000 miles, a distance equal to six trips around the world. He burned
10,000 gallons of gasoline and wore

Four Students From Estacada and District Get Degrees at O. S. C.

From the left: Jesse C. Kimmel, George H. Lingelbach, Velma Morton, Glenn H. Ely.

Oregon State College, Corvallis, May 30.—(Special).—Estacada and surrounding district are represented by four of the 534 graduates of the class of 1929 completing work for degrees at the 60th annual commencement, June 3. Of the total number being graduated, 489 will receive the bachelor of science degree, 22 the master of science degree and 23 the degree of pharmaceutical chemist.

Men outnumber women in the graduating class, 336 to 198, though the latter are scattered among seven of the 10 degree-granting schools of the college. To get the bachelor of science degree here students must not only complete four years of studies but must maintain an average grade of 80 or above. The result is that those in the graduating class are only those who have survived a four-year "weeding out" process that has eliminated the less determined students.

Jesse C. Kimmel is receiving the degree of B. S. in pharmacy from one of the strongest schools in this field in the West. The school includes a model drug store, the first of its kind established in the United States, which serves as a laboratory for actual drug store problems. Every one of the 19 graduates this year had to take state pharmacy examination as a part of his final training and success in it permits practice in any of 44 states without further tests. Many of the graduates of this school go on into the medical profession, become commercial chemists or become drug inspectors or analysts or enter related fields.

An engineering course was chosen by Glenn H. Ely and George H. Lingelbach when they enrolled, and they are now two of the 116 graduates in their class. This school trains men in civil, electrical, mechanical engineering and industrial arts, these two students choosing the industrial arts department. Their training has led directly to the various fields of public work involved in the future development of the country, especially the Pacific Northwest. The curricula they followed was developed according to the standards of the national engineering societies, the first two years of which are devoted to basic courses and the last two to more specialized applications. Many graduates this year were selected for advanced work and training with some of the leading corporations of the East.

In addition to the regular class work, these three graduates have been active in student activities on the campus. Kimmel is a member of Acacia, Masonic social fraternity, and has been president of the house. He was also on the interfraternity council and vice-president of the pharmaceutical association and chairman of the freshman week committee. Ely played in the college band and was a member of the Hesperian Club and Industrial Arts Club. Lingelbach was a member of the Hawley Club, the Industrial Arts Club and Newman Club and a member of the Greater O. S. C. Committee. He was also active in athletics, going out for cross-country and varsity track.

Home economics is the one school in which no men major, hence the 96 graduates this year of which Velma Morton is one, all co-eds. Two main curricula are open to students in this school, one leading to commercial pursuits or teaching, and the other to homemaking and general citizenship. Miss Morton has had work in household administration, foods and nutrition, home economics, in addition to the liberal studies afforded in other schools of the college. As 75 per cent of the young women of the United States are married before they are 30, considerable emphasis is placed on training for the homemaking career.

In addition to the regular class work, Miss Morton has been active in campus affairs. She is social chairman of the Xantippe Club, local social group, and is on the Y. W. C. A. cabinet.

SMALL TOWN STUFF

Good morning, neighbor! How are you today?
And are your hens beginning to lay?
Did you ever see such a backward spring?
I declare, it just beats everything!
Rain, rain, and still more rain—
Such weather always gives me a pain!
My "rheumatiz" bothers me bad—
When the sun shines I'll sure be glad.
What's that? Everything's gone wrong, you say?
Don't worry, neighbor; I'll help you today—
My "rheumatiz"? Shucks! There ain't no little pain
Can keep me from going out in the rain!
Now, don't you worry and fret and stew,
Just tell me what you want me to do.
What am I good for, I want to know,
If I can't help my neighbor hoe a hard row?

Small town stuff! Well! Is that so?
Whatever it is, I'm glad to know
That I've a neighbor just over the way
Who is ready and willing to help me today.
Small town stuff! What makes you think so?
We were told of it long, long ago:
Take your Bible from off the shelf—
Read, "Love your neighbor as yourself."

—Mira Ann Hornecker.

Oil and Gas Cost Cent a Mile

A good system of crop rotation will usually do more to increase soil fertility and insure a good stand of clover in Oregon than anything else, says the experiment station. Although most commercial fertilizers are of little value for this crop, clover which has a good stand but which makes only slow, small growth, will practically always respond to the use of land plaster.
