SPRINGWATER FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

The Springwater Fair was a decided success in every way. They had one of the finest days that anyone could wish for and had some of the best displays that anybody could find even though they went to a much larger fair. The Springwater fair board deserves a lot of credit for putting a thing like this over in the manner that it was put over. They had one of the best crowds that they have ever had at any previous fair, people coming from all parts of the county and they are beginning to consider the Springwater Fair an annual affair and begin planning on attending weeks before hand. Of course the Fair was well advertised in one sense of the word but it being a Free Fair it was impossible for them to advertise it very extensively. This is one of the best ways to display the products of the Springwater district and show the people outside what they are really doing. Once more we say that the Springwater Fair was in the hands of men that knew what it took to put on a Fair and they sure did what they thought was the best for the Fair. Everybody who attended came away at the end of the day declaring themselves highly pleased with what they had learned and saw.

You have undoubtedly been reading in the daily newspapers the accounts of the American Legion and the Auxiliary at their convention in France. While you read these things you do not want to forget that Estacada has a representation there in the person of Mrs. J. Wilcox of Antelope, who is the state president of the American Legion Auxiliary. She was also in the parade that was held in Paris, France, September 19th.

METHODIST NOTES

Sunday School 10:00 a. m.
Preaching 11:00 a. m.
Epworth League 6:45 p. m.
Owing to the fact that this conference Sunday, Mr. A. DeMay has consented to fill the pulpit. Everyone knows Mr. DeMay and we anticipate a full house.

At a meeting of the Sunday School board last Tuesday evening officers and teachers were elected for the coming year beginning October 2.

The high school class has been reorganized and all young people are especially invited.

One class was added that of the younger married set and older young people. With the addition of this class, there is a place for everybody from cradle roll to elderly folks. If you are not in Sunday School come and let us make you welcome, care has been taken to select teachers that will make the lesson interesting.

A Sunday School Orchestra has been organized, bring your instrument and join this happy group of young folks. Plans are being arranged for the entertainment for the different organizations and we look forward to a very successful year.

The school board and the P. T. A. will sponsor a reception for the teachers of Estacada Schools Friday evening, September 23rd at the High School Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock. Everyone invited.

Master Bennie Kelly was host Thursday evening to a number of his little friends celebrating his fifth birthday. Covers were laid for the Misses Betty and Marellyn Toll, Margaret Johler, Joyce Kelly, Master Clarence Radford, Mrs. J. Toll, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Kelly and the little host.

I. M. Park, who ran a general store in Estacada about six or seven years ago and who sold out and went on a farm was in the News office and renewed his subscription the first part of the week. Mr. Park says that the farm is all right and he likes it pretty well but that he would prefer to be in the mercantile business again.

Ben Rawlins was a pleasant caller at this office Wednesday of this week and had us to shove his date tag thread a year and said that he enjoyed the paper. Mr. Rawlins has been on a two months vacation up at the Henry Kirk Mill taking the place of one of the employees that has been on the sick list.

There was a wagon of indians in town Wednesday selling huckleberries

Curried veal is a good dish to serve when lima beans are in season, because the flavor of curry goes well with lima beans. Cut 2 pounds of stewing veal into small pieces and simmer in water enough to cover until almost tender. Then add 2 cups of fresh lima beans. In another pan cook 1 medium-sized onion, chopped fine, and 1-2 a green pepper, chopped, in a small amount of butter. Add to the meat. When the beans are done, thicken the liquid slightly with a flour which has been mixed with 1-4 teaspoon curry, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, and a little cold water. Add 1 cup sliced cucumber and cook a few minutes longer. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the top when serving.

A Square Deal for the Settler Receives National Recognition

The striking results of organized efforts in obtaining settlers for unoccupied farm lands in Oregon is told in a recent letter to Dr. E. Mead, Commissioner of reclamation, from W. G. Ide, manager of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce. The work was carried on through the land settlement department of the Portland and Oregon State Chambers of Commerce and was finished by the State-Wide Oregon Development Fund especially raised for this purpose. The work received the active cooperation of the ninety affiliated Chambers of Commerce throughout the State, the Agricultural College at Corvallis, especially through its extension service and county agents and the officials of the irrigation district.

As a first step in the work a committee of ten representative business men of Portland met each week to formulate plans. This committee traveled the State, visited the different Chambers of Commerce in localities where land settlement was necessary, assisting them to organize land settlement committees and also a separate committee known as an appraisal or approval committee, consisting of nine members—business men farmers and others who knew land values and who had large public interests but no interest in land sales.

This committee of nine was divided into subcommittees of three members each: A listing committee to select lands suitable for families; an appraisal committee to approve the price put upon these lands by the owners, and a follow up or welcoming committee, whose business it was to call up on the new settler, or cause someone to call on him and his family, making them feel at home, getting them acquainted in their locality, and assisting them in community affairs.

Mr. William Schwader and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Nelson and son Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wooster, Mrs. Jean Garret of Aurora were guests of Mrs. A. W. Schiedell Sunday.

over 600,000 in the United States at large.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work is found at its best at Camp Plummer during the week of the Annual Pacific International Livestock Exposition at Portland, to be held this year October 29 to November 6, inclusive. Here the Northwest's future agricultural and livestock leaders obtain one week's practical instruction in the science of farming. Boys and girls come from all parts of the Northwest to participate in the inspiring exercises held annually at the Camp.

Over $100,000 in premiums are given each year at the Pacific International for exhibits of Pure Bred Livestock and Agricultural Products. The Exposition combines great Livestock Show, Dairy Products Show, Land and Manufacturers' Show, Northwest Fox Show, Wool Show, Industrial Exposition, and the world's greatest Horse Show.

That the Pacific International is one of the great assets of Agriculture and Livestock interests in this western country is now conceded without question. 150,000 people from all parts of the nation are expected to attend this year. Special fare-and-one-third rates to Portland during the Exposition are to be in effect on all the leading railroads of the Northwest.

Mrs. W. B. Davidson of Camp 8 is spending a few days in Estacada with Mr. Davidson's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Downing from Stayton spent Sunday at the Alva Smith home. Mrs. Downing was formerly a switchboard operator at the Estacada Telephone office.

The European corn borer does its damaging work while in the larval stage. It passes the greater part of its larval and also pupal existence within the stalk or other parts of the host plant, usually corn, but in some parts of the country in a variety of other plants, and weeds. For this reason there is but little chance of controlling this pest by insecticides, and it is evident to entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture who have worked on the problem that the major control efforts should be directed toward cultural practices which will lead to the utilization or the destruction of infested plants. Measures recommended are: Feeding to live stock, burning, or plowing under; selection of varieties of corn least susceptible to severe injury, and regulating the time of planting to escape serious infestation and yet produce satisfactory yields.

Control measures used must take into consideration the fact that in the New England infested area two generations occur annually and the insects attack many plants in addition to corn, while in the western areas, including New York and the region around the Great Lakes, the corn borer is single brooded and confined principally to corn. In New England, therefore, it is necessary to utilize or destroy all plants or crop residues which are listed as hosts of the corn borer, especially large-stemmed grasses and many roadside weeds. In the sections where corn is chiefly attacked, low cutting, shredding, deep plowing, and burning of stubble and stalks are recommended measures.

Fowl cholera is one of the greatest menaces to poultry flocks, declared Dr. J. W. Lumb, extension veterinarian of the Kansas State Agricultural college in a recent radio address. It affects chickens, turkeys and ducks with equally fatal results. It is most prevalent in late summer, fall and early spring and is due largely to changes of housing conditions and methods of feeding and handling which tend to lower the resistance of the fowls.

Fowl cholera closely resembles fowl typhoid. In fact the resemblance is so close that to most persons the diseases appear to be identical. Even trained workers are often compelled to make microscopic examinations before definitely diagnosing the disease. Ordinary symptoms are ruffling of the feathers, loss of appetite, drooping of the wings and tail, a staggering gait, and diarrhea.

The organism which causes fowl cholera is microscopic in size, is rod shaped, and known as pasteurella avium. It multiplies very rapidly in the blood, causing blood poison. Sanitary measures greatly reduce the number of cases of cholera, according to Doctor Lumb. Regular rations, good ventilation, even temperature, pure water, large houses and large runs are also conditions which help ward off the disease.

To be well built a silo must have air-tight walls, be round in shape, have smooth, perpendicular walls, have strong walls which will not bulge, and be deep in proportion to its diameter.
