ECONOMIC CONFERENCE RECOMMENDS TO FARMERS

as in other areas west of Cascade mountains, hog production should be based entirely on available farm wastes such as skim milk, cull fruits, cull vegetables or off quality grain. Pasture crops such as alfalfa, rape, grain or clover are means of reducing cost of hog production, the committee added.

Egg prices in 1928 should be higher than last year because of low storage holdings on January 1, 1928, and the favorable outcome of the 1927 storage season in the United States as a whole, the poultry committee reported. Even with the low prices of 1927, many Clackamas county poultrymen produced eggs at a profit.

Considering the egg and poultry situation throughout the country and in the county the committee declared that not only are producers in this county justified in maintaining their flocks but that where production costs have been below the average flocks may be increased in size.

Prospects of a 14 per cent increase in the United States potato acreage should encourage Clackamas growers to reduce the acreage of that crop here and to plant potatoes only on fertile soils that will give big yields of high quality table stock. Burbank is the best variety for commercial production. Only good seed, true to name should be used, the farm crop committee said.

More gray oats for fall and early spring planting to replace later planted spring varieties were urged by the crops report. Also, an increase in the county's barley acreage is desired, using Hanchen for spring planting and O. A. C. No. 7 for sowing in the fall. Fall planting on a firm seed bed will give best results with barley, it was said.

Increase in the acreage of fiber flax must depend upon market developments. Returns from this crop have been satisfactory when planted on soil that produced a good tonnage of long staple fiber. There are now about 600 acres of this crop in the county. Seed flax production has not proved attractive to growers who have tried it.

An evident decrease in the number of dairy cows in the county caused the dairy committee no concern. This committee said that high beef prices and strong out of state demand for cows have led local dairymen to cull their herds closely to eliminate unprofitable animals. This should increase the average herd production to the point where if necessary a lower price can be taken for the product without jeopardizing the profitability of the dairy enterprise.

Even though the dairy outlook is favorable for 1928, dairymen will need a good feed supply and good cows, must use good management and above all should do everything possible to improve quality, the committee declared. California markets are showing an increasing preference for high quality butter. Spread between prices of high score and low score butter being paid on important east markets outside of Oregon is constantly widening. This may result in Oregon dairymen being among the first to lose their markets and is a matter of concern because Oregon is now producing a surplus of dairy products.

Lack of a uniform system of grading cream and failure to pay for cream on grade is seriously affecting the market for butter produced in this state and is resulting in a lower average price of butterfat paid the dairymen, the committee reported. I added that if creamerymen do not make a consistent effort to improve quality it will support any reasonable legislation that may be proposed to compel them to bring about better quality.

Acreage of legume hay in this county is not sufficient to produce that kind of hay for dairy cows here and should be increased, the committee advised. The nutrients required for milk production are almost invariably furnished cheaper in good legume hay. Early cutting and quick curing will result in better quality hay and dairymen were advised to follow that practice rather than depending too much on grain feed.

HIGH SCHOOL

All the boys are now anxious to have good weather because baseball practice will start soon.

Friday the Estacada basketball team went to Canby to play with the Canby high. The score was 38 to 17 in favor of Estacada. The players were— forwards, Dan Jennings and Everett Osborne; center, James Fantz; guards, Bob Hayden and Alvin Munson.

The Estacada girls played the Canby girls on the same evening, the score being 17 to 11 in favor of the Canby team. The local team was in the lead the first half and third quarter, but in the last quarter the Canby girls took the lead. The lineup was— Ora McKinney and Blanche Armstrong, forwards; Irene Davis, running center; Erma Wilcox, jumping center; Alice Kaake and Marion Gardner, guards.

A. H. Drews reports that the boys are finishing three tables, a radio cabinet, a writing desk and a jewel case. He also stated that they have started a cedar chest which is coming along very well.

Some of the former graduates of E. H. S. were visiting the school Friday to see how good the freshmen are putting on their stunts. Before they left they had made up their minds that the frosh were pretty good. Those visiting were Edna Bates, Joe Marshall, Vernon Marshall, Lester Clossner and Shirley Burnett.

The first six weeks of the semester will end this week. Everyone is busy with the exams. The fact that most of the student body has resolved to work harder for the rest of this term has been shown in the improvement in grades over last term's work.

The student body greatly enjoyed the freshman program Friday. The stunts were announced by a clown and consisted of the girls' chorus, "A Modern School," boys' chorus, "The Newly Weds," piano solo and a duet.

Olive Bishop qualified for the silver pin award in the official Underwood test for the month of February. To receive the silver pin, one must write fifty words per minute for 15 minutes of typewriting. Ethel Hayman qualified for the bronze pin by writing forty words a minute. Blanche Armstrong, Edith DeMoy and Cecilia Lingelbach all members of the beginners class who will receive certificates for writing over 30 words per minute. The papers have been sent in but it will be several weeks before the awards arrive.
