

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By James Piazza
Q: My husband is blind and because of this signs his checks by mark. Since this signature by mark must be witnessed by two persons, it makes cashing his checks exceedingly difficult. Is there any way we can avoid this problem?

A: No there isn't. So long as he is capable of directing the use of his own funds, we will pay him on his own behalf. Admittedly this makes for an awkward situation, but we have no authority to pay anyone on his behalf unless he is not capable of handling his own funds.
Q: How can I get a record of my wages under Social Security?
