The social temperature of the class of 1900 was pumped up to 212° F. on Saturday last. At 10 a. m. the gallant young men and fair maidens bid farewell to our sylvan city and directed the equine heads toward the inspiring peak of Mt. Gales. After a pleasant ride through the beautiful valleys and fields they arrived at the summit at eleven. There for a few moments the whole party stood motionless breathing the cool and refreshing air, admiring the grand scenery which this peak is always willing to bestow upon the visitors. Meanwhile Thaddeus Sweet brought out his camera and many splendid sights were taken by this experienced artist. Then a most delicious lunch was spread over the flowery grass. The bill of fare consisted of tenderloin steaks with mushrooms, oyster soup, roast turkey, Boston bake beans, ham sandwiches, chocolate, Java coffee, Japan tea, Swetland's candies, ice cream and lemonade. Prof. Powell was elected toast master. Every member was called upon and responded in a pleasant and eloquent manner. Being requested to make a speech the professor delivered a very interesting speech entitled "The future of the class of 1900." The remainder of the afternoon was spent very delightfully in singing, talking, smiling, winking, blushing, laughing, etc. At five the carriages began to take a downward course. Coming down the hill the two teams had a race. They kept increasing their speed at every jump and fairly flew over the ground. The young ladies began to scream and some of the boys turned pale. They thought their time had come. Just then some of the football men flew out of the carriages and quick as a flash they tackled the equine legs. Down came the horses and the carriages stopped. After this narrow escape their temperature somewhat cooled down and they came back to the Grove rather quietly, just as the evening sun was setting over the western horizon.
