

THE COMING GENERATION

WITHOUT in any way deprecating a savings account, or the education in thrift which is incidental thereto, we suggest that parents who are in a financial position to do so, should encourage their children to have Commercial Accounts.

Banking and business methods can thus be taught at a time in life when the mind is most receptive and retentive, and the sound foundations of future business success laid. To young depositors able to maintain substantial balances in a commercial account, we extend a cordial invitation.

rites for Revenue Largely Attended

John Revenue, Sandy's best known pioneer, was laid to rest at Cliffside on Saturday, March 28. He died on the previous Thursday. Mr. Revenue was born on June 27, 1856, at his father's trading post, near Sandy. His parents were Francis and Lydia Revenue, his father being the first settler here in June, 1884. John Revenue was married to Parmelia A. Weed. Three children survive, Mrs. Emma Miller, El Paso, Texas; Ray Revenue, of Corvallis; and Homer Revenue, of Keso; also one sister, Alice C. Webster, of Portland, and six grandchildren.

Rites for Mr. Revenue were held at the Grange Hall and were in charge of the Sandy Pioneer Society, of which he was president since 1926. As the casket was carried in, Miss Amy Cooper, of Gresham, played a funeral dirge, which was followed by a vocal solo, "Crossing the Bar," by C. E. Rusher. E. F. Bruns then delivered a touching and eloquent eulogy on the life of Mr. Revenue, whom he had known since birth. A quartet composed of Mrs. J. M. C. Miller, Mrs. R. Jonsrud, R. S. Smith and C. E. Rusher, sang "The River of Time." Miss Dorothy Bruns accompanied at the piano. Charles Sievers, attorney, of Oregon City, delivered an address on the historical points of the deceased's life. Mrs. Rusher sang "The End of a Perfect Day," accompanied by Miss Cooper. At Cliffside cemetery, Donald J. Ryan, county clerk, gave the commitment, with Mr. Bruns following with a few words, in the name of the Pioneer Society.

The flowers were wonderful. The Sandy Pioneer Society presented a large, elaborate piece. It would take a volume to recite the interesting history connected with the life of John Revenue, who lived in this community almost 75 years and was active in its interests until the last. Pioneers and early settlers from far and near attended the rites.

Sandy Women Attend Club Meet

The following Sandy Women's Club members attended the district convention at Hillsboro, on Wednesday of last week, as delegates from the Sandy Club: Mrs. Edna Hall, Mrs. R. F. Ditter and Mrs. Hazel Brown. Mrs. Hall gave a report of the Sandy Club work, which was well received. Mrs. Oscar Gunderson accompanied the party.

Grade School Program Entertaining

The grade school program was colorful and went over nicely on Friday evening. The play, "Billy's Arrival," staged by Principal E. C. Rees, surprised the crowd when "Billy" turned out to be Wallace Seales' big cat. The characters were Ida Johnson, Glendale Roberts, Erma Aschoff, Edna Keisicker, Lois Beers, Dorothy Aschoff. In the operetta, Dorothy Updegrave was "Golden Locks," and the bears were Aaron Updegrave, Betty Jean Schmitz and Merle Dahrens. Miss Bollum directed.

John Orr was "Uncle Sam" in Mrs. VanFleet's number, a pageant with music and dialog parts, in which 40 children took part. Those in the dialog parts were: Elsie Baker, Barbara Forest, Daisy Ward, Lyla Jones, Joe Shelley and Stanley Dahrens. Receipts were $40.65, a very small admission being charged. Pauline Bell sang and Robert Bruns played piano solos between numbers.

School Pupils Guests at O. S. C.

H. E. Westall took a group of his agriculture and farm shop class to Oregon State College on Friday evening, to observe activities of the work there. Professor G. E. Smith, of the field crops unit, directed the boys to the following departments: Poultry packing plant, poultry husbandry laboratory, brooding houses; beef cattle, sheep, horse and dairy cattle barns; green houses, dairy manufacturing, feed crops and soils, canning and preserving, and farm mechanics laboratories. They afterward visited other departments. The boys were: Wesley Andrews, Wendell Andrews, Arthur Berglund, Vincent Chioda, Walter Haneberg, Arthur Hauglum, Stanley and Robert Miller, George Lintner, Donald Bagley, Nicholas Lucas and Leo Webster. The boys paid their own expenses but hope to make the money back on the reels of agricultural films to be shown at the high school on Monday evening, April 6.

This is the season of the year when every league baseball team wins the pennant—on paper.

High Water Here Does Much Damage

Reaching the most vicious stage in 25 years, the Sandy river, swollen by the sudden rains, is a raging torrent, carrying homes away and doing hundreds of dollars' worth of damage.

The county bridge across the Sandy river at Brightwood was washed out at 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening and soon afterwards the John McIntyre home, standing on the edge of the stream, was undermined and plunged into the raging torrent.

William Hiberly, who was standing on the Sandy river bridge when it was washed out, narrowly escaped with his life. He had floated down stream about 150 feet when he caught a rope thrown to him by Arthur Jonsrud.

At Rhododendron, the Zig Zag river, nearly doubled in size, has swept away the Zig Zag bridge and is threatening to leave its banks.

Over 600 cords of shingle bolts belonging to the Turel Shingle Mills, at Welches, were swept away in the current and strewn along the banks for miles.

Homes along the Sandy river at Brightwood are in hourly danger of being carried down the swift stream. The Salmon river is also on a rampage and is endangering homes in the Arrah Wanna section.

BORING

Mrs. Floyd Lake has gone to a hospital for an operation.

Mrs. C. V. Lake was taken very ill suddenly on Saturday evening, while preparing to attend Grange, and almost passed away, from acute indigestion. A doctor was called and she is now convalescent.

The Boring road overseer, Sam Lyons, is at home suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. A. Gribble is here spending a week or two with Mrs. Amy Morand. S. W. Morrison, of Mount Shasta, Calif., is visiting at the Walter Metzger home this week.

O. M. Richey has had a shipment of 900 White Leghorn chicks shipped in from Oregon State College. Anna Gantenbein also had a smaller shipment sent. There will be very few chickens raised at Boring this year.

W. R. Telford is home again. He had an attack of the flu before leaving the hospital the last time, but is slowly gaining.

Mrs. F. M. Morgan is very ill. She had an attack of flu, which nearly developed into pneumonia. She was not out of danger, but slightly better on Monday. A daughter, Mrs. Pulfer, has been caring for her during the past week.

Many alder logs are being shipped from Boring to the St. Johns Furniture Company. Ernest Harris, Albert Quall and J. Nelson are shipping from Sandy.

F. L. Proctor Returns Home

F. L. Proctor returned on Sunday from a two-day session of the Western Bank Management Conference at Salt Lake City. The program was given over to the study of bank management. T. P. Cramer, Jr., secretary of the Oregon Association, read a paper on account analysis that was well received. Among prominent visitors were: Governor Heber J. Grant, head of the Mormon church, and United States Senator Reed Smoot. The latter said the tide had already turned for better conditions.

Proctor reports a wonderful time. He saw many sights at Salt Lake and marvelled at the accomplishments of the Mormon church. He brought home a fine collection of Salt Lake City pictures.

UP THE MOUNTAINS

W. J. Faubian, William Welch and Peter Stone were among the mountain residents who attended the funeral of John Revenue, at Sandy, on Saturday.

Mrs. E. Franzetti is settled again at Rhododendron, after a delightful trip around the world.

The Mount Hood road crew has to do regular January weather work now. Spring has officially, but not in reality, arrived, as there is more snow at Government Camp now than at any one time all winter. A fall of three feet during the past week is reported.

The state of Kansas has voted to restore capital punishment. What inspired this—some of the radio crooners?

Dollar Philosophy

"It is the training a man gets in saving the pennies that gives him a good idea of values of things and shows him the importance of having a reserve," says W. C. Hunter, in his book entitled, "Dollars and Cents." Further, he says:

"If the boss is extravagant in little things, the employe multiplies the extravagance.

"If you are always catching up while you are an employe you will always be catching up while you are boss. If you are always saving and putting by a reserve while you are an employe, you will be doing the same when you are boss. The principle is the same. It is only a question of figures."

But this comment sums up the case by saying:

"When you haven't anything to fall back upon, the world is a mighty blue place. When you have money in the bank, it is a mighty good place to live in."
