Wonderful World by WALDMAN

Pleasure-loving Romans appreciated the luxury of bathing in heated water. Unfortunately, the primitive plumbing frequently back-fired, and bathers were driven out by clouds of smoke.

American pioneer wagon trains heated water at night in small kettles suspended over a blazing central fire. The water served the entire community for cooking, bathing, or cleaning wounds, and had to be used sparingly.

Today, most American homes have virtually an endless supply of hot water readily available. Galvanized (zinc-protected) hot water tanks have guaranteed the supply of pure hot water to Americans for over 85 years.

Non-Surgical Method Cures Hemorrhoids Painlessly

A relatively painless, non-surgical method of treating hemorrhoids (piles) is working therapeutic miracles for thousands who suffer from rectal and colon disorders. A recently developed electronic treatment is proving more effective than surgery, with none of the after effects of surgery. The relatively new technique requires no hospitalization or confinement. Patients show marked improvement almost immediately, and uncomplicated cases can be frequently corrected in as little as 10 days.
