CHAMP CLARK'S STORY.

How It Impressed a Youngster Who Heard It In a Speech.

In the Garfield-Hancock campaign there was a big Democratic meeting at a certain place in St. Charles county, in this state. A number of distinguished Democratic speakers were there, and we had a day of it. The writer was then a small child, but one of the speakers made a very profound impression upon his mind. The speaker was no other than Champ Clark.

No one asks now, "Who was Champ Clark?" but then he was a new star in the firmament.

We had a number of speeches, and the children were very tired. I can't speak for the grown people, because the good Democrats there would not have owned to being tired, I know, after such a display of eloquence from their great party leaders. At any rate I was tired, but my Ellen M. Henrotin, president of mother whispered:

"There is only one more speech," s issued a circular letter to all and I was much relieved. A blond young presidents, asking them to man was introduced as Champ Clark of Pike county. He came forward with a Pike county. He came forward with a ent in Europe and in this pleasant face and manner that at once The ultimate hope is to have attracted my attention. He began in

> "I am reminded of the boy who killed a possum and expected to enjoy a possum dinner the next day. The family was about to sit down to the dinner table when a wagon drove up and a neighbor's family came in. The head of the house announced that the visitors had come to dinner. There was no room at the table for our young friend, the sportman, and he waited, with his eyes anxiously fixed on the dish of possum. The guests had good appetites. Finally there was only one piece of possum left, and one of his own family took that. Then the possum lover busted right out a-crying. The disappointment was too much for him.

"My friends," continued Mr. Clark, 'I am in that same condition. When I heard the first speech, I thought, wellthat is pretty bad, but still I have something left to say. Then there came the next speech, and the next, and when the last speaker finished I just busted right out a-crying, because there was not another thing left for me to say."

But there was, and he said it too.

He awakened that audience till you could hear its applause a mile away.

I think that that was probably the first time Champ Clark ever spoke in St. Charles county. He carried back home with him the thanks and appreciation of a good many of his hearers that day. -St. Louis Republic.

How Mines Are Bought Nowadays.

The time has passed when mine properties are bought on assays. The higher the ore goes the more suspicious the investor becomes. A mining proposition, to receive attention in these days, must have a reasonable assay value, and must stand the test of expert examination. A low grade camp, it is said, is better in the long run for the mine owner, and infinitely better for a community in which such mines are situated, as more men are employed and more money is taken out than in camps where the mines are narrow and rich. This is shown in the Cœur d'Alenes, where shing to the taste, and acts over 60,000 tons of ore are mined monthly to produce 10,000 tons of concentrates. Every one is benefited where Mine investors have become suspicious because in the past they have been most unmercifully worked by unscrupulous mining men and promoters. Mine experting has become a science, and it is a difficult thing to improve upon a mine expert of national reputation, and only men of this character are employed to and agrecable substances, its pass upon a mining proposition the purellent qualities commend it chase of which involves the expenditure od have made it the most of large sums of money. - Spokane Spokesman-Review.

You Nice New Woman!

This may be the era of the new woman, devoted to intellect, philanthropy, politics and science, and ignoring all pretty feminine fads, but one would not suppose her reign an entirely compre-hensive one to read all the literature of fashion that is being published, and not only published, but read with avidi-Perhaps the new woman herself has been unable to eliminate wholly from her complex and superior being the fond, trivial records of toilets, gowns, textures and trimmings and cannot resist an indulgance more or less secret in the same. At any rate, there has been no time when women generally dressed more becomingly and so well as the present. One cannot now pick out the writing or the lecturing or the professional woman by her neglected dress and dowdyish appearance. - Philadelphia Times.

BEAUTIFUL THOUGH PAINFUL.

We sing "Come, Gentle Spring," and are often very sorry that we did anything of the kind, for Spring, though beautiful, is sometimes very painful. The very luxury we enjoy in the return of the balmy air is the latent source of a great many pains and aches. It is because the nerves are retaxed in this way that they become weak and an easy prey to sudden attacks of neuralgia; a tonic of cold healthul air braces them up and makes them strong against any such attack, but the sudden change to warmth makes them liable to be preyed upon by this disease. For this simple reason the great nerve disorder has many victims at this time, but we have in St. Jacobs Oil something that restores the tone, vigor and strength of the nerves to what they had been. The prompt use of it in these neural-ic attacks of spring time is sure to be followed by a perfect cure. enjoy in the return of the balmy air is

Patronizing Infants.

A characteristic instance was given at dinner party lately of the present day tendency for children to patronize their parents. At a preparatory school the children were told to write down what they thought to be the object of education. One small boy wrote, "The object of education is to be able to talk for your father and mother when you go abroad, " and another boy, doubtless remembering the oft repeated reflection at home, when he had fallen into some scrape, that "the holidays would soon be over and he would be safely back at wrote, with unconscious cynicism, "The object of education is to get you out of your parents' way.
