

TALKING UP
By Edgar Williams

Reprinted from NORTH PENN REPORTER, Lansdale, Pa. Friday, November 29, 1957
No and then I stop reaching for well-turned phrase and the cute twist, and I write it straight. This is one of those times.
I am not a preacher and I doubt that I would do well as a religious editor. Bit the subject for today has to do with something most of us take too much for granted: The Bible.
Yesterday, Thanksgiving day, marked the beginning of Worldwide Bible Reading Month. From now until Christmas a lot of people in a lot of nations will unite spiritually by reading identical passages in their Bibles.
This is an inter-denominational effort and several different versions of the Bible will be used. What really counts is the spiritual rally around the greatest Book ever written.
We mortals have done a pretty thorough job of leusing up this world in which we live. With all of our scientific advancements we have brought ourselves to the brink of self destruction.

Now we have one last chance to straighten ourselves out, by applying precepts that are ageless and unchanging.
These precepts are in the Bible. They have been there all along, but we have chosen to ignore them.
It's as simple as this. No motorist would consult a road map or the best route between two points, then start off on a highway leading in an entirely different direction.
Yet, too many of us, everywhere, on our day-to-day living, while we pay close attention to road maps, weather reports and financial statements, have become careless about the basic rules laid down in the Bible.
If we are honest with ourselves we must admit this.
And perhaps we will find that something like Worldwide Bible Reading Month is for us.
The Worldwide Bible Reading idea got its start during World War II. There was a Marine on Guadalcanal who wrote to his family, asking them to join with him in reading certain verses from the Bible each day.

Eventually, the idea came to the attention of the American Bible Society. It grew into a world wide movement now sponsored by the Society and a committee of laymen, headed by Pres. Eisenhower.
And it is growing stronger all the time.
A relatively new term in our language is 'chain reaction.' It is challenging to think of the chain reaction that could result from the coordinated reading and application of specific passages of the Bible throughout the world.
It could become a spiritual force that no world power, however sinister, could stop.
The way the project works, you get a bookmark from the American Bible Society, 450 Park Avenue, New York 22, N. Y. You pay nothing for it, incidentally, and you will not be asked for a contribution.

On the bookmark are listed daily readings. They are without note or comment, which means that a person of any faith may follow them and may use whatever version or translation of the Bible he prefers.
Like I said, I am not a preacher, and I guess I would not be a very good religious editor.
But I recognize a good thing when I see it.
This is a good thing.
AMERICAN LEGION AUX. JUNIORS DOING GOOD WORK
The American Legion Auxiliary Juniors met at the Legion hall with 12 girls in attendance and Miss Linda Courtain presiding. Chairman Bonnie Jones was unable to attend. Mrs. Charles Snowley, Mrs. Lester Courtain, Mrs. John Abbott and Mrs. Adolph Still, chairman were present to assist with the work.
The girls made 8 scrapbooks for the Childrens Hospital and cut out 116 tray mats for the Veterans Hospital. Mrs. Still explained to the girls the rules for the El Salvador Dolls to be dressed. The Dolls belong to the Unit and if after dressing the girls wish to keep the doll they dressed they may purchase them. The Doll winning the contest in the Unit will go to the girl dressing her. Each girl must write a short story on El Salvador; its characteristics as a country and its people and must accompany the finished doll.

Mrs. George Armstrong, president of the Unit visited with the girls and talked to them.
Next meeting will be February 21 at 1 PM at the hall. Mary Jane and Susan Cody will be hostesses. Misses Linda, Connie, and Kathy Courtain were hostesses of the day.
PUBLIC SCHOOLS CONDUCT CLOTHING DRIVE FOR NEEDY CHILDREN
Beginning Monday, local school children will bring bundles of used clothing to school during World Clothing Week. According to Supt o Schools R. E. Cody the drive is to continue through Friday and is a part of a nationwide campaign to raise enough used clothing, shoes and bedding to clothe one million orphaned and needy children and adults in the United States and overseas. World Clothing Week is conducted by the schools in cooperation with the Christian Children's Fund, Inc. an international charitable organization which assists orphans and other needy children in the United States and 36 countries overseas.
Mr. Cody says: "The Christian Children's Fund reports that good used clothing is one of the vital needs of children and adults the world over. The minimum goal this year alone is to clothe one million children and adults. Through World Clothing Week, the school children of Estacada will see to it that many needy boys and girls will be warmly clad this winter. At the same time our own young people will be learning a valuable lesson in humanity and experience the joy that comes with sharing with those less fortunate. I hope the people of our community will get behind the schools in this effort."

Who's Afraid of Those "Giant Cooties"!

This young lady seems to be unnaturally calm in the face of what appears to be an attack by airborne creatures from outer space. Actually the "monsters" are Giant Cooties, a parlor game for children and adults, manufactured by Schaper Plastic Games of Minneapolis, Minn. However, the gaudy plastic Cooties are more than a game. They function as a colorful take-apart toy for tiny tots. A slot atop their hollow bodies makes a piggy bank of each.

Candy-dly Yours by WALDMAN

Candy originated in ancient Egypt where confectioners used rough molds to form confections of honey, nuts, chopped fruit, sweet meats and spices. They sold them from baskets in the market place.
In 1816 our leading city of Philadelphia had only 20 confectionary shops. Today more than 3000 candy stores sell freshly boxed chocolates throughout America. A typical store may carry as many as 300 varieties and flavors.
In the 19th century, the average per capita consumption of candy was nine pounds. Today it is about 18 pounds.
Dieting? Candy is lower in calories than you think! A one-pound assortment of approximately 44 pieces yields an average of only 47 calories per piece. Miniatures average about 27 calories each.
