Shrine Much Visited

It is believed that the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery has been decorated more often than any monument or memorial, taking into consideration the length of time that it has been built. Scarcely a day passes that a wreath is not placed upon the tomb in tribute, and often two or three are laid there on the same day.

Relic of Ancient Race

The oldest relic of the early ages yet found in Yorkshire, England, is believed to be an ancient stone implement discovered at Eston Nab, near Middlesborough. It is said to be about 75,000 years old. The discovery, some think, establishes for the first time the existence of a race of subhuman beings in northern Britain.

Time Lost by Sickness

A bulletin of the committee on administrative practice of the American Public Health association says that estimates from various sources, published in February, 1927, state that the average annual loss to wage earners in the United States on account of sickness usually varies from six to nine days per person.

Action of Lightning

The mysterious quirk of lightning that tears off the sole of a shoe or the whole shoe of the person who may be struck is not mysterious at all. Many persons have perspiring feet. The electric bolt encounters the perspiration, converts it to steam and the ensuing explosion blows off the sole or shoe.

Fail to Hold Audience

Common speakers have only one set of ideas and one set of words to clothe them in; and these are always ready at the mouth; so people come faster out of a church when it is almost empty than when a crowd is at the door.—Jonathan Swift.

Life's Tribulations

"And when the new car arrived I found it was one shade lighter than my dress," remarked a well-dressed woman, "but then, as I told my husband, we all have our crosses"—Terre Haute Tribune.

Everybody Interested

The whole family owns the car. That is, when the car is idle it is mother's car, when it is in use it is the children's car, and when disabled or with a tire down it is dad's car.—Pratt Republican.
