BRYAN OF NEBRASKA

Nominated for President by the Democrats.

DELEGATES STAMPEDED TO HIM

He was Elected on the Fifth Ballot—Arthur Sewell, of Maine, for Vice-President.

Chicago.—W. J. Bryan, "the boy orator of the Platte," and ex-congressman from Nebraska, was nominated by the Democratic national convention at Chicago, upon the fifth ballot.

Ever since Bryan's brilliant oratorical effort on the third day of the convention, he has been steadily gaining strength in the convention, and after the first ballot former supporters of other candidates rapidly transferred their allegiance, singly, in pairs and in droves, to the young statesman who had so ably defended their free-silver cause in and out of convention, and at all times.

After Mr. Bryan was nominated the convention unanimously ratified the choice of the majority.

The decks were cleared for balloting, which was to begin as soon as the Democratic national convention reassembled, at 10 o'clock on the fourth day. The real struggle opened with the delegates wrought to an intense pitch over the sensational developments of the previous day, when the Bryan wave swept through the convention, and threatened for a time at least to stampede it then and there. It had dispersed all candidates and thrown the ranks of the other candidates into confusion.

The Bryan forces were making the most of the phenomenal rise of the young orator of Nebraska. The adjournment at midnight had given the leaders of other candidates an opportunity to rally their forces, and it served also to give some hours in which some cool counsel might prevail against the wave of sentiment which was at high tide the night before.

Delegate Miller, of Oregon, added to the list of nominations the name of Sylvester Penney, of Oregon. The names of Bland, Bryan, Boies, Blackburn, Matthews, McLean, Pattison and Penney were before the convention.

There were no other nominations, and Chairman White announced that the roll-call of states for the nomination of president would proceed. Great excitement swept over the hall. The first ballot resulted as follows:

Blackburn, 83; Bland, 283; Boies, 86; Bryan, 108; Campbell, 2; Hill, 1; Matthews, 27; McLean, 54; Pattison, 95; Penney, 10; Russell, 2; Stevenson, 2; Teller, 18; Tillman, 17; no voting 183.

On the second ballot Massachusetts deserted Bland for Bryan, which created a sensation and started the other states, and in the two following ballots Bryan kept gradually gaining one state after another, until the result of the fourth ballot showed Bryan in the lead with 376, Bland having fallen to 241.

This precipitated another demonstration which lasted for forty minutes. Twenty thousand people yelled themselves hoarse cheering for the Nebraskan. Several of the states delegates then retired for consultation and when they filed back into the hall the fifth ballot was taken, resulting in Bryan receiving the necessary two thirds. On motion it was made unanimo.

The Vice-Presidency.

A caucus of delegates was held until 3:30 in the morning, but no agreement could be reached on the vice-presidency.

When the convention opened in the morning the following names were presented: Bland, of Missouri; McLean of Ohio; Williams, of Massachusetts; Sibley, of Pennsylvania; Fishback, of Illinois; Daniel, of Virginia; Penney, of Oregon, and Sewell, of Maine.

Five ballots were taken. Up to the fourth ballot Bland and McLean led. Their names were then withdrawn, and on the fifth ballot Arthur Sewell, of Maine, was elected.

After the third ballot was taken Bland sent a telegram to the convention, asking that his name be withdrawn, and that the nomination be given to some man east of the Mississippi river.

W. J. Bryan's Career.

William Jennings Bryan, who is popularly known as "the boy orator of the Platte," is the youngest man ever nominated for the presidency by a political party in the United States, exceeding, as he does, the age limitation fixed by the constitution by only sixteen months. He is the editor of the Omaha Daily and Weekly World-Herald, one of the leading world organs of the country, and has for many years, advocated the free coinage of silver.

In the federal court in Seattle, Judge Hanford, made an order dismissing Oakes, House and Payne, the old receivers of the Northern Pacific, excusing them and their sureties from further liability, and wiping out the charges of contempt of court, which have been pending against them because of their failure to show up in court when they were under the fire, as the court directed.

WERE MURDERED AT NIGHT

Chris Vejin and F. O. Nelson Killed Near Astoria.

Astoria, Or., July 14.—Chris Vejin and F. O. Nelson were murdered on the Washington side of the Columbia river, near Point Ellice, about 2 o'clock this morning, and as yet no information has been obtained that points to the identity of the assassins. Vejin was a fisherman, and Nelson was a fisherman since the fishing season opened, and was also engaged in fishing. Nelson attended J. G. Megler's fish station a short distance above Point Ellice, and started out from the wharf with a company with Vejin shortly after 1 o'clock. This was the last seen of them alive. Several shots were heard near by about 2 o'clock, and at day-break the body of Vejin was found in his boat and that of his companion anchored near the scene of the murder since the fishing season opened, and was also engaged in fishing.
