HOW U. S. BROKE ALIEN MONOPOLY

Hoover Saved American Consumers Many Millions by Peaceful Resistance.

HE CUT COFFEE BILL
 Reduced Crude Rubber Cost to Country by More Than 500 Million Dollars.

WASHINGTON.—How Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce waged a fight on foreign monopolies which had been controlling raw materials essential to industry, agriculture and homes of the United States is described in a pamphlet just issued by the Republican National Committee. This struggle was one which affected every home, for the foreign monopolies not only levied a tax on certain products used in the home but also on other important articles of commerce. If it had been lost, it would have seriously menaced many branches of business, which made extensive use of these raw materials, thus affecting consumers.

Saved America Millions
 The victory which Mr. Hoover achieved by peaceful means resulted in savings of hundreds of millions of dollars to the American consumer, the pamphlet points out.

"Governmentally-controlled foreign combinations had been set up in a number of raw materials which, because of our inability to produce, we must depend upon purchasing abroad," says the pamphlet. "Among them are rubber, coffee, nitrates, potash, sisal, camphor, iodine, mercury and long-staple cotton. These combinations fixed both production and prices."

Mr. Hoover's campaign was waged by showing business how to handle the problem largely by itself. He asked Congress for funds to investigate the foreign control, and also obtained authorization to use scientists from other Government departments.

Laboratories made studies of reclamation and development of substitutes while scientists sought new sources of these materials, it is shown. Other investigators gathered full data on availability of other territory to produce these essentials.

Government officials, Mr. Hoover and others, told the interested industries of their findings, and at the same time, without any clash with any foreign government or agency, let the nations of the world know how the United States was prepared to meet this monopolization policy.

Some of the results of these efforts, as cited by the pamphlet, are:

Broke Rubber Monopoly
 Saved American rubber consumers upwards of $500,000,000 by action breaking the British control of rubber production and prices. This control is being abandoned and new sources of rubber development promise to hold the prices down.

Saved the American people about $100,000,000 in its bill for coffee through shifting purchases from Brazil to other sources to a sufficient degree to effect the decline.

Urged the growing of long-staple cotton in the United States to break the control exercised in Egypt over acreage and supplies.

Encouraged exploration for native beds of potash and added in promoting the fixation of free nitrogen of the air to help relieve the American farmers from the levy imposed by Chile and the Franco-German potash trust.

By demonstrating to the other nations that the United States determined not to tolerate foreign control, and by the example afforded in the case of rubber, the signal has been given for abandonment of others of the more deleterious controls.

Mr. Hoover, the pamphlet points out, has consistently clung to the position "that economic progress must depend upon the driving force of competition." He has reiterated that:

"The problem should be met on the ground of what in the long run will produce good will and prosperity to the entire world, for no single nation can dissociate its prosperity from the prosperity and good will of all of them. . . ."

And his method has sought to bring this about, rather than to develop trade wars, in which there lie the seeds of international friction and a menace to friendly relations.

SANDY GRADE SCHOOL

Mrs. Cecelia Brown is taking the University of Oregon extension work every Tuesday night.

Having recesses at different times is working splendidly so far, as the play ground is small and when all the children are not out at once there is less danger of little folk getting hurt.

Mrs. Zenger has appointed leaders for conducting posture drills and other features of physical culture in the upstairs rooms. In Mrs. Van Fleet's room Lois Beers and Franklin Bittner are leaders; in Mr. Mallery's room Lola Dodd and Donald Dahrens.

All the dirt was taken out of the play shed last Saturday, and used to level off the playground, shavings were hauled in the playshed floor.
