Farm Income May Rise in 1942 But Costs Also Mount

Gross farm income in Oregon in 1942 should be materially above the 1941 level if present trends continue although net income will not increase proportionately because of rising farm costs according to an analysis made by the extension service at Oregon state college and published in the current agricultural situation and outlook report. Complete copies of the report may be had at any county extension office.

The demand outlook for farm products in 1942 is even better than in the exceptionally favorable year now ending. More business activity, a rising general price level and increased demand for some products for export all will play a part in the demand situation for next year the report shows. Further increase in domestic pay-rolls and military employment is expected to bring an increase in the per capita consumption of food. On the whole it is expected that national income in 1942 may exceed that of 1941 by 10 or 15 percent. With the British government expecting to obtain about one-fourth of its food supplies from America next year approximately 8 to 10 percent of the farm production of the United States will be exported or about twice the exports of 1941.

Advance estimates indicate that the 1941 gross farm income will exceed that of 1940 by about 25 percent making the greatest since 1929. The increase in farm costs however, is expected to be little more in 1942 than it was in 1941. The average of about 15 percent increase this year was caused mostly by higher prices for labor, rent and feed. In 1942 the increases are expected to be felt in purchases of seed, automobiles and tractors, building materials, feed, containers and other items of equipment and supplies.

The Oregon farm price index at mid-October showed the general level of farm prices at 94 percent of the 1926-30 average and 125 percent of the 1910-14 figure.

Uncle Sam Farmers' Best Customer; 30 Marketing Centers Established

U. S. FARM PRODUCE

Uncle Sam, the American farmer's best individual customer, spends $750,000 a day every day in the year on foodstuffs for his army.

To afford the best possible facilities in handling these immense sales, it is announced that 30 regional marketing centers are being established throughout the country where producers may sell direct or through community or farm co-operatives. In this manner the Quartermaster Corps bought 750 tons of turkey together with all the trimmings for the soldiers' Thanksgiving dinner, and just now Uncle Sam is stocking up for the Christmas holidays and all the hearty meals that will come in between.

Through the marketing centers it is declared that Uncle Sam and the millions of American farmers will get better acquainted. Uncle Sam will get fresh produce of the highest quality and the farmers will get higher prices. An example of the volume of goods taken by the army is reported in recent requisitions for rations during the autumn maneuvers in the Carolinas where the purchases in Columbia and Wellington marketing centers included: 2,600,000 dozen of eggs, 1,600,000 pounds of butter, 420,000 pounds of cheese, 315,000 pounds of turkey and 704,000 pounds of chicken.

At the same time a program has been announced for the purchase of a large part of the seasonal output of local canneries, smaller industries situated in the various fruit and vegetable growing regions. These district purchases will augment the recent buying of 125,000,000 cans of vegetables through the Chicago Quartermaster Depot.

Of the 50,000 horses and mules doing their bit in the army the great majority of these equine recruits were brought from the farms within the last few months, the purchases amounting to $239,372. The spring program calls for a still greater number of riding horses and draught animals.

From all sections of the country come reports that Uncle Sam's marketbasket is a symbol of prosperity on the farm.
