Plans Laid for Marketing Quota Referendum May 31

A series of county meetings to explain the provisions of the national referendum on wheat quotas were held thruout Oregon from May 12 to 17 by the state office of the AAA. County and community committees took the information obtained from state offices at these meetings and will pass it on to wheat farmers in general at community meetings to be held between now and the referendum date, May 31.

Approval of the wheat quotas proclaimed on May 10 by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard in accordance with the 1938 law is vital to the future of Oregon commercial wheat growers believes Will Steen, Umatilla county farmer and chairman of the state committee. Unless the marketing quota plan is approved by two-thirds of those voting the government loan program will be discontinued. Under the quota plan any grower who has stayed within his wheat allotment under the AAA program can market his crop the same as usual with no restrictions.
