ESTACADA, OREGON, FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1928

NUMBER 35

NINETEEN GRADUATED FROM ESTACADA HIGH

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES HELD FRIDAY.—DR. HEWETT GIVES ADDRESS.

Nineteen girls and boys received their diplomas at the graduating exercises of the Estacada high school last Friday evening at the auditorium before a large audience of pupils parents and friends. J. G. Hayman president of the school board, made the presentation.

A thoughtful lesson to the graduates was given by Dean Roy E. Hewett of the Willamette University who delivered the commencement address, on "A Present Problem," dealing with the awfulness of war and pleading that the boys and girls be educated for resistance should the question of war ever be brought up again.

The invocation was given by Rev. C. T. Cook and the salutatory by Fred Voight. Olive Bishop gave the valedictory and the musical numbers were a cornet solo, "Perfect Day," by Leonard Davis; mandolin solo "Alberta Caprice," by Irene Davis vocal solo, "Forgotten," Elvin Beck and "The Heart Bowed Down," by Kenneth Dart.

The stage presented a very attractive appearance with decorations of purple and gold, class colors, and bouquets of cut flowers. "Die trying," the class motto, in letters of blossoms, adorned the center of the stage above the curtain.

The graduates are Alice Kaake Lillian Duncan, Ruth Hale, Ruby Hoffmeister, Eva Dew, Opal Clester Irene Davis, Olive Bishop, Elwin Beck, Oliver Beck, Carl DeMoy, Everett Osborne, James Fantz, Fred Voight, Sam Whitehead, Kenneth Dart, Leonard Davis, Bernard Whitaker and Dan Jennings.

There seems to be something solemn and sad about the graduating of a class, as it forms the climax of a certain period in their lives and the beginning of a new one. Then too, the class has been intimately associated together for four years forming ties which are severed to more or less extent.

PLANS PROCEED FOR CELEBRATION ON 4TH

SPEAKING, SPORTS, BASEBALL GAME AND STREET DANCE TO BE FEATURES

Plans are getting under way for the celebration to be held in Estacada on July Fourth. Committees are being selected and the tentative program being outlined as fast as possible. A meeting of the general committee was held Wednesday evening and another is to be held next Monday evening, after which date more definite announcements can be made.

A prominent speaker is being secured for the day, and a program of sports and interesting events to take up the entire day is planned.

A baseball game between the Legionnaires and a good team from outside is being arranged and will be one of the main attractions for the afternoon.

A dance will be held in the afternoon and also in the evening, probably a street dance, at night. The committee at first decided to give a dance at Eagle Creek in the evening but it appeared that a majority favored the dance being held on the street here in front of the postoffice.

A contest for the selection of the Goddess of Liberty to reign over the throngs on the Fourth is planned, details of the contest to be announced within a short time.

Business men who have so far been approached on the subject are in favor of a big celebration, and the plans of the band for the observance of the day will, to a big extent, be governed according to the degree of co-operation tendered by the business firms of the city.

Within a few days the committee will make a canvas of the town and afterward will be more able to discuss the plans and arrangements for the day.

Since the park is not available, the speaking and many of the events for the day will have to be held on the vacant lots around the postoffice, the committee has decided.

ESTACADA BEATS BAKERY 3 TO 1

MORELAND PITCHES FINE GAME ALLOWING BAKERS BUT SEVEN SAFE HITS

One of the best ball games of the season was played on the Estacada field Sunday afternoon when Davidson's bakery team in the Portland Valley league was defeated by the Estacada Legionnaires by a 3 to 1 score.

Jude Moreland did the tossing act for the home team, with no relief in sight if the bakers started hitting. This was Jude's first complete game of pitching for several years, and he managed to keep the Portlanders reasonably out of danger throughout the contest.

The home team Sunday was shy two regulars and also Malcolm Riebhoff, who has been the mainstay on the pitching staff throughout the season. Eddie Schmitz along with Riebhoff was fighting fire last Sunday and Kenneth Scales was sick, making it necessary to place a new man at shortstop as well as a new fielder in the left garden.

Tony Bronson, who has been playing second sack, took shortstop position, and was the star in the game. Tony had seven chances and made good on everyone of them, two plays bordering on the sensational. Jennings played an errorless game in left field.

No pitcher in a Portland Valley league game this year has been given better support than that given Jude Moreland by the Legionnaires in Sunday's contest. The bakers' lone tally in the fifth frame was made on a fluke when Ray Lovelace threw the ball from center to Miller at third as a runner was advancing.

It looked as if it would be an easy out, but the ball made a sudden turn for some reason or other and passed the sack and the runner scored.

Arnold Lovelace, first sacker for the Legionnaires, in addition to playing a perfect game at first, started with the stick, hitting Bliss, Davidson twirler, for two doubles and as many singles, in five times up.

Dykes went in as a pinch hitter for Jennings in the ninth, but with no effective result, hitting into the second baseman's mit.

Bliss for the visitors pitched a fine game, allowing twelve hits, badly scattered except in the eighth inning when they bunched five bingles for three runs.

Gus Hanke of Sherwood umpired the game to the complete satisfaction of both sides, and a special request has been made for Mr. Hanke's services at the game in his home town next Sunday. He covers every play, is emphatic in his decisions and (Continued on page 3)

"THE OLD FRONTIER" TO BE AGAIN STAGED

OREGON CITY, May 31.—During the past week an organization has been accomplished of nearly all civic bodies that is considered one of the most complete community hookups that this city has ever had. It has been done in the interests of again re-enacting the Oregon pageant, "The Old Pioneer," during July of this summer at Gladstone park.

The pageant play created such an emphatic impression at the Chautauqua during the last session that the demand was very general to have it continued and especially in the face of the adjournment of the Chautauqua this summer.

"The Old Frontier" expresses so completely the traditions of old Oregon and the romance and adventure pertaining to its early days and when the question was presented the opinion that it should go on, similar to many other well known spectacles in other cities, was unanimous among the citizens.

"SHANGHAIED" IS BIG THRILLER HERE TODAY

As a picture of the sea in which no mutiny or fighting on shipboard occurs, "Shanghaied," Ralph Ince's great maritime production is said to hold a unique position in the annals of filmdom.

While thrilling action is the keynote of this great sea picture, which will be at the Liberty Theatre here Friday and Saturday, the director has not resorted to the hackneyed mutiny and sea fight for his climax, but instead has depended upon a subtle play of emotions to produce the high dramatic point in the story.

"Shanghaied" is based on a story of the Barbary coast, San Francisco's colorful water front, and a girl who dances in one of the toughest joints. Forced to take part in a plot against the man she loves, she gains his hatred. For revenge, he takes her to sea with him to make her repay in work what she has helped to rob him of. Out of this situation comes a drama of love and hate which has been acclaimed by critics as being one of the most gripping ever filmed.

Ince, who also directed the picture, is starred as the sturdy man of the sea, too hard to see love in revenge. Patsy Ruth Miller plays the tough little cabaret girl.
