A County Exhibit.

The Portland Exposition of this year promises to be really representative of the country tributary to Portland and is entitled to the hearty support of all. The collection of side shows and fakes which characterized the evil-memoried "Universal" (universal sell) of last year will not be features on this occasion, will probably be conspicuously absent, and it is well. No region has better advantage for a legitimate and extensive fair. To blot out the memory of last year's disgrace the most substantial people of Portland are pushing this enterprise so that there may be no shadow of failure and every indication is for grand success. Other counties are vying to outdo each other in the extensiveness of their exhibits, and it befits Washington county as one blessed especially by nature to make a showing of its many good points. A concentration of the energies of the several towns, with the co-operation of the country people, will bring together such a collection of products as few, if any, of the other counties of the state can equal. Adjectives don't always tell the truth and they are not needed when there are such figures as follow from the assessor's report for this year:

No. sheep.....	7,024
" hogs.....	5,846
" horses.....	5,777
" mules.....	124
" head of cattle.....	9,871

Runaway Accident.

Mr. Jacob Penning, an old man living near Cornelius, was badly hurt about seven o'clock Friday evening while driving a team. Just returning from hauling wood, his horses took fright at Hartman Bros. engine near Hughes & Son's hardware store and broke away, throwing Mr. Penning out. It is thought he struck against an iron bolt, some sharp point penetrated the calf of his right leg and severed an artery. Mr. I. W. Patterson who was near by with others went to his assistance and found him unconscious. He was taken into the hardware store and Dr. Cole summoned. After the injury had been cared for Mr. Penning was taken to Dr. Ward's residence as he had been under the doctor's care for previous injuries. Dr. Ward was away at Gaston the time and returned soon after. Mr. Penning will be remembered as having been shot sometime since by a young man interested in his daughter. He recovered strength so that he returned to his own home the same evening.

Against Secret Societies.

A reform convention will be held Sept. 25 and 26 in Portland in First Evangelical Church (East Side) E. 6th cor. E. Market St. The program just received, by courtesy of Secy Williams, gives the names of many prominent speakers. Some of the papers presented will be: Lodge Charity, The Scriptures and Secret Societies, Labor Organizations, Secret Societies and the Government, The A. P. A. and Other Anti-Catholic Secret Societies, Odd Fellowship. An experience meeting for those who have left the lodges, Secret Societies, Public Press and Secret Societies, Jesuitism as a Secret Society, Secret Societies and the Prayer Meeting, Secret Societies and the Family. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend this convention.

To Exposition Exhibitors.

Fruit to be sent at once by express. Mark on box, name of sender and address and contents. If perishable, send by express charges collect. If non-perishable mark left hand corner "specimens donated for exhibition." Send by freight, travels free. Any large or heavy exhibit which owner wishes returned, freight charges reduced one-half on exhibits. That is, owner has to pay one way. Address exhibits to C. H. Hunt, superintendent Industrial Exposition, Portland, Oregon. Notify Mr. B. S. Pague when exhibit is sent, character of exhibit and name of sender.

A New Knight.

Delphos Lodge, Knights of Pythias, had work in the third rank Saturday evening and their large castle hall was crowded with visitors and members. A liberal lunch was served after the business of the evening was over and "good of the order" occupied attention until the lights went out. Glencoe Knights present were Judge B. P. Cornelius, A. K. Watson, F. J. Reynolds, E. P. Cornelius, W. P. Freeman, J. S. Jackson, Enos Davis, E. C. Mays, J. W. Goodin, A. Harriman, J. C. Corey, A. E. McCumsey and M. L. Case. From Hillsboro were County Clerk R. B. Goodin, Sheriff H. P. Ford, N. A. Barrett, Ed James, W. J. Wall, Herman Schulmerich, F. J. Williams, L. E. Long and R. H. Greer. Among the Cornelius Knights were Mayor Miller, R. W. McNutt and Ed Curtis.

Grove Public School Notes.

There have been twenty-one new pupils enrolled at the public school this year. Fourteen in the primary, two in the intermediate and four in the grammar grade. Quite a number of new pupils entered school Monday morning. The total enrollment is now 170. The principal of the public school would like to call the attention of parents to the following rules made by the Board of Directors of the Forest Grove Public School:

Sec. IV.—Whenever a parent or guardian wishes to have a pupil excused from any regular study of his class, or regularly during any portion of the school day, for any reason whatsoever, he shall apply to the principal in person or by written note, stating the reasons for such request; and the principal shall have power to grant it and it shall be his duty to make a record of all such permits with the reason therefor.
Sec. VII.—Pupils as soon as dismissed, shall immediately leave the school premises and go to their homes; nor shall they assemble on the school premises at unreasonable hours for the purposes of play, either before 8:15 o'clock a. m. or after 4 o'clock p. m., or on Saturdays.
Sec. VIII.—All pupils who are not in their places promptly at 9 o'clock a. m. and at 1 o'clock p. m., shall be declared tardy and the time lost by such tardiness shall be taken from their intermission, unless a valid excuse be given.
Sec. XII.—Teachers shall rigidly enforce the State School Law in reference to excuses for absence and tardiness.

Methodist Church.

The pastor will preach at 11 a. m. The sermon will be followed by the sacrament of baptism and the reception of new members. Mrs. Watters will address the audience in the evening. The annual conference meets next Wednesday in the Taylor street church, Portland, Bishop Bowman presiding.

Death of C. W. Scott.

Charles W. Scott, a native of Forest Grove and son of Mrs. Ruth Scott and the late John Tucker Scott; died at his residence in Portland Tuesday from heart failure after an illness of two or three days. Mr. Scott had been married but a few weeks ago. He was superintendent of the Oregonian building. The remains were brought to Forest Grove today and buried in the Buxton cemetery.

Broken Arm.

On Friday last, Wm. Goodin of Glencoe, father of our county clerk, met with a severe accident. While engaged in hauling rails the team suddenly started causing the load on which he was standing to slip, precipitating him to the ground, causing a dislocation of the left elbow, accompanied by a fracture. Miss Stella Goodin, his daughter, went to his assistance and immediately sent for Dr. F. A. Bailey, who reduced the fracture and set the dislocated joint. He is doing very nicely considering his age.

No More Deadly Accidents.

The railroad commissioners passed over the west end of the Oregon Central in a special train Wednesday, and everything is all snug now.—Corvallis Times.

Fire at Gales Spur.

Fire destroyed the dwelling of Mrs. Retta Tolson at the Gales Spur switch at 4 a. m. Sunday. Mrs. Tolson was away picking hops at Mr. Wm. Porter's and the house was unoccupied so the fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. Building and contents were completely destroyed, loss about $700; insurance $400, in the New Zealand Ins. Co.

IN THE SOUP KETTLE.

Bubbings in the Democratic Political Pot.

It is a noticeable fact that all Democrats thus far mentioned as candidates for the presidential nomination, when questioned about it, manifest the shyness, coyness and bashfulness of a school girl. They are evidently pleased with the compliment implied and have some difficulty in suppressing their happiness, but not one of them wants to start his boom yet awhile. They are long-headed enough to know that early booms fizzle out speedily, that the first one in the field is usually the first one to go, and that the best chances are reserved for those who keep in the background until near convention time. This is the reason why they are all swimming around the gilded bait with pleasant yet anxious faces, watching each other jealously, but not one of them grabbing for it. They know the danger of the hook concealed in the bait.

Mr. Cleveland scouts the idea of a third term. Whenever it is mentioned he noisily sails on his catboat and goes fishing for scup, and meanwhile what he is really thinking out there on the briny deep no man knows, not even Whitney. The most he will say is that no one is urging him. It makes him tired when Mr. Watters says he would not carry a school district in the United States, but if the convention should offer him the third term nomination he would take it as quickly as a bluefish takes his hook. Adlai Stevenson, when asked about his boom, smiles, disclaims all knowledge of such a thing, and straightway hies him to Alaska, where no one can talk to him upon such dangerous subjects. Secretary Olney, when informed there was a "really true" boom for him, broke out into laughter and rushed into tennis with renewed vigor, playing that noble game like a young giddy thing. When Farmer Morton, of Nebraska, was down in Virginia the other day some of the politicians whispered in his ear that the next delegation from that state would vote for him as quickly as a bluefish takes his hook. Adlai Stevenson, when asked about his boom, smiles, disclaims all knowledge of such a thing, and straightway hies him to Alaska, where no one can talk to him upon such dangerous subjects. And so it goes. Every man of them has his little boom hidden away, which he expects to fly at the right time, but he does not want it aloft now when it would not last much longer than a soap bubble. Thus it is that every one of them pooh-poos the idea of a nomination and yet at heart they all want it, and they want it badly, even though not one of them feels sure that a Democrat can be elected. None of them, however, would refuse the chances of nomination on that account, for the man who runs is considered the leader of the party even though he leads only a forlorn hope. The great sweeping Republican victory of last November infused business and banking circles, the manufacturing and the railroad classes, with confidence that the commercial dangers to be apprehended from any further malign Democratic influences were indefinitely postponed. They feel so still, and they will not imperil that restoration of confidence by turning the country over to the democratic incumbents again. All these gentlemen with their little hidden booms know this, but it will not prevent any one of them upon whom the convention calls from sending up his particular boom, even knowing it must collapse.—Astorian.
