HAVE UNTIL JULY 1958 TO FILE APPLICATION

James C. Piazza, Field Representative of the Social Security Administration said today that a long-disabled worker now has until the beginning of July 1958 to file an application for the disability freeze and still have his social security earnings record protected as of the date he actually became disabled. He said also that the law now permits a veteran to receive compensation from the Veterans Administration for service-connected disability without any reduction in the amount of his disability insurance benefits under social security. These changes significant to persons who have been disabled for some years and those with service-connected disability, became effective when President Eisenhower signed P. L. 109.

The purpose of the disability freeze is to prevent those years during which a severe and indefinite disability keeps a person out of work from counting against him on eligibility for benefits or on the amount of his benefits. A person cannot qualify for the freeze unless in addition to disability requirements, he has worked for at least five years under social security and for 1-2 years during the 3-year period just before his disability began.

Until the recent change in the law, a period of disability could not be determined to have begun earlier than 12 mo. before application for the freeze, unless application was made before the end of June, 1957. For this reason, a disabled person who failed to make his claim before the end of June, and who had become disabled before January 1, 1955, would have lost his right to have his social security record frozen because he could not possibly meet the work requirements. Moreover, without the freeze he might have lost future rights to pay social security benefits for himself or his family, because at the time he dies or becomes 65 he may not have the required work credit. The law, as now amended, gives those who were disabled before January 1, 1955 until Jun 30, 1958, to file application for the disability freeze to protect their rights to old age, survivors, or disability insurance.

The amendment relating to disabled veterans modified the offset provision in the law so that a social security insurance benefit will not be reduced because of compensation payable to a veteran by the Veterans Administration for his service-connected disability. Piazza pointed out that the off-set continues to apply in cases involving veterans' pensions which are paid on account of non-service disability.
