Egg grading meetings are being held throughout the state this spring and early summers by the extension service at Oregon state college in cooperation with the state department of agriculture.

These meetings will afford opportunity for egg producers to discuss best methods of maintaining quality from hen to market or other production problems with the county agent and Noel Bennion, extension poultry specialist. At the same time a representative of the state department will explain details of Oregon's egg grading law and show how farmers can get the most for their eggs once they are produced.

With the government committed to price support for eggs for the next year or more proper handling and grading of eggs will pay good dividends and provide more of this defense food it is pointed out.

Each county meeting is being called by the county agent who is in charge of local arrangements.

employment compensation commission soon will request employer cooperation in confirming reports of workers partial earnings administrator Silas Gaiser announced today.

Wages of regular workers earning less than $15 or their weekly benefit account or those working less than full time for a covered employer will be included in the new reports. Under the procedure which is expected to be ready for introduction next month the employee will be notified weekly of possible benefit rights.

Existing payroll practices will be used wherever possible to verify workers earnings. The procedure will conform to the requirements of the Social Security board.

"These earnings reports will be asked only for those working regularly for one employer," explained Mr. Gaiser. "Where a worker does odd jobs with several concerns he is not considered a regular employee."

"By employer verification of earnings and employer participation in return filing of claims the commission hopes to reduce adjustments to a minimum."

Preliminary to the new procedure training of informational meetings are being held over the state with employment service personnel, employers and workers.
