

Eagle Creek

By Margaret Ross

At last Thursday afternoon's meeting of Eagle Creek Mothers' Club two important items of business were introduced. President Frances Anderson presented the drawings of the proposed multipurpose building for E. C. school. This building, with 44 ft. x 60 ft. of floor space would provide much-needed indoor recreational facilities especially needed during wet weather. The second item was formation of a choral group to be sponsored by the Mothers' Club, under direction of Caroline Johnson with rehearsals each Tuesday night at 8 P.M. at the school. Both men and women are invited to take part. The group will perform at the Centennial celebration and fund-raising affair of the Estacada PTA on April 3.

Oregon's Valentine birthday week was also the week for many local celebrations. Eagle Creek Sunday School held a party on Thursday night, with a number coming in Valentine or Centennial costumes.

OLD BARLOW TOLL-GATE TO BE RE-CREATED AS INFORMATION CENTER

The old Barlow Toll-Gate, a mile east of Rhododendron, will be recreated for use as a visitors information center. Adding a touch of authenticity will be Mrs. Charles Miller and Arlee Mitchell who will man the toll gate just as they did in 1906, 1907 and 1908. Slightly smaller versions of the toll-gate will be used for similar purposes at Sandy, Government Camp, Milwaukie and New Era. The story of the Barlow road booklet is being reprinted to tell the story of the Barlow road which brought Oregon pioneers around Mt. Hood and into the Willamette valley in order to avoid the dangerous rapids of the Columbia river.

At Wenme, a chuck wagon breakfast, served in the Western manner, will be offered visitors every Sunday through July and August.
