County Agent Gives Many More Pointers

Numerous requests come to the County Agent's office for information concerning a wide variety of agricultural products and for various mailing lists. Some of these requests are of doubtful purpose and promptly reach the waste basket. Other requests help the growers market their products and receive careful attention.

New York and Baltimore Seed houses have requested that the Agent get them in touch with growers of vetch seed. A Seattle firm in the market for rye grass recently asked for the names of several growers of this crop. A New York firm wanting to purchase ginseng recently requested a list of the names of ginseng growers in Clackamas County. These are typical examples and no doubt are of benefit to both the buyer and seller.

Growers of potatoes and prospective alfalfa growers will be interested in visiting George Kohl's farm at Logan.

Mr. Kohl has an excellent demonstration of the value of the use of commercial fertilizers on potatoes. The plants in rows on which fertilizers were used have made three times the growth of check rows.

Alfalfa on which lime was used is excellent in size and quality or the old ground while unlimed plots are a failure. On new ground the alfalfa crop is excellent without the use of lime but lime causes a larger growth even here.

The use of lime on clover has made a large increase in growth.

At a joint field demonstration meeting held recently by County Agent S. B. Hall of Multnomah County and J. J. Inskeep of Clackamas county on the farm of H. C. Compton and George Schaffer east of Boring the visitors saw the value of the use of a complete commercial fertilizer on the early potato crop.

Fertilized potato plants were easily three times the size of unfertilized plants. This difference in size of plants brought up the question of the difference to be expected in the size and number of potatoes on the plants.

Growers present chose typical hills in fertilized and unfertilized rows in both Earliest of All and Early Rose varieties. The unfertilized hills had seven potatoes while the fertilized hills had seventeen potatoes of large size and quality.

Acres yields on these farms will be secured at harvest time and the results given to the public together with the costs of the additional yield.

A. W. Barger, tester, and Clyde Kingo, secretary, make the following report for May for the Clackamas County Cow Testing Association.

There are 546 cows on test.

The four high purebred herds belong to W. F. Fischer, Boring, Jersey; H. A. Kane, Canby, Jersey; S. B. Hall, Gresham, Holsteins; and Buxton Brothers, Molalla, Jersey. The high grade Jersey herds belong to C. E. Kraft, Canby, Jersey; Christ Kraft, Canby, Jersey; and George Koehler, Boring, Jersey. The best of the first third and fourth herds, 73.9 pounds of fat, producing 7.1 lbs. of fat.

George Koehler registered 73.8 Maude was second highest with 71.9 lbs. of fat.

Blaisdell is in wonderful condition says Donovan, who thinks that his long legs are getting educated to hold Thornton down pretty well. The longer he has made many improvements in handling himself and has gained quite a bit of notoriety when he defeated Jack Cutler at the W.O.W. Hall a month ago with his pet hold. Jack is a good man but was taken by surprise.

Gladstone Chautauqua To Have Numerous Features

Featuring a pageant-play of old Oregon, "The Old Frontier," the Williamette Valley Chautauqua, for 1927 will be held in its Gladstone park, located between Oregon City and Portland, July 12 to 24 inclusive.

It is planned to make this pageant-play a permanent feature of the Chautauqua, it this year being produced Wednesday and Thursday July 13 and 14. James W. Evans, a professional pageant producer, is the author and the director, and he brings upon the stage all the men who were noted in the days from 1805 almost to the present time. A total of 250 persons will take part.

The fine chautauqua park is well suited for this production being in the wild state created by nature. The big trees and great rocks will make a fine background for the tale of the pioneers who came to this section and made of it the paradise that it is, in which to live.
