New Garden Club Officers Installed

Estacada Garden Club met at the City Hall July 7 at 1 PM with the following hostesses: Bernice Miller, and Minerva Fieken. Roll call was answered by 21 members.

Due to the absence of several new officers last month, the installation was postponed until this meeting. Grace Still conducted the installation of the following officers: Pres., Bernice Miller; 1st vice pres., Bertha Gentemann; 2nd vice pres., Abbie Armstrong; secretary, Ruth Westerberg; treasurer, Florence Lamb. Each officer was presented with a lovely corsage.

The president Bernice Miller appointed standing committees for the year. A new committee has been added this year. Bertha Gentemann was asked to be chairman of the committee for the Meizler Memorial Park located about 2 miles from Springwater on Clear Creek. Considerable interest is being shown in developing the park. The county has quite a little money this year for parks therefore the people of this district should make an appeal to the county for this park.

Judging the arrangements and horticulture before the business meeting will help speed up the meeting. The club decided that just important business be brought up in our meeting and extras will be taken care of by the Executive Committee, thus giving more time for the program.

Louise Linn gave an interesting report on her trip to the state convention held in Eugene in June.

Next meeting will be the annual potluck picnic to be held at River Mill Park, in case of rain at the city hall; time—11:30 AM. Hostesses are Ann Underwood, Lena Underwood and Elizabeth Ames. The picnic is potluck and hostesses will serve only the drinks.

At our next meeting Della Ewalt will give a talk on horticulture, how to groom our flowers for the show, the leaves to take off or leave on, etc.

Eckersley New City Councilman

At the regular meeting of the City Council Wednesday evening, July 2, Mayor Weinrich suggested the name of Earl H. Eckersley for City Councilman and by unanimous vote of all council members, Mr. Eckersley was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rev. Marion Ravan.

The Mayor asked for and received the council's support for a policy which would submit department expenses to the chairman of each department committee. The Mayor felt that by doing this a better knowledge of the City's purchases and day to day financial conditions would be understood in detail by more of the council members. The chairman of the committee or committees, would clear their requests through the Recorder's office, and where they deemed necessary, bids would be asked for.

The street committee of the Council, who have spent much time considering the improvement of Broadway St. North of 3rd Ave., instructed the Recorder to advise Carl E. Green, City Engineer, that immediate engineering of permanent improvement extending as far as the north line of the Post Office be made, with the possibility of submitting the job for bids in the very near future. We now understand that Mr. Green has made a preliminary survey and will work with the street committee to speed up drainage and paving on that portion of Broadway street.

A letter was received from Vee Ralston, addressed to the Planning commission, requesting permission to build a five to ten unit motel on his property, located on N. E. Broadway St. This letter was turned over to the Planning Commission by the Council for early consideration.

Fred and Rose Bartholomew Return from Extensive European Tour

By Rose Bartholomew

We left Portland April 21 by plane for New York and arrived at Idlewild Airport just eight hours and fifteen minutes later. We left on April 23 on the Chirico Colombo for Naples, arriving the 1st day of May. It was their Labor Day and there were lots of people on the streets begging. It is not a very clean city and the streets are made of cobblestones. We took a trip to Mt. Vesuvius and then on to Pompeii and looked over the ruins, which covered 130 acres of the city. In 1944 it was covered with 14 feet of ashes again. From there we went on a very narrow road over a mountain down to Mediterranean Saas. There were one thousand cars in thirty miles of this road.

In Italy they use every inch of ground possible and even terrace the hills and plant lemon and orange trees. We left by bus for Rome and went through farming country. Because of lack of machinery, they build the roads by laying rocks about six inches square by hand. We went through Cassino where one of the greatest battles of World War II took place. After arriving in Rome we went through St. Peter's Church and saw the Pope. He stuck his head out of a window for the crowd. The zoo in Rome was a wonderful place and had lots of animals we never saw before. Every park we visited we had to pay if we sat down on a bench.

The trip to Florence over the mountains was very beautiful. Some places the bus could barely make the hairpin curves. We saw the women out cutting and shocking hay. They still use oxen on the farms. The streets of Florence are very narrow. The stores close at noon and open again at 3 PM. They have big iron gates with padlocks across the doors and windows. They are now building more modern buildings to take the place of those bombed during the war.

In Venice there is not a car as all the streets are canals, and transportation is by boat or gondola. From there we had our first train ride to Milan, and from there to Genoa by train. There were twelve tunnels through the mountains and a tunnel under the town. Our hotel was on top of it. They raise over a thousand acres of carnations and roses for the perfume factories at Nice. We went to Monte Carlo and saw Grace's home. The flowers were beautiful there and even planted in the places in the rock walls.

Going to Switzerland there was beautiful scenery. Our headquarters were at Interlocken. We visited Bern and then went to Meiringen, where my father came from. I saw the home where my father lived and also met three of my cousins. Had to have an interpreter to talk to them. We took several trips up in the mountains in cable cars and train cars. Switzerland was the cleanest country we visited.

When we went to Austria we stayed in a hotel built in 1556. The chairs in the hotel are carved out of wood. We went up the mountain in a lift. They weigh the people and only take 2500 pounds. They go 3000 feet straight up and from there you can see three different countries — Switzerland, Germany and Austria. In Heidelberg we had a nice visit with David Qualls. From Weisbaden, on the Rhine, we went to Cologne. It is one of the badly bombed cities when they are trying to rebuild. Amsterdam is a very beautiful city and is the largest city in Holland. Everybody, young and old, ride bicycles. The homes are tall and narrow and in each one there is a gable at the top with a hook and pulley to get their furniture into their homes.

In Brussels we went to the World's Fair. It took us three days to find the United States building. All the signs were in French, German or Dutch. There were more people in the U.S. building than any other building we visited.

In Paris we found the highest prices of all. We saw Napoleon's Tomb; went to the top of the Eiffel Tower, and went to the Folies. We flew from Paris to London and there went on several tours to Windsor Castle, Hyde Park and No. 10 Downing St. an other places of interest. We saw the changing of the Guards at Buckingham Palace. The men in London are wearing derby hats again.

We left for the dear old U.S. on the Corona, a beautiful ship, with fine food after being abroad. Upon arriving in New York July 1 we found it very hot. On part of the way home the storm was so bad they couldn't serve our food for 1-2 hours. How happy we were to get back to dear old Estacada.
