Congregationalists Triennial Council will meet on this coast in '98. The action taken last Friday by the national triennial council of Congregational churches of America, now in session at Syracuse, N. Y., whereby it was decided that the council for 1898 would be held in this city, is full of bright promise for the people of Oregon, notwithstanding three years' waiting seems a little onerous. This favorable result was largely brought about through the efforts of Dr. Wallace of the First Congregational church of this city, who has been unremitting in his efforts for several months past, by correspondence and by wire, in urging the claims of Oregon for this distinction upon his large number of friends in the middle west. While the Congregational denomination is not numerically as strong as some others, yet it contains a very large number of representative people, both ministers and laymen, who in point of ability and brain power are the peers of any other denomination. The Congregational fellowship in America numbered at the beginning of the year 383,536, with 5342 churches, scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. Depressing as times were during 1894, $2,190,111 were given for benevolent purposes and $7,005,338 for home expenditures. Besides the membership as above noted there are 793,935 children in the Sunday schools maintained by these churches. A full delegation, according to the basis of representation from the churches, would give at least 635 delegates, and in addition there would naturally be a good many visitors. In choosing delegates the rule is that the clergy and laity shall be equally represented. This warrants the belief that there will be a large number of thrifty and far sighted business men among the delegation.—Oregonian.

Mr. A. B. Lewis and wife left Cornelius today for a trip to the lower end of the county and Newberg and will return in a week. Geo. Sanders' new house in Henrys addition to Cornelius is nearing completion. J. T. Dorrien of this place and James Wilson of Centerville returned from Salem last Friday evening. Milton Lee has just moved into the Hendricks building next door to Banning & Tibbitts livery stable.

Leiser & Susbner have leased the J. Keim cider mill and will make cider by the wholesale and retail. A. S. Briggs' new barn is completed. The work was done by Henderson & Bollinger.
