ESTACADA, OREGON, THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1927

NUMBER 29

HIGH SCHOOL WILL PRESENT PLAY FRIDAY

"It Pays To Advertise" is Title of Brilliant Comedy

FOR "HICADA" BENEFIT

Cast is Chosen From Members of Entire Student Body

After a long period of careful training and hard practice, the Estacada High School Student Body has a brilliant three-act comedy ready for presentation to the public. The play, entitled "It Pays to Advertise" has been a very popular one both on chautauqua circuits and elsewhere, and everywhere been met with great enthusiasm and applause.

PLOT SKETCHED

Cyrus Martin, the father, makes a bet with his old friend and rival in business, John Clark, that his son is a better business man than John Clark's son, Elery. After making the bet he hires Mary Grayson to inspire his son to a business-like outlook on life. Mary succeeds in making Rodney Martin, the son, fall in love with her. In a violent fit of anger, which is pretended for Rodney's benefit, the father disowns his son, and Rodney is left to make his own living if he wishes to win Mary for his wife. He conceives the idea of making 13 soap, and with the help of a friend, Ambrose Peale, who believes in advertising, they launch the 13 Soap company. No one knows whether the soap company is a success or a failure until the last few lines of the play are given.

Many in Cast

The cast is as follows: Rodney Martin, Vernon Marshall; Cyrus Martin, Lester Clossner; Mary Grayson, Irene Davis; Ambrose Peale, Carl DeMoy; Countess de Beauvoir, Helen Smith; Marie, Helen Carter; Johnson, Grant Robley; Mr. Smith, Lenard Davis; Mr. Bronson, Elwin Beck; Mr. McCheaney, Shirley Burnett; Miss Burke, Lola Mopre; Elery Clark, Thurston Yocum.

The play will be given in the high school auditorium, Friday, May 13, at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats will be on sale at the drug store.

Receipts from the play will be used to help defray the expenses of the high school annual.

November 15 Date For Liberty Bond Payments

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Secretary Mellon has called for payment on November 15, 1927, all outstanding Second Liberty Loan bonds. Interest on these bonds will cease on November 15, 1927. Approximately $1,700,000,000 of these bonds are now outstanding.

While the bonds will be paid on November 15, 1927, it is quite probable that during the next six months the Treasury will extend to the holders of the Second Liberty Loan bonds an opportunity to exchange them for other government securities. No announcement has as yet been made as to the type of security to be offered in exchange, or the date on which the exchange offer may be expected. The Treasury explains that the terms of the bonds require that a notice be given to the public six months in advance of the redemption date. The Secretary's announcement, therefore, does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present time, but merely places the holders on notice that their bonds will be redeemed on November 15, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

If holders of Second Liberties desire to have their bonds redeemed, they should present them for payment on November 15, 1927, but if they desire other Government obligations in place of their Seconds, they should watch for further announcement and notify their bank to keep them informed of any exchange offering that may later be made by the Treasury.

Patterson Voices His Approval of Camps

According to information received from Vancouver Barracks, more than thirty places are being reserved at the summer Citizens' Military training camp for boys from Clackamas county.

Official recognition of the camps by governor Patterson is contained in the following letter to Major General J. L. Hines, commanding the Ninth Corps area:

April 4, 1927

Major General J. L. Hines, Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area, Presidio of San Francisco, California,

My dear General Hines:

I am in receipt of your letter of March 24th concerning the Citizens' Military Training Camps of this area during the summer of 1927.

I have always been heartily in accord with the policy of providing military training for the young manhood of our nation. I do not believe in war as a medium of settling differences arising between nations. However, I am not a pacifist and firmly believe that it is our duty as a nation to be prepared for an emergency, requiring force of arms to protect our country or its ideals, should such arise.

Since, in the interests of economy it has been decreed that our regular army be reduced to a force barely sufficient for the police force of our borders and island possessions, it is apparent to the thoughtful individual that some method whereby the young men of the nation may obtain the rudiments of military training is mandatory.

I feel that in our National Guard the Reserve Officers training camp and Citizens' Military training camp much has been done to meet this problem. I realize that the National Guard is limited as to strength, which leaves only the Citizens' Military training camps as the medium for training the great majority of our men. It has been my observation, that in attending the Citizens' Military training camps, in addition to performing of highly commendable patriotic duty, such attendance is of distinct benefit to the individual attending same; and I do not hesitate to commend the Citizens' Military training camps held in this county area to the fathers and mothers of young men in this state who are eligible to receive this training.

Sincerely yours,
I. L. Patterson,
Governor

DONALD RYAN CHOSEN NEW COUNTY CLERK

Appointment is Result of Resignation of Fred A. Miller

Donald J. Ryan, one of the best known young men in the county, is the new Clackamas county clerk, and will take office Monday, May 16.

Guy L. Pace, who for the past seven years has been chief deputy in the office, and who applied to the county court for the appointment, announced as soon as he knew of the naming of Ryan, that he would resign his position, and run for the republican nomination for the office in 1928.

Ryan was named by the county court Saturday, after the resignation of Fred A. Miller had been under consideration for some days.

County Clerk Fred A. Miller, tendered his resignation to the county commissioners Tuesday. He asked that his separation become effective when his successor was appointed and qualified and he offered to remain in office until the new county clerk became familiar with the work. Mr. Miller will enter the practice of law as an associate of Scheubel & Beattie, and that firm will hereafter be known as Scheubel, Beattie & Miller. He will also devote his attention to the Clackamas Savings & Loan association of which he was founder and in which he holds the office of secretary-manager.

DORCAS SOCIETY WILL MEET

STRAWBERRY WEEVIL WILL SOON EMERGE

Larvae Now Going into Pupa Form From Which Adults Will Soon Emerge to Lay Eggs

Some 60 per cent of the strawberry root weevil that has been fattening on Oregon strawberry roots in warm districts had gone by May 5 into the pupa stage from which adults are expected to emerge in about two weeks, according to experiment station reports. Emergence will be later in higher regions. Growers thus informed are getting ready to strike the adults with poison bait before they have time to perform their egg laying, and so thwart their attempts to provide next year's brood.

The bait found in experiment station tests to be most satisfactory is made of 1 pound of calcium arsenate to 19 pounds of ground dried apples. A teaspoonful or two is applied to the crown of every hill, about 50 to 70 pounds per acre under average Oregon conditions. Growers may purchase it ready to use under the trade name of "Go-West."

Application is often made by means of a down-spout tube or other light tube, finished off with a funnel at the top. The small end of the tube is put into the center of the hill and the bait then dropped through the funnel. This saves time and much labor, insures proper placement of the poison, and protects the berries from drifting bits of poison.

The larvae, pupae and adults of the weevil are all naturally placed to do the most possible mischief, explained Don C. Moto, station entomologist. The larvae merely quit feeding on the roots right under the vines, an ideal place from their point of view for going into the helpless pupa stage. Thus when the adults emerge all they have to do is climb up to daylight, and there they are ready to eat strawberry leaf. Unfortunately for them, they like arsenate apple sauce even better than strawberry leaves.

PRUNE GROWERS HEAR REPORT OF U. S. SPECIALISTS

Committeemen Named To Attend Statewide Conference

MEET AT CORVALLIS

State Agricultural Experts Explain Government Survey

Five delegates to the state-wide conference of prune growers to be held at Corvallis, May 31 and June 1, were elected at a meeting of local growers held in the Liberty theatre Wednesday afternoon.

The delegates are H. D. Trapp, N. N. Tracy, P. Erickson, W. W. Tucker, Rainey Crawford, and Frank Linglebach, alternate.

The meeting was held primarily for the purpose of hearing the report of the recent government survey of the prune situation, designed to aid prune growers in marketing their product. C. L. Long, extension horticulturist, and C. J. Hurd, marketing specialist, addressed the meeting.

A committee composed of J. G. Hayman, F. Linglebach, Ed Clossner and A. W. Botkin was appointed to solicit funds to pay the expenses of the delegates to Corvallis. All growers are asked to contribute 50 cents.

It was suggested that the Oregon growers find some means to finance themselves during the period that the prunes are now held, and thus be able to command the price that the fruit should bring. It was also urged that the quality of the Oregon prunes warrants their being advertised as being the finest prunes in the world.

It is expected that some form of marketing organization will be formulated at the Corvallis meeting, in order to handle this year's crop. Some sort of association is deemed almost essential as prune growers have been realizing very little money from their product in the past, and organized competition with California prunes seems to be the only way of meeting the situation.
