PLAN DEVELOPMENT OF CARY HOT SPRINGS

COMPANY INCORPORATES FOR QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS THIS WEEK

The Cary-Austin Hot Springs, with headquarters in Portland and capital stock of $250,000 has been incorporated by R. W. Cary, William R. Stokes and A. E. Sparks.

It begins to look as if these valuable medicinal springs were going to be developed for the benefit of mankind. On account of their location in the mountains about thirty-five miles southeast of Estacada, access to them was by trails on foot and pack horses.

A number of years ago the Cary brothers undertook to develop them and put up buildings and instaked bath houses, but the project was not feasible at that time as sick people could hardly stand the strenuous trip to the springs, so the project was abandoned.

The promoters of the hot springs corporation are well known by the older inhabitants of this section. R. W. Cary, with his brother W. F. Cary, located in Estacada when the town was in its infancy and put in a hardware store. Later they went into the F. M. Kendrick block on Broadway and conducted a general store. I used to be said anyone could get anything at the Cary store from a spool of thread to a threshing machine. In 1915 the store was totally destroyed by fire.

W. R. Stokes resided for a number of years on a farm in the Garfield district, later moving to Portland.

A. E. Sparks is formerly from Nebraska. He came to Estacada several years ago and went into the general merchandise business. He has been identified with different business enterprises here since then being one of the men to get the telephone into town and was also part owner of the first newspaper in Estacada. Selling out he retired from active business and has resided here continuously since.

She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Alice Moffert, of Kansas City. Mrs. Boswell reports a most delightful as well as educational trip.

Bazaar Nets Aid $79

The M. E. Ladies' Aid bazaar and dinner Saturday was well patronized, especially the delicious dinner served. They had more articles for sale than at any previous bazaar, also more of a variety. RECALLS PREPARATION FOR GREAT WORLD WAR

Bringing back memories of America's entrance into the World war, F. E. O.'s special "Rose of the Trenches," is an absorbingly powerful and dramatic story of patriotism amid the gangsters of New York's Eastside. The picture, which will be at the Liberty Theatre, Estacada, on Friday and Saturday, April 6 and 7, deals with the influence of Bolshevik propaganda on the two leading characters, orphans who have been brought up to believe they are brother and sister, and the stirring results when war is declared.

Directed by Phil Rosen, who made "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," and starring Shirley Mason in the title role, the film is one of the most striking and forceful screen dramas produced for a long time. Johnny Harron ably supports Miss Mason's superb work, and the remainder of the cast, which includes such names as Evelyn Selbie, Sidney Franklin James Gordon, Frank McEllin Jr., Scott McKee, Jesse Devorska and others furnish excellent characterizations. The picture was adapted from John A. Moroso's famous novel, "The Stumbling Herd."

DRINKING FOUNTAIN IS DESTROYED AGAIN

The driver who ran into the drinking fountain at the corner opposite the Cooke garage a few days ago, seems to take delight in keeping up his nefarious pastime. Saturday night the fountain was broken and twisted worse than ever. The fountain belongs to the city and is for public use. The marshal has a clue as to the perpetrator of the damage.

Marquam Strain of Leghorns Bred For Egg Production

The Marquam Strain of White Leghorns, known throughout the state and Northwest for their wonderful records, are in demand. They have a record of 11 years standing for production.

The Marquam breeding farm is located one mile east of Estacada on the Garfield road, and while not so large as many of the poultry farms of Clackamas county, only the birds with known records are kept. No stock is offered for sale until their production has been proven. For this reason, Mr. Marquam has a hard time to supply the demand for his stock.

Every breeding bird on this farm has a known trapnest record back of it and comes from a definite, known ancestry of high egg production. Every special breeding bird has definite blood lines back of it on male and female side for 11 generations.

Every scientific fact that is capable of being known about a domestic fowl is recorded and made a part of the permanent records of the farm. These definite facts include such things as the daily egg record of each bird as determined by the trapnest, the size, shape and color, and texture of the eggs laid by each bird; the date of the first egg and its weight when laid; the weight of the fowl herself; the definite records of the blood lines back of each fowl, the records and prepotency of the ancestors of such a bird, as determined by the trapnest and by progeny testing; additional records are also kept in regard to the performance of the pullets of each individual hen, her prepotency as a transmitter of high record stock, and her ability to pass on to her cockerels the ability she possesses as a high egg producer, the cockerels in turn passing this high egg producing quality on to their pullets.

All of the above facts are carefully recorded in special books and preserved for future use to enable the proper mating to get the best results, and to perpetuate their vigor, health and high egg producing qualities, together with a complete and comprehensive system of progeny testing by which definite and accurate check is obtained on all the different family lines (11 in number) used on this farm.

SCOUTS AND CAMP-FIRE GIRLS' PROGRAM

There was a good attendance at the Community Club meeting Friday evening in the Masonic hall. Miss Bessie Anderson, guardian of the Camp Fire Girls was on hand to assist with the program, as was A. H. Drews, with his Boy Scouts.

After the community singing the girls—Lois Bates, Lavena Grabeel, Lois Smith, Katherine Marden, Margaret Nordland, Carol Yocum, Louise Armstrong, Neva Lemon and Glen Cary—gave their part of their program. Miss Anderson explained the work and laws of the organization which the girls exemplified in different ways in song and recitation. The girls presented a burlesque play entitled "The Supreme Sacrifice," in three parts.

The Scouts marched into the hall carrying the American flag and the scout flag, to which the entire troop paid their respects with the scout salute. Mr. Drews explained the work while the boys exemplified with acts and dialogues. There were some musical numbers, some of the boys playing harmonicas, some sang and there was a violin solo.

A short business meeting followed which consisted of reports of committees and discussion. The high school will furnish the program for the May meeting of the club.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Jack Souls came out from Portland this week to work in the forest service again this year.

Mrs. A. Gorrell was taken suddenly ill last Sunday but is improving at this time.

Mrs. A. S. Hassell has been on the sick list for several days with an attack of neuritis.

Mrs. Ryning's daughter, Mrs. M. W. White of Arlington, Ore., was here visiting her mother for several days.

Complete and comprehensive blood line charts are kept, of all the matings made each year—these consist of charts showing the definite proportion of blood composition of each bird, the blood lines of its ancestors for 11 generations back, and their relative influence upon the various blood lines that go to make up a given family line; the strength and weakness (if any should appear) are thus brought out at a glance by the use of this system of bloodline charts.

Scientific breeding cannot be carried on without the use of these blood line charts. They are one of the most essential things on a high grade breeding establishment, says Mr. Marquam. They give a definite and accurate summary of the breeding results as obtained each year from the standpoint of blood composition of each family line and enable one to note the outstanding specimens under consideration and to take advantage of their record of performance by reason of the definite knowledge of the blood line back of such a bird, all of which lines are definitely recorded in these blood line charts and made a part of the permanent records of the Marquam farm.

This farm is a member of the Oregon Accredited Hatchery and Breeders' association under the direct supervision of O. A. C. As a member of the association the farm specializes in the production of R. O. P. (Record of Performance) and certified breeding stock, hatching eggs and baby chicks. All the records of this farm are under the supervision and inspection of O. A. C. A supervisor visits the farm every month and checks over the records, inspects the incubation work, and checks all the lines of work carried on and takes duplicate copies of the trapnest records which are filed at O. A. C. for permanent use.

All the breeding stock is tested by the veterinary department of the college and is proved to be free of disease. By constant attention being paid to keeping the houses and yards in a sanitary and healthful condition the vigor of the stock is increased and their permanent health assured.

Surprise Birthday Party

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen had a birthday Friday and some of her friends were unkind enough to remind her of the anniversary by planning and carrying out a surprise which was certainly a grand success and made Mrs. Allen very happy. About thirty ladies went en masse to her home in the afternoon and after visiting for a time the committee took charge of her kitchen and dining room and soon had refreshments of ice cream and cake ready to serve. On account of the nearness of April 1, the committee deemed themselves privileged to "fool" the innocent and unsuspecting guests in a most clever manner. The joke was a "hilarious" time, the effect of which some of the ladies did not recover for several days. Mrs. Allen was the recipient of many handsome presents.
