

WRESTLING MATCH PLANNED FOR FOURTH

Arrangements are being completed to hold a wrestling match in the Odd Fellows building here on the evening of the Fourth. Bill Thornton of Portland will be seen in action with either Joe Reynolds of Los Angeles Stanley Rogers or Oscar Butler. Ben Blaisdell, the wrestling logger, is scouring the country for a match but so far can't find an opponent. He wants to show the people that Thornton has made a tough nut to beat out of him since he has been training with him.

Thornton is one of the old timers in the game as he has met all of the men in the light heavy class and some in the heavy class, also. Having toured the country two years with a circus, he is well known and anyone who sees his cauliflower ears knows he is no set up and is dangerous at all times.

He has power in his legs to bring the best of them down. He worries not at all about head locks and when he gets enough of that he picks 'em up and shakes 'em off. He has a 20-inch neck and claims it can't be bent. He says when he gets through the Fourth of July with whoever the matchmaker gets against him that the fans will go home satisfied, that if he has to use the aeroplane spin, as he did with Parker, he will do it.

CURRINSVILLE

The wonderful rains of last week were the making of most of the farm crops and gardens and sure was a blessing to all.

Mrs. Clara Webber came Saturday to visit homefolks and can some fruit for the winter. Mrs. Webber says prospects are wonderful for a crop this year, but home looks good yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilcox of Antelope came down last week to can fruit and visit with homefolks at the same time. Guy had the misfortune to hurt his wrist just before leaving home.

John Githens shipped a fine load of lambs to the Portland stock yards

Monday on the Currinsville store truck.

Victor Leon bought three fine cows from Edgar Heiple Monday.

There was quite a turnout at the school election Monday.

There has been an unusual inquiry for 30-acre tracts of land of late.

R. H. Currin spent the week end at home.

Clarice Lombard was ill first of the week.

R. H. Carver with the Portland Gas and Coke company and his friend Miss Hadley, were visiting at the Currinsville store Sunday.

Cleve Heiple is plowing with the tractor on their ranch.

Wilbur Looney has been very sick but is on the up grade and his doctor says he sees no reason why he should not get well.

Again to the surprise of most of us, eggs are on the up grade. Extra standards will bring 28 cents, but to the surprise of most people it is impossible to get many of those who produce them in shape to bring top prices. After gathering eggs they should be cleaned immediately. A handful of steel wool is a wonderful cleaner. Soft shelled eggs should not be sent to market. They break and cause others to break thereby causing the shipper a heavy loss. Dirty eggs should not be offered for sale. Clean them if you have to wash them. Eggs should be graded into four grades according to size.

Howard Coleman and sister of Carlton were visiting in Currinsville Sunday.

The Currinsville store hauled out from Portland this week a truck load of binding twine.

UPPER EAGLE CREEK
