That is the Issue Now There will be a Citizens' meeting in Verts hall, Saturday, August 3, at 8 p. m., to hear the report of the committee on water supply. Every resident who is interested in the welfare and prosperity of this city should be present as the matter to be considered is of greater importance than any or all other questions that have heretofore come before the citizens of this place. Recommendations by the committee will accompany the report and it is both desirable and important that an emphatic expression of a very large per cent. of the voters be had on the recommendation at that time. Come everybody. Men, women and children. All are directly interested in a supply of pure, healthy water. By Order of the Committee.

Open Air Concert. Friday night was the opening of the new outdoor theatre on the corner of the campus by the old Woods & Caples building. Seats had been provided but could accommodate only a small portion of the crowd who were gathered in considerable numbers. Many had come in from the neighboring country and the city was well represented. The music of the band interested the audience until time for the performance to begin. The attraction was "Rooms 34 and 45" depicting the miseries of a lodger in a haunted hotel. It was well put on and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed it. This Friday another entertainment will be given. It is pleasant out of doors in this summer weather, especially in the evening when the day heat is over, and the stirring music of an excellent band and the light, laughable plays are attractions which furnish a restful evening's recreation and do much to relieve the usual monotony of summer in town.

The New L. H. Alberts & Co. Mill. Arrangements have been made for the machinery for the new L. H. Alberts & Co. flouring mill. It will be of the very latest design and unusually good. It will be shipped about Aug. 10. The warehouse will be 100 feet from the mill so there will be no danger from fire. The wheat is to be carried under ground between the two buildings. Mr. Con. Caples has been in Portland most of the past week making arrangements for the mill.

Nehelem Coal Fields. Saturday E. McNeil, the manager and Messrs. Pearson and Ayer, all of the O. R. and N. railway came out to the Grove on the evening train. At midnight they started in McNameer's stage for Tillamook, there transferred to the Garibaldi stage, thence on horseback to Carney mountain. After inspecting some lands in that region they returned to Portland by water, arriving there Tuesday. It is reported that the recent U. S. geological survey revealed rich fields of coal near the harbor and that this was the attraction which drew the railway officials thither and that they invested extensively. A railroad into Tillamook land would open up a rich territory adjoining in natural wealth.

Christian Church Festival. Just after the band entertainment Friday evening the ladies of the Christian church gave a social on the campus. Festoons of fantastic Chinese lanterns cast their varied light on the trees which were spread underneath the trees on the right of the walk and gave an added charm to the scene where the young ladies were busily engaged dispensing ice cream and cake to the many who wished it, while numbers who had already partaken or were awaiting their turn were gathered in the gloom in knots in social conversation. If unexceptionable refreshments, pleased people, delightful surroundings and big returns can make a social success, the one Friday was eminently successful.

Reduction in Freight. The Southern Pacific railway has made changes in its freight rates which will make a material difference in favor of shippers. The reduction was made to meet water competition and also the falling off in traffic through hauling. According to classes the rates from this county are, old and new: Hillsboro 20 15 18 14 14 13 Forest Grove 22 18 19 16 16 14

Taking effect, also, August 1, the Company will offer a special commodity tariff. This is a new departure by the company on the lines in Oregon. The following commodities will be eligible to the list: Brick, common; burlaps, in bales or bundles; canned goods, viz: Fish, fruits, meats and vegetables, in hermetically sealed cans, boxed; cement, in barrels; coal, sacked; coke, sacked; coffee, green, in sacks; glass fruit jars and jelly glasses, including tops, in boxes or barrels; iron, bar band, hoop or rod; iron, plate or sheet; iron, pig; lime, in barrels; nails or spikes, iron, in boxes or kegs; plaster, in barrels; rice, in sacks; salt, in sacks, boxes or barrels; soap, common, boxed, valuation not exceeding 12 cents per pound; sugar, in bags, boxes or barrels; syrup, in tin cans, boxed, or in kegs or barrels; glucose, in barrels; stone ware and earthenware (not crockery), in boxes, barrels, casks, hogsheads or crates; twine, binding, for harvesters, in bales; wire, binding, for harvesters, on spools, boxed; wire fence, barbed or plain; wire, hay bale ties, in packages. Commodity rates to Hillsboro, 8; Forest Grove, 10; in cents per hundred weight.

One of the important reductions is in the special distance tariff over the lines in Oregon, on flour, feed and millstuffs in less than carload lots. The following figures will show the changes: Miles. Cts. Per 100 lbs. New. Old. Three or under 7 8 Over 3, not over 5 7 8 Over 5, not over 10 9 10 Over 10, not over 15 10 12 Over 15, not over 20 12 14 Over 20, not over 25 13 15 Over 25, not over 30 14 17 Over 30, not over 35 14 19 Over 35, not over 40 14 21 Over 40, not over 45 14 23 Over 45, not over 50 14 24 Over 50, not over 55 15 25 Over 55, not over 60 15 27 Over 60, not over 65 15 28 Over 65, not over 70 15 29 Over 70, not over 75 17 31 Over 75, not over 80 17 32 Over 80, not over 85 18 33 Over 85, not over 90 19 35 Over 90, not over 95 19 36 Over 95, not over 100 20 37 Over 100, not over 105 21 38 Over 105, not over 110 23 40 Over 110, not over 115 26 41 Over 115, not over 120 29 42 Over 120, not over 125 32 43 Over 125, not over 130 35 45 Over 130, not over 135 38 46 Over 135, not over 140 40 47 Over 140, not over 145 42 49 Over 145, not over 150 43 50

A Fiend. There is considerable excitement in the neighborhood of Greenback ridge beyond Greenville. There is a man of morose and cruel disposition. About a year ago, it is said, finding a colt trespassing on his farm he stabbed it with a pitchfork and the animal died afterwards from the effects of the wound. Another time he had caught a cow which had come upon his land, tied it and cut its tongue out. The people in that locality naturally do not care to have him live among them and he is discreetly keeping away from them. It is urged in extenuation that the man is not in his right mind. If the reports are true he should be examined as to his sanity at once and if unbalanced be put in safe keeping, but if he is responsible he should be bound for the next grand jury. Such a man should not be left at large under any circumstances.

A Washington County Pig. A story appeared some time ago in the Oregonian about an intelligent pig in Clackamas county milking a cow. Washington county cannot be beaten by Clackamas or any other county, not even in the intelligence of her pigs. Up on Tom Conley's place in Scoggins Valley is an old sow with eight pigs and as she has not milk enough for her numerous family they are thin and scrawny. In the same pasture is a vicious cow which no one can milk. One of the little pigs has made friends with her and now milks her regularly three times a day. The cow is very proud of her foster pig who has grown hale and hearty and of good size.

Some Statistics. According to the census for 1890, the the wealth per capita of Willamette valley counties is as follows: Yamhill, $621; Linn, $570; Marion, $584; Lane, $516; Polk, $477; Benton, $407; Washington, $402; Clackamas, $398.

A DAY'S DRIVE. A Trip Over the Manning Road in Harvest Time. Monday morning by invitation of Mr. G. T. Hollister the editor enjoyed one of the many delightful drives in which Washington county abounds. The destination was Mr. Hollister's ranch situated in a pretty little dale on the Manning road four miles beyond Greenville. The main object of the visit was to inspect a hophouse which Contractor Sparks assisted by Mr. Snyder was putting up on the sidewalk. The frame was raised with a "bee" Saturday. The house is 24x42 and 20 feet high with a store room above 22x14 and the balling room dug out below 12 feet high and 12x12. A furnace is to be put in below also. Completed the building will cost about $500 and is to be constructed according to the latest methods in hophouse architecture. Right below the new building sheltered by the timber on the hills around appears the yard of ten acres, vines clean and well cared for, thriving and heavy, and from two to three weeks earlier than other yards. An expert who has examined them lately estimates the yield will be from 1800 to 2500 lbs. an acre. The yard like the rest of the place was well cared for and creditable to Mr. N. C. Shipley who is farming it. Just beyond are the houses of Mr. Michael Heary and Mr. S. B. West and further on Mr. C. Benefield's farm.

On the way to Manning we passed a Portlander moving with his family to the Upper Nehalem. With a dog tacked under one arm he was trudging along driving two cows and their calves while behind guided by his wife the horse was dragging the wagon loaded down with household goods, two canary birds and a large cage of chickens. Evidently the summer pilgrimage has begun. Lying beyond is J. B. Mathews' place, farmed by John Thornberg, noticeable for its luxuriant grain crop. Next came the farm of Hon. C. P. Yates where on bottom land are fruit trees said to bear the finest apples and pears produced in the state. The Carson's mill, owned by Messrs. Carson, Ingles and Soehren, which is situated here has been doing a good business and turning out an excellent grade of lumber. Beyond the mill we drove over a good road, all the road was good for 1000 feet, without the unusually dry above high water mark. Once was 'John Shute's Wallow' The Manning schoolhouse is conveniently located. Prominent was a large flagstaff standing in front of the building. New seats will probably soon be put in and the schoolhouse fixed up and put in condition. A little further on is the hospitable home of Martin Manning, commanding a beautiful view from its elevated location. Here we broke our fast - broke it so completely that the remembrance of it forever perished.

Our return was by another route and as the horse pressed on homeward, there was an everchanging vista of waving wheat with binders traversing it and, marking their paths with neatly tied bundles of the golden grain. At some places the bundles were being gathered into stacks, at others a thresher was noisily at work separating the straw from the grain. Near the road on a sunny sidewalk was P. Ruffee's vineyard, next Ambrose Thornburg's fertile farm and beyond the well kept place of Cheney West with a pond alive with carp and catfish brought two years ago by Mr. Hollister from the Columbia. The Dooley brothers farm was near with great stacks of wheat ready for the thresher, wheat so heavy that binding machines that would cut 6 1/2 feet could bind only 5 feet as fast as it was cut.

Two wagons with family parties, bound for the Nehalem and equipped with camping outfits here passed us. A girl who would have been pretty but for the dust which clouded her countenance was lying down in the back of one of the carriages, the embodiment of misery. They were off on a pleasure trip. A moment later we met a party of hunters on their way to the hills, the two on the rear seat intent on a game of euchre. Greenville looked prosperous with several teams about the stores but it received but a passing glance. A cloud of dust as we hurried by Hugh Smith's farm suggested urgent need of street sprinkling. Over against a glorious blue background with spreading shade trees marking its ample confines lay the city of homes, the more beautiful that it contained ours, a place of rest for two weary travellers.
