Portland Exposition.

The Exposition will open October 5th. It is necessary to have everything in place on the opening day. Many people throughout Oregon have promised to send us articles and produce for exhibit and we are very anxious to have them at once.

How The Money Goes.

A Salem bank recently made application to the Southern Pacific railroad company to let it have all the silver taken in for tickets the next few months so that the bank would be able to supply the farmers with silver to pay their hop pickers. It is a familiar fact that our farmers are compelled to pay a premium for silver to pay their hands during the hop-picking season. The request of the local bank was refused and the Southern Pacific company will send all of its silver taken in at all of its hundreds of stations for tickets and freights to its main offices and from there it is largely transferred to the mints through the banks. Thus a constant silver drain is kept upon the country, the company itself not even paying out silver on its payrolls. They are paid in a draft on some bank. The policy of the large corporations is undoubtedly hostile to silver. They are in the main controlled by the representatives of foreign bondholders. The government itself does not pay out silver, as England and other countries do. In England since twenty years all the employees of the government, in the navy yards and dock yards, in the military and postal system and below a certain pay of the entire civil service, are paid once a week in silver. This puts a vast amount of small coin in circulation among the poorer classes. Our government is so bank ridden that it pays its employees from one to three months apart in bank drafts. Both the government and the corporations should be required by law to pay all employees once a week in silver. The legal tender limitation should be taken off silver and government depositories opened so that the people could deposit their small savings and receive an interest-bearing certificate of deposit. There would thus be created a conservative class. When the government wanted to make a loan it could do so by issuing small bonds to the people instead of loaning fifty millions in a lump to a foreign syndicate. But this is Americanism that we are advocating. This is all in disfavor at present. Nothing but goldbuggery passes for virtue at present. The man who talks from the standpoint of the masses is at once set down as an agitator or some other offensive term, and all the office-seeking and office holding class applaud, and that settles it. But government for the bankers will not always win.—Capital Journal.

Large Apples.

N. R. Wells picked four apples from a Benton county King tree this fall that together weighed 3 lbs. 9 oz. One brought to the HATCHET office, the largest, weighed an even pound and was 14 inches in one circumference and 1 1/2 in the other at right angles to it. The apple was without blemish and finely flavored. Mr. Wells has an eight year old orchard of Italian prunes in the city limits, one third of an acre, from which he has gathered four tons. Prunes appear to be more profitable than hops.

To Exposition Exhibitors.

Fruit to be sent at once by express. Mark on box, name of sender and address and contents. If perishable, send by express charges collect. If non-perishable mark left hand corner "specimens donated for exhibition." Send by freight, travels free. Any large or heavy exhibit which owner wishes returned, freight charges reduced one-half on exhibits. That is, owner has to pay one way. Address exhibits to C. H. Hunt, superintendent Industrial Exposition, Portland, Oregon. Notify Mr. B. S. Pague when exhibit is sent, character of exhibit and name of sender.

They Will.

If three-fourths of the people prefer bimetalism to gold-bond-syndicatism; why shall they not have it?—Capital Journal.
