A BIG SALT MINE. The Development of a New California

Industry. Articles of incorporation have been filed by the "Crystal Rock Salt Mining Co." of San Francisco, with a capital stock of $500,000, of which $227,-

500 have been subscribed by Chas. G. Ahlborn, Sanford Bennett, Meyer Lewis, Julius Reimer, S. Lewis, L. Dorn and Ben Lewis.

The Crystal Rock Salt Mine is situated in San Bernardino county and produces a salt of superior quality, which, according to analysis made by Professor L. Falkenau, of the State Assay Office in San Francisco, is found to be chemically pure. At the instance of Norton, Teller & Roden, and other San Francisco houses, a number of tests were made, with the result that the salt produced from this mine has been found to be equal to the best English salt in the market for butter-making and table use, and for meat and fishpacking, milling and dairy purposes. The lump stock salt from this mine is preferred by the large cattle companies to any other salt, by reason of its purity, dryness and solidity; also because it is the most economical for stock-feeding. Owing to its firmness and purity it does not deliquesce when placed out on the ranges. The Company controls over 1,000 acres of mining ground in which the salt is mined from large deposits, as clear and transparent as crystals. The mine is connected with Salt Rock Station (Danby) on the Atlantic & Pacific R. R. by a road extending thirty-two miles, especially constructed by the Traction Engine Company, and upon which the company successfully operates a train of traction engine and wagons, constructed by the Best Manufacturing Company, of San Leandro,

The company is about to commence the erection of extensive works at the mine, and upon their completion will be enabled to supply the purest salt ever produced for butter-making, table meat and fish-packing. Lump salt for stock-feeding and milling purposes is now only being shipped.

The buildings at the mine are con-structed of salt, and the company is about to erect an office building at the railroad station out of rock salt, which will attract great attention. Passengers on the train passing this station are now in the habit of getting off the train for the purpose of securing crystals of salt as keepsakes.

In the sunlight a building constructed of this salt appears as if it was covered with diamonds.

Khabarofka, Siberia.

Khabarofka is a wretched looking litplace, about a quarter the size of Vladivostok, although it is the capital of eastern Siberia and the residence of the governor general. It lies about 49 degrees latitude north, or 6 degrees north of Vladivostok. In the public garden is a bluff commanding a birdseye view of the river, beach and steamers. Here is a monument, in bronze, to Governor General Adjutant General Nikolai Nikolaievitch Muravief, who took part In two exploring expeditions - 1854, 1855-and gained the title "Amurski" for his services in the acquisition of this Amur region to Russia. The chief street in Khabarofka is called, after him, Maraviel-Amurski. On the statne's pedestal are engraved the names of himself, his wife, about 26 military officers and seven scientific men, who 'shared in the toils and dangers of his expeditions." Near the statue is a band stand, where a military band plays on Sunday evenings, and a little temple of the Blessed Virgin, the Begoroditza, with painted pictures inside the walls. Further on is a pretty little wood, left for shade. Behind is the governor's house, a fine brick building, with sentries pacing before it. Past the wood a steep path leads to the bathing place, where one has the choice of wading in the narrow, yellow bits of silk from the stony beach or diving from a regular bathing house at the end of a dilapidated wooden pier. - Fortnightly

BONAPARTE'S OPPORTUNITY.

How He Took Advantage of the Over All night long, from the 16 to 17 Brumaire, a committee of the Ancients was in session, minutely perfecting their plans. Next morning at 7 the faithful majority, having been summoned according to form, convened as the council, for the doubtful members had either not been summoned at all or had An Elixir of Life. received notice of a later hour. As soon as a quorum was present, Cornet, a well known butt for the wits, rose and denounced the terrible conspiracy which was menacing them. Regnier then moved that, according to articles 102, 103 and 104 of the constitution, both branches of the legislature should meet next day at noon, and not before, in the palace of St. Cloud; that General Bonaparte should be intrusted with the exe cution of their decree, and that to that end he be appointed commander of the Paris garrison, of their own special guard and of the National guard; that he therefore appear and take the oath, and that these resolutions be duly communicated to the directory, to the five hundred, and also to the public by printed proclamation. The motion was carried unanimously. During these proceedings all the generals present in Paris except Jourdan and Augereau, who had not been invited, but including the stanch republican Lefebre, commander of the garrison, had gathered in and before Bonaparte's house. They had been requested to come in uniform in order to arrange for a review. It was noticed that Bernadotte, though present, was not in uniform. He had so far yielded to the blandishments of his brother-in-law as to come, but declared that he would obey only what was at that moment the chief authority in the state. Lefebre was in uniform, but having met on the way bodies of troops moving without his orders, and not being initiated, he was naturally startled. But Bonaparte knew his man. "Would you, a supporter of the re public, leave it to perish in the hands of these lawyers?" was his greeting. 'See, here is the sword I carried at the Pyramids. I give it to you as a mark of my esteem and confidence."

"Let us throw the lawyers into the river, " came the expected answer.

A few moments later arrived the authoritative summons from the Ancients Bonaparte stepped out on the porch and read their proceedings aloud. By a united impulse the officers flourished their swords in response. It was but an in stant before they were mounted, and with Bonaparte in front the cavalcade, headed by men either already famous or destined to become so-Macdonald, Serurier, Murat, Launes, Andreossy, Berthier and Lefebre-proceeded to the council chamber. It needed but a hasty glance, as they passed through the city, to see that preconcerted orders had already been carefully executed. The troops were all under arms and at their stations in commanding places throughout the town. Arrived at the Tnileries. the general and his glittering escort entered the chamber.

"Citizen delegates," he said, "the republic was falling. You understood the situation; your course has saved it. Woe to them who cause disorder or disturb ance! With the help of General Lefebre, of General Berthier and my other brethren in arms I will arrest them. Let no man look for precedents in the past. Nothing in history is comparable to the end of the eighteenth century, nothing to the present moment. Your wisdom passed this motion; our arms will execute it. We desire a republic founded in true liberty, in civil liberty, in popular representation. We are going to have it. I swear it in my own name and in that of my brethren in arms!" "We swear was the antiphonal response of the assembled generals. Some one indiscreetly suggested that Bonaparte had sworn, but not the oath of allegiance to the constitution required by their previous action, but the president hurriedly declared all further proceedings out of order, the assembly having adjourned by its own act.—Professor W. M. Sloane's "Life of Napoleon" in Century.

The Fly's Mouth.

The fly's mouth is really nothing more nor less than a tongue which, at the proper time, runs in and out of a hole in the fly's head, like the tongue of a snake. Even this latter effect may be proved to be a delusion if you are careful in examining a fly while in the act of eating, for it is then that it may be seen that the combination mouth and tongue is simply a tiny black, threadlike proboscis which unfolds from be neath the head, where there is a little niche or socket prepared for it.

When this combination tongue and mouth is unfolded ready for business, it spreads out, dividing into two flat leaves, which are planted smoothly and evenly over the surface from which the insect hopes to extract a meal. Should the surface prove dry or unyielding, the fly is equal to the emergency, and by a muscular feat he immediately changes his smooth, soft, leaflike tongue into a rasp which works with lightning rapidity over the lump of sugar or other substance, the particles thus dislodged being quickly sucked into the stomach. In case the meal is a liquid one the mouth and tongue combine to make an excellent pump for transferring the food to the place where it will do the most good.-St. Louis

CONSUMPTION CURED

T. A. Slocum offers to Send Two Bottles Free of His Remedy to Cure Consumption and All Lung Troubles

Consumption and All Lung Troubles

—An Elixir of Life.

Nothing could be fairer, more philanthropic or carry more joy in its wake than the offer of T. A. Slocum, M. C., of 183
Pear, street, New York. Perfectly conndent that he has an absolute remedy for the cure of consumption and all pulmonary complaints, he offers through this paper to send two bottles free to any reader who is suffering from lung trouble or consumption, also loss of flesh and all conditions of wasting. He invites those desirous of obtaining this remedy to send their express and postoffice address, and to receive in return the two bottles free, which will arrest the approach of ueath. Already this remedy, by its timely use, has permanently cured thousands of cases which were given up, and death was looked upon as an early visitor.

Knowing his remedy as he does, and being so proof-positive of its beneficent resuits, Dr. Slocum considers it his religious duty, a duty which he owes to humanity, to donate his infallible remedy where it will assault the enemy in its cidatet, and, by its inherent potency, stay the current of dissolution, bringing joy to homes over which the shadow of the grave has been gradually growing more strongly defined, causing fond hearts to grieve. The cheapness of the remedy—offered freely—apart from its inherent strength, is enough to commend it, and more so is the perfect confidence of the great chemist making the offer, who holds out life to those already becoming emaciated, and says: "He cured."

The invitation is certainly worthy of the consideration of the afflicted, who for years, bave been taking nauseous nostrums without effect. who have operated them.

The invitation is certainly worthy of the consideration of the afflicted, who for years, have been taking nauseous nostrums without effect; who have ostracised themselves from home and friends to live in more salubrious climes, where the atmosphere is more congenial to weakened lungs, and who have fought against death with all the weapons and strength in their hands. There will be no mistake in sending for these free bottles—the mistake will ing for these free bottles—the mistake will be in passing the invitation by.

An Out of Door at Home.

A garden party fashionably conducted is an out of door "at home," with ameligrations. The stuffy, overcrowded rooms are absent at the summer func tion, and the time between coming and going is so brief and guests arrive so nearly at the same time that the hostess is on duty a much shorter time than when receiving under the house roof. Light refreshments only are servedices, cakes, punches or lemonade, cafe au lait and the like. Salads and froids are oftener than not excluded from the menu. The host is expected to be in evidence, his absence being less excusable at the garden party than at the indoor "at home.
