

THE CIRCUITOR HAS A DEMOCRATIC NOTION

FARM RELIEF! AL SMITH! HOOVER!

Persistently these topics ring thru our valleys and echo from the hills, destroying the peace and serenity of one who would prefer to listen to the rustle of the leaves, the drumming of the grouse, the call of the birds, one to another, as they make ready for flight; the patter of the rain on the roof, slithering through the fir boughs, sweeping across the dead fields in a belated effort to bring them back to life. There are so many enchanting things in October—if politics weren't so intrusive!

FARM RELIEF the politician promises, and the word RELIEF echoes ominously, making us shiver. Sounds so flat-on-our-back-like, ready to give up the ghost, with Big Business at the bedside rolling a pill designed to ease our last moments.

A chance is all the farmer needs, really. An equal show with big business, and the only way he'll get it is to elect the man who won't give big business all the plums. A chance! He'll have it on November 6, next. If he doesn't take advantage of it, then he'd better swallow a pill and pass out quietly, leaving the fields to the grouse, and the birds, and the leaves—and the rain—all those enchanting things, for history tells us that Republican presidents just naturally can't be of much help to farmers. And that's that!

HOOVER CALLED LABOR'S FRIEND

Sympathy for Workers Prompted by Memory of His Own Early Toil.

URGED 8 HOUR STEEL DAY

Induced Manufacturers to Establish Industry on That Basis After 30 Year Struggle.

WASHINGTON.—The intention of Herbert Hoover to keep to a high level the standards of the American home and to do so by continuing his efforts in behalf of labor is shown in a pamphlet, "Hoover and Labor," released by the Hoover for President Labor Council of the Republican National Committee.

During his entire career, beginning at the age of 12 when he was tossed into the world to earn his living, Mr. Hoover has worked wholeheartedly in the cause of the working man. As a laborer himself, as a worker in the mines in his youth and, since 1921, as Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover has studied the problems of American labor and has aided in the solution of many of them, the pamphlet shows.

Aided Long Fight in Steel Mills
Mr. Hoover's labor record is an open book. Policies that have benefited labor have won his unwavering support in every instance, the leaflet reveals.

"In supporting Mr. Hoover," it states "American workers will be voting for one of their own kind."

The brochure further goes on to show that Mr. Hoover's support of the principle of collective bargaining is not mere theory. Prior to 1922 the workers in the steel industry were working 12 hours a day. This condition Mr. Hoover deplored, as he believed that a shorter working day would not only be of untold benefit to the steel worker, but would result in the long run in a greater output and better craftsmanship.

To this end, in 1922, he brought together the steel manufacturers of America and induced them to establish eight hours throughout the entire steel industry. For thirty years organized labor had been fighting to this end and the pamphlet just issued shows that Mr. Hoover's efforts were successful in bringing to a close that long fight of the steel workers.

Mr. Hoover has always believed in collective bargaining and in addition he has constantly upheld the rights of workers to select their own representatives without interference, influence or coercion from any source. He has always opposed the seven-day week, once general in many industries.

Is High Wage Advocate
In 1920 he said: "In fixing hours of labor in industrial establishments at a point consistent with the health of employees and with proper opportunity for rest and recreation, there should in all cases be provision for one day's rest in seven."

"Mr. Hoover believes that the surest road to prosperity is that which leads to prosperity for the masses," the pamphlet says. "While advocating mass production and the use of labor saving machinery, he has earnestly advocated that labor share in the increased production through higher wages and the adoption of the best conditions of employment in the world. His record in the Department of Commerce and his public utterances demonstrate the earnestness and sincerity of his interest in the workers of our country, who have always looked upon him as a friend."

Digging into the public utterances of the Republican candidate for president, the pamphlet reveals that in his dealing with the question of the restriction of foreign immigration, Mr. Hoover believes that our first concern is to provide employment for our own people and others already here before we permit the admission of many from other countries to compete with American labor. At the same time, in his address of acceptance at Palo Alto, Calif., in August, he promised to do his utmost to amend the immigration laws to relieve unnecessary hardships upon families.

As a basis of protection for the American working man Mr. Hoover believes firmly in the Protective Tariff, the booklet reiterates in pointing out the dangers of a change in administration policies at the present crucial period.
