CROCKETTS KILLED AT CLACKAMAS BY TRAIN

ESTACADA COUPLE HIT WHEN CROSSING S. P. TRACK SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Crockett of Estacada were instantly killed Saturday afternoon when their car was struck by a Southern Pacific stub at the Clackamas crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. Crockett came to Estacada two years ago and leased Mrs. Hurst's residence just across the bridge from the city limits, on the Springwater road. Mr. Crockett was employed as engineer at the Estacada Lumber company plant at Faraday, one and one-half miles from town.

Saturday afternoon about one o'clock they left in their car for Portland where Mr. Crockett had business to transact, the accident happening shortly after two o'clock. Mrs. Crockett's pet dog "Patsy" was in the car with them and was uninjured.

Witnesses were unable to explain how the accident could have happened. A freight train had been divided at the road to permit traffic to pass through. The Crocketts were proceeding toward Portland. The stub train, an engine and caboose, was proceeding smartly on the other track, masked from the Crocketts by the freight.

The wigwag sign was working, witnesses said. The crossing flagman was at his post. He shouted and waved his red flag frantically to warn Crockett, but jumped for his life when Crockett, 75 feet from the crossing applied the brakes and skidded into the path of the oncoming train.

Mrs. Crockett was thrown 150 feet from the road. She struck on her head. Crockett and his smashed automobile were carried 540 feet and his body was mangled.

Funeral services were held at the Holman undertaking parlors in Portland Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock; a large number of friends being present. The officers from the Portland Rebeccah lodge, of which organization Mr. and Mrs. Crockett were members, had charge of the services. Final services were held at the Portland Crematorium.

REAL ESTATE DEALER IS CLACKAMAS COUNTY BOOSTER

MISS MOLONEY PUBLISHES STORY IN FARM PAPER

"Girl Homesteaders in Montana" Is Title of Feature in This Week's Country Gentleman.

"Girl Homesteaders in Montana" is the title of a story published by Miss Martha Moloney of Eagle Creek which appears in the October number of the Country Gentleman. The article is well illustrated and deals with the experiences Miss Moloney and her sister had while homesteading.

The Misses Moloney have lived in the Eagle Creek district for a few years, having come here from their homestead in Montana, which they "proved up on" and now reside on a farm a short distance east of the Eagle Creek store.

The story as published in the Country Gentleman has reader interest; it is an interesting story well told.

SPEAKER DISCUSSES POLITICAL ISSUES

ESTACADA AUDIENCE HEARS JUDGE EXPRESS OPINION OF TWO CANDIDATES

Judge John J. Jeffries of Portland delivered the first campaign speech in the presidential election heard in Estacada this year, Tuesday night at the Liberty Theatre. The crowd was not as large as was expected, but apparently was enthusiastically for Herbert Hoover for president.

Judge Jeffries devoted most of the hour to the discussion of the stand taken by Mr. Hoover and Alfred E. Smith on the principal issues in this campaign. Prohibition was one of the subjects which has been given considerable thought by the speaker and he called attention to the fact that Mr. Hoover stood for the enforcement of the 18th amendment while Mr. Smith was in favor of nullification.

Judge Jeffries did not believe that the law would be changed if Smith was elected, but said that he was not in sympathy with the law, and that he had always been a friend in New York state to those connected with the business. "When you send the bootlegger's best friend out to catch him, there is little chance of his being caught," the speaker stated.

Farm relief was discussed by the Judge, who stated that Frank Lowden and Senator McNary were satisfied with Hoover's stand on this question, and as they are the recognized leaders of the farm group, the farmers of the country should be willing to accept their judgment in the matter.

Smith, he pointed out, admitted that he knew nothing about what the farmers needed, and had no idea of any remedy, but in his acceptance speech stated that he would appoint a commission to make a study of the problem, which, in effect was going right back to where Governor Lowden and Senator McNary had started sixteen or twenty years ago.

Smith's opposition to the present immigration laws was also discussed at length. Judge Jeffries spoke in defense of the Johnson law and said that in future the United States should continue to allow only those foreigners who had proven themselves to enter and become citizens of the United States. He said that statistics show that only 5 per cent of the criminals in the United States were "white" American citizens.

The records of the two candidates during the world war were compared, at which time Mr. Hoover served his country at a salary of $1 per year, and was selected by President Wilson to one of the greatest tasks ever entrusted to any man, and that he fulfilled the duties with honor to himself and the nation.

The charge that has been made by the democratic party that Hoover set the price of wheat during the war was answered by a quotation from a speech made by Woodrow Wilson, in which Mr. Wilson had stated that Hoover had nothing to do with the price fixing of wheat.

Quite a large number of the women present were enrolled in the "Hoover for President" club of this county.
