NEWS INSTALLS NEW NEWSPAPER PRESS

The fact that the News is a day late this week is due to the installation of a new newspaper press, which was brought in first of the week, but it was necessary to move the other machinery around to make room and the entire shop has been somewhat disorganized all week.

The News will be better prepared now to give the people of Eastern Clackamas county a much better newspaper, and expect to increase the size of the page to the standard seven column, 12 ems. The increased circulation of the paper made it absolutely necessary to increase the printing capacity.

S. E. Wooster has been appointed by the county clerk as registrar of the voters of Estacada precincts. Those desiring to register may do so by applying at Mr. Wooster's office during business hours.

BOB COOKE DEMONSTRATING THE NEW FORD AUTOMOBILE

The Bob Cooke Motor company has been demonstrating the new Ford car the past week, having received his first of the Model A machines on Tuesday of last week. He has a two-door sedan model and from the expressions heard of those who have taken a ride in the car, it is all and more than was expected of it.

The feature that will appeal most to the people of Eastern Clackamas is the ease with which this car can go over the rough roads. The springs and shock absorbers seem to make the car take you over the very roughest roads in ease as compared with the older models.

There is no lack of power, either. On a test when the new machine had been driven only one hundred miles, with four passengers in the car it made the Wilson hill on the Garfield road at thirty miles, starting at less than fifteen. A stop was made and the car again climbed up to thirty miles when the top was reached.

Deliveries are now being made, and Mr. Cooke believes that he will soon be able to fill the orders he now has on hand and is taking new orders with a promise of early delivery.

Candidates Running Close Race For First Place in News' Campaign

FIRST PERIOD ENDS WITH GOOD REPORTS FROM EVERY CONTESTANT

The close of the first period in the Eastern Clackamas News' big circulation campaign Saturday night at 9 o'clock brought in the reserve votes of the different candidates and the contest became a real one. Several of the leaders are now so nearly tied for first position that an accurate check of all the votes turned in was necessary to ascertain the standing.

The manager of this contest has conducted many similar ones, but never before has there been so close a race. Throughout the campaign so far, it has generally happened that the candidate turning in last was generally in the lead.

It's a real race now for first position at the final close, just three weeks away. The man or woman who gets in the greatest amount of business from this date on is practically sure of victory, because of the ten highest on the list but little business would be needed to elevate either to the top.

Two automobiles, two radios and cash prizes, as well as cash commissions, are to be earned during the next three weeks. It is now necessary for every one expecting to win to get their friends organized in every possible way for the triumphant finish. With a big prize almost in sight, you can't afford to neglect for one minute the business of getting votes, for votes it takes to win the new cars or radios.

Stationery Is Big Value

Candidates are finding the the people are pleased with the stationery being put out in the contest orders for which give the same credits as subscriptions. Really the public is getting a chance to get $1.00 value for just half price in buying this stationery.

Stationery of the grade you are able to buy from the candidates is hard to get in the quantity offered any place for the price you can buy it from the candidates, to say nothing about the printing. And if you are not satisfied with the job when it is delivered it will be made right without cost.

Sell Band Memberships

As a means of raising finances necessary for the Estacada Band, honorary membership cards are to be sold for $1 each. The band has agreed to give not less than eight open air concerts in the city of Estacada during the summer; play for the Springwater fair this fall, and also play for the Grange picnic at Eagle Creek in May, and also play at Garfield during the Pamona Grange session in April. They are agreeing to do this, and are asking the public to assist them in providing the needed finances to carry on.

The News desires to assist the band in every way possible, and so for the period of one week, February 26 to March 3, candidates will be allowed to sell these honorary membership cards and will receive the same vote credits for membership cards sold as for subscriptions during the last period, or 6,000 credits for each ticket sold.

Money received for band membership tickets will be turned in to the treasurer of the band, J. K. Ely, who will give candidate his receipt for the same. This receipt will be accepted and credited same as cash.

The News does not benefit one iota from this sale of membership cards, except as every business man and citizen of the community benefits in having a good musical organization in the city such as the Estacada Band. It is hoped that the people will show their appreciation of the efforts of the organization to buy the membership tickets at $1 each.

OUTLOOK FOR INDUSTRY IN GENERAL CONSIDERED FAIR REPORTS INDICATE

OREGON CITY, Feb. 23.—(Special).—Clackamas county's first agricultural outlook conference got underway Tuesday morning when leading farmers from all sections of the county met here to consider the recently issued state outlook report and to review recommendations of the economic conference of 1925.

Following a brief general session the conference split into six different committees—general economics, livestock, farm crops, horticulture, poultry and dairy. The committees reported back at the general meeting Wednesday.

Matt C. Glover of Eagle Creek was named chairman of the general economics committee. This group brought in a report urging support of the movement begun by the Clackamas County Pamona Grange and the Oregon City Chamber of Commerce for a clearing house of farm products through which a greater volume of locally grown produce will be sold by local merchants. Land settlement activities of the Greater Clackamas Union was also endorsed.

H. H. Chindgren, general conference chairman, said in opening the meeting that good business practice calls for occasional study of the county's agricultural resources and their relation to market requirements. He was followed by J. J. Inskeep, county agent, who explained that the local outlook conference is one of a series of ten being arranged in Oregon as a means of providing farmers
