medicine, where it is analyzed.

The object of this work is to find which are infected with bacillary white diarrhea germs. Flocks are tested once a year or more according to the seriousness of the disease. Some flocks are found entirely free from disease and recommendations are made by the department of veterinary medicine to keep them free. Already 29500 chickens have been tested so far this year and Dr. Johnson expects that it will reach 100,000 next year.

Nation's Faith in God

Expressed on Coinage

"In God We Trust" first appeared on the coins of this country in 1864, and owes its presence very largely to the increased religious sentiment in the dreared crisis of the Civil war. S. P. Chase, then secretary of the treasury, having received a number of appeals from devout persons throughout the country suggesting and urging that the deity be recognized suitably on our coins in a manner similar to that commonly found on the coins of other nations, addressed a letter to the director of the mint, at Philadelphia, stating that "no nation would be strong except in the strength of God or safe except in His defense. The trust of our people in God should be declared on our national coins." He ordered that a device be prepared without unnecessary delay, with a motto expressing in the fewest words possible this national recognition. Various mottoes were placed on coins in 1862 and 1863. The first ones bearing "In God We Trust," however, were coined in 1864.

Seemed Something of an Odd Combination

He didn't really want to bring the two cats home from Colorado, but what good is the argument of a mere man against those of a wife, three children, and a mother-in-law? So the family started home last week with the cats enthroned in a box on the back seat of the car.

He was somewhat ashamed of the ugly yellow pets anyway, and his mortification was complete when he was forced to ask a garage owner, in the town where they spent the first night, for cellar space in which to park his charges.

"I suppose," he said to the garage man, "I suppose you don't see many tourists crazy enough to be taking common alley cats with them, do you?" "Oh, yes I do," replied the garage man. "They come in here every day with all sorts of pets. But," he added as an afterthought, "by George, you're the first feller I've seen that was totin' cats and a mother-in-law both."—Los Angeles Times.

Found Begging Paid

Better Than Writing

A beggar on the streets of Buenos Aires can make $1.25 in an hour. An unskilled laborer draws about $2 for eight hours of work. The working classes contribute 80 per cent of the money that beggars collect, and domestic servants give more than all the rest put together. Young girls are more charitable than older women, and widows more than women whose husbands still live. Among all classes, women contribute most to the beggar's board, giving more and more frequently than men. Among men, cary drivers are more liberal than chauffeurs, and clerks more free-handed than their employers.

This cross-section of the privy purse of Buenos Aires was drawn by a reporter who disguised himself as a "down-and-out" and then spent a lucrative day begging in all sections of the business and shopping districts.

In the Glacial Age

It is impossible to say how long a period the glacial waters of Lake Agassiz covered the greater parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Minnesota. The lake, from its earliest measurements, appears to have been 110,000 square miles, with a length of 700 miles, width of 250 miles and a depth of 700 feet. Besides the reclaimed land now known as the Red River valley there remains still of Lake Agassiz the shrunken remnants constituting Lakes Winnipeg, Manitoba, Rainy lake, Lake of the Woods and Red lake.
