YOU and your DOG

OBEEDIENCE TRAINING
Every dog deserves an opportunity to become a good citizen. It's wrong to end a puppy's education at house-breaking. Once he has passed that stage, says the Sergeant's Dog Care Center of Richmond, Va., there is a great deal of pleasure in store for master and dog alike in obedience training.

A dog should be taught to come promptly, to walk at your side, to sit, to lie down, to stay put on command, and to obey promptly when told "no."
Obedience training can be undertaken at home or at a canine obedience club or school. Inquire about the one nearest you.
A dog starts his training by qualifying for a "Companion Dog" degree and can go on from there to more advanced work.
More important than the degree is the way that obedience training establishes a happier relationship between the dog and the humans with whom he will come in contact.
